U.S. Financial Intervention Near in Cuba

One and a Half Billions Stake of Americans on Island.

Republic's Floating Debt Steadily Rises Near Danger Point.

(Copyright, 1933, by United Press.)

Havana, Aug. 17 (U.P.).—The likelihood of "financial intervention" by the United States in an effort to protect the hundreds of millions of dollars of American investments in Cuba was admitted today in well-informed semiofficial quarters as the provisional government turned its attention to the problem of setting the republic's finances aright.

The complete reconstruction of Cuba's economy—industry, agriculture, commerce and the revenues possible from these—appeared inevitable if these investments and the future of the Cuban people are to be protected and assured.

Official consideration is being given a plan for the invitation of a commission of economic and monetary experts from the United States to make a study of this situation at once.

Prof. Edwin Kemmerer, of Princeton University, has been mentioned frequently for this task. Cuban financiers were in correspondence with Prof. Kemmerer in 1927 and he may again be interested in coming to Cuba should he be invited.

The American stake in Cuba is enormous. One and one-half billions of dollars are invested in Cuban industry, commerce and public utilities. Approximately $160,000,000 in bonds and other obligations are owed American banks or foreign bondholders, mostly in the United States.

The floating debt of Cuba has been increasing steadily, and unless a scientific readjustment of the country's tax system is made soon, there is danger of a deficit in the $42,000,000 budget of the present fiscal year—ending June 30, 1934—that might reach $10,000,000.

Three Die in Disorders.

Havana, Aug. 17 (AP).—Two men were killed in the vicinity of the capital and one at Camaguey today as a drive against supporters of former President Gerardo Machado was renewed.

Especial objects of the drive are members of the Porra, a former secret strong-arm police force, a number of whose members already have been slain. Authorities at Principe Prison said 40 men reputed to be Porristas are confined there in special cells.

It was announced tonight, after a meeting of representatives of shipping interests and the strikers, that dock laborers and launch operators had agreed to return to work at 7 a. m. tomorrow. Longshoremen and stevedores decided to continue their strike when recognition of their union was not forthcoming.

Dr. Manuel Marquez Sterling, who has been living in exile in Washington, cabled his acceptance of the post of ambassador to the United States.

Weather Bureau Warns Of Tropical Disturbance

(Associated Press.)

The Weather Bureau last night issued the following storm warning:

Second disturbance slight intensity about latitude 13, longitude 65. Third disturbance considerable intensity, attended by gales, central, latitude 18, longitude 52, moving westward.

Zermatt, Switzerland, Aug. 17 (AP).—Two persons were killed in a plunge of 1,200 feet today after they climbed Mount Weisshorn, which is 14,800 feet high. Latest information from the mountains indicated both were Swiss, all Americans in the region being accounted for.

One of the dead was identified as the Swiss guide, Franz Lochmatter, who is widely known in the region.

Upside-Down Flying Mark Set by Burcham

Long Beach, Calif., Aug. 17 (AP).—Although he ran out of gasoline and was forced down, Milo Burcham, Long Beach flying instructor, made a new upside-down flying record today of 2 hours 20 minutes and 53 seconds.

The record of 2 hours 8 minutes 55 seconds was set by Lieut. Tito Falconi, of the Italian air service, last week.

His injuries were not serious and he was able to return to his hotel. The American consulate has been informed.

Chief Examiner

LAWSON A. MOYER, who last night was appointed chief examiner of the Civil Service Commission.

Moyer Named Head Examiner Of Civil Service

Appointment to Post Made by Board Seen Merit System Triumph.

The Civil Service Commission last night appointed Lawson A. Moyer, manager of the Fourth Civil Service District, to take over the combined functions of chief examiner and secretary to the commission.

The appointment was a significant triumph for the merit system, and overturned a precedent of 47 years, during which time the office had been filled by the President.

Ruling Reversed Procedure.

It followed by less than 24 hours a decision of the Attorney General reversing the former appointment procedure. The ruling was made at the request of the commission, on recommendation of Dr. Lewis Meriam, of Brookings Institution.

Mr. Moyer, a civil service employe for 19 years, will succeed Dr. Howard A. Edison, chief examiner. The office of secretary, formerly held by E. Claude Babcock, will not be filled, but Mr. Moyer will take over its major duties.

Appointment of the new chief examiner completely set at rest rumors that a "political" appointee might succeed to the combined offices. Mr. Moyer has worked his way up from a clerkship, starting December, 1914.

Post Most Important.

As both technical and executive officer to the commission, he will hold probably the most important personnel post in the civil service system.

Following closely recommendations of Dr. Meriam, the commission will deal with its staff always through this one administrative officer, with a view to centralizing responsibility for effective operation, coordinating interrelated activities, minimizing internal friction and eliminating bureau politics.

Mr. Moyer left the commission to enter the Quartermaster Corps of the Army in February, 1921. He afterward served in a number of capacities with the War Department, advancing through various clerical grades, and on July 1, 1923, was transferred back to the position of secretary of the Fifth United States Civil Service District, with headquarters in Atlanta. In January of last year he was made manager of the Fourth Civil Service District, with offices in this city.

Capital Nurse, 23, Dies in Auto Crash

Marie Fitzpatrick Killed; Norman Love, Driver, Seriously Hurt.

Miss Marie Fitzpatrick, 23, of Altoona, Pa., a student nurse at St. Elizabeths Hospital, was almost instantly killed early today when the auto in which she was riding crashed into a telephone pole on Good Hope road near Silver Hill, Md.

Her companion, Norman Love, 24, of 3353 Nichols avenue southeast, was seriously injured in the crash, caused, police said, by another car forcing Love's car off the road. Love was driving the car.

The second car fled the scene of the accident, according to witnesses. A passerby rushed Love and Miss Fitzpatrick to Casualty Hospital where the girl was pronounced dead. The impact of the crash broke off the telephone pole, which fell on top of the car. Miss Fitzpatrick was pinned under the pole.

Heavy Fighting Takes 250 Lives in Morocco

Paris, Aug. 17 (AP).—Heavy fighting in Morocco, which during the last week has cost the lives of 250 French soldiers, most of them native troops, was reported in government dispatches today.

It was estimated that 25,000 troops have been engaged in a determined effort to clean up the last rebel strongholds in the Atlas Mountains. Thousands of rebels have surrendered with their families.

Seven soldiers were killed in today's fighting.

Testimony Shows Fat Dividends Paid While Farmers Lost.

The National Dairy Products Corporation has paid dividends since 1929 totaling $45,230,000, exclusive of stock dividends, the Senate Milk Investigating Committee was informed yesterday.

Testimony of A. A. Stickler, treasurer of the corporation, disclosed dividends amounting to $69,150,000 were paid since 1925. His story confirmed articles published by The Post, which resulted in the inquiry.

These dividends were on common and preferred stock. In addition, it was disclosed, stock dividends have been declared so that an original share in the corporation is now the equivalent of 3.8 shares.

$180,000 Salary Paid.

Salaries as high as $180,000 a year were paid by the corporation, Mr. Stickler said. This was the salary of Thomas McInnerney, the head of the company. His salary was reduced to $108,000 last year. Other officers of the company receive annual salaries as high as $30,000, Mr. Stickler testified.

The committee learned from Henry N. Brawner, president of the Chestnut Farms Dairy, that he profited by $2,544,000 when he sold out to the National Dairy. At the time of the sale, the net worth of the company was $1,656,000, it was said, and the sale price was $4,200,000.

This testimony was introduced by Elwood H. Seal, special counsel to the Senate committee, to demonstrate that the corporation has shown huge profits while the dairy farmer has been operating at a loss.

Tells of Price-Fixing Attempt.

Mr. Brawner testified he had attended a meeting at the offices of the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Association, at which an attempt was made to have distributors and producers "fix" the price of milk in the District.

"When they started to discuss prices, I left," Mr. Brawner said.

This meeting, he continued, was attended by Dr. Clyde L. King, who is now milk adviser to the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

John Magill, secretary of the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Association, has denied to the committee that any attempt was made by it to fix prices.

Reduction to the farmer of one cent per gallon for milk used in bottle form was made at the suggestion of I. W. Heeps, marketing agent for Maryland and Virginia Producers, Mr. Brawner said. Dairy farmers have testified that this new price scale has resulted in a 15 per cent shrinkage of their milk checks.

Mr. Stickler, in response to a question of Senator William H. King, declared the National Dairy

U. S.-Cuba Mails Paralyzed 10 Days

Disruption of Service at Havana Revealed by Officials Here.

Mail service between the United States and Cuba has been virtually paralyzed for 10 days, it was revealed yesterday by officials of the Postoffice Department and the Cuban Embassy.

Disruption of postal service in Havana, the only Cuban port through which mail is cleared to the United States, has been the chief reason, Stewart Weber, assistant director of the International Mail Service, reported. All Cuban railways ceased operations about a week before the overthrow of Machado, and mail lines from Havana to Key West reduced service from five to two trips a week, Weber said.

Only air mail has been received at the Cuban Embassy for a week.

Woman Doctor's Trial For Murder Delayed

Greenwood, Miss., Aug. 17 (AP).—Preliminary trial of Dr. Sasah Ruth Dean, child specialist, charged with the poison death of Dr. John Preston Kennedy, her fellow physician, was delayed today because of her illness.

Under guard of a deputy she was confined to a hospital here today, to which she was removed yesterday after a chancery court refused her privilege of bail. Her attorneys had pleaded on a writ of habeas corpus for her release on bond because of illness.

30 Killed in Jamaica Storm; 50,000 Suffer

Kingston, Jamaica, Aug. 17 (AP).—The revised death toll from Wednesday morning's tropical storm and floods reached 30 persons today as a survey of the destruction was completed.

About 50,000 inhabitants were suffering from a water shortage and lack of other supplies.

It was estimated it would take $500,000 to restore homes and provide for the needs of these persons.

Greenwich, Conn., Aug. 17 (U.P.). While Attorney General Homer S. Cummings was in Washington pushing the Government's war against crime, a thief carried off a name plate from his Rockridge estate here, it was learned today.

Mrs. Cummings, who reported the theft, said the name plate, black with gold letters, stood in front of the house.

U. S. Promises $30,000,000 to Dairy Industry

Loan Pledged on Condition Butter, Cheese Surpluses Are Removed.

(Associated Press.)

The dairy industry yesterday was promised a $30,000,000 loan by the Farm Administration to take surplus butter and cheese off the market after a delegation presented a resolution criticizing the administration and demanding quick action.

The money was promised, however, on condition that the industry complete plans that would sharply limit the output of dairy products.

Another condition was that the industry raise the money to repay the Government agency which furnishes the money. The dairymen themselves proposed to do this through a 1-cent-a-pound tax on every pound of butter fat produced.

Neither the Farm Administration nor representatives of the dairy organizations furnished any details on the collection of the proposed tax.

It was agreed it would have to be raised either by a processing tax or a marketing agreement which necessarily would include virtually all the dairy industry. Arrangements are to be worked out at other conferences, beginning Monday.

Santiago, Chile, Aug. 17 (U.P.).—The Chilean government was authoritatively reported today to have replied favorably to an inquiry by the State Department in Washington as to whether Hal Sevier, of Corpus Christi, Tex., former Austin, Tex., publisher, was persona grata as American ambassador to Chile.

Sevier will succeed William S. Culbertson, who is retiring as United States Ambassador here after many years of service.

U. S. Dollar Exchange Equalization Said Near

London, (Friday), Aug. 18 (U.P.). Reports that the United States is on the verge of creating a dollar exchange equalization fund were displayed conspicuously in several morning papers today.

Some predicted an Anglo-American conflict. The fund, if created, would be similar to the British equalization fund designed to regulate the price of the pound sterling in relation to other currencies.

Moscow, Aug. 17 (U.P.).—The government issued an order today legalizing the exchange of diamonds for butter and eggs, or any other commodity needed, from government shops throughout the Soviet Union.

The order also permits the people to sell goods for foreign currency, gold or silver.

Administration Starts Drive To Force Code Acceptance By Four Balking Industries

Gen. Johnson Shows Reporters Big Smile

Underwood & Underwood.

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, administrator of the national recovery act, is shown in a jovial mood yesterday when he told reporters he had presented an acceptable oil code to the President for his approval.

Oil and Steel Proposals Expected to Receive Approval Soon.

Auto Discussions Will Start Today

Government Sanctioned Code Bluntly Handed Petroleum Men.

The administration yesterday apparently broke the jam of big industries which had dammed the flow of industrial codes through the recovery mill.

Brig. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, placed a code before representatives of the oil industry and told them it had been gone over by President Roosevelt and would be submitted for formal approval by the President at 4:30 p. m. today.

Agreement on a code for the steel industry is expected today, Gen. Johnson said. Public hearings for the automobile industry are to begin this morning. Quick decision is expected.

Representatives of the coal industry, another of the major industries which have been fighting recovery administration proposals, have been called into conference with Gen. Johnson and his aids today. Indications were strong that these, too, will be dealt with swiftly.

U. S. Price Fixing.

The code Gen. Johnson bluntly handed the oil men was the first to provide for Government price-fixing and control of production.

It was discussed twice between the President and the recovery administrator. Secretary of the Interior Ickes was present and made sugestions which were incorporated.

Gen. Johnson presented the finished code to the oil men at a gathering in the United States Chamber of Commerce Building in the afternoon.

The meeting lasted about three minutes. Gen. Johnson slapped down a copy of the code, saying in his somewhat hoarse voice:

"This is the code I am going to submit to the President tomorrow afternoon."

Short Meeting.

"Sit down," he barked as some sought to get a copy of the code. "Copies of this will be distributed and anybody who wants can submit a written brief to the Recovery Administration up to 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. This code has been gone over by the President and the Interior Department. It represents the unanimous opinion of the Government."

He turned to the presiding deputy administrator, K. M. Simpson, and told him to "bang the gavel" and end the meeting.

Gen. Johnson predicted the code will meet with the approval of almost the entire industry. There was general agreement on the wage, hours and other provisions. The battle was over the question of limiting production and fixing prices.

Price fixing and production control are vested in the President. The base of the price fixing structure will be a minimum wholesale price for gasoline to be set by the President for a 90-day "test" period. This gasoline price, multiplied by 18.5, will be the base crude oil price. It was estimated that on the basis of current prices this ratio would increase the price of crude oil immediately from 54 to 74 cents. Crude oil prices shall go up with gasoline prices. Prevention of con-

U. S. and Japan Naval Program WorriesLeague

Renewed Arms Rivalries Held as Hindrance to Reduction.

Geneva, Aug. 17 (U.P.).—A dangerous new naval armaments race led by the United States and Japan is feared in League of Nations quarters, officials told the United Press today.

Members of the permanent commission of the world disarmament conference expressed alarm over reports from Washington and Tokyo indicating that Japan and the United States have begun to build up their navies to the limits allowed under the treaties.

This renewed rivalry, it was feared, will make highly difficult any further naval reductions when a new naval conference is held in 1935, as called for by the terms of the London naval treaty of 1930.

Japan, both in the Geneva arms parleys and in statements issued in Tokyo, already has indicated her intention to demand full parity with the United States and England in 1935.

The draft arms limitation convention, on which the disarmament conference is to resume work October 15, has no provisions for limiting naval construction or present naval strengths.

The new American naval program, it was noted here, contains provisions for two 15,000-ton aircraft carriers, a class of warship which Japan fears and has fought to have abolished. Her proposals to this end are now on the table of the arms conference here.

President Roosevelt's decision to bring America's Navy up to full treaty strength as rapidly as possible was due, observers here contend, to Japan's seizure of Manchuria and consequent loss of faith in the United States in the international peace machinery, set up since the end of the World War.

Gandhi Continues Fast Despite Officials' Pleas

Poona, India, Aug. 17 (AP).—Mahatma Gandhi tonight carried on his threatened fast unto death while the government of Bombay, the government of India and the British secretary of state for India in London continued efforts to get the empire's most peaceful yet troublesome prisoner to resume his frugal meals.

It was reported as improbable that the Bombay government will extend privileges it already has offered to Gandhi, but communications were still being sent between London and Simla.

N.Y. Politicians Facing Inquiry

Two Grand Juries Meet to Consider Claim They Aid Racketeers.

New York, Aug. 17 (AP).—Possibility of an investigation by New York County's two grand juries into sensational charges by United States Attorney George Z. Medalie that political leaders were in collusion with racketeers loomed today.

The charges, made earlier in the week before the Senate's subcommittee which is investigating racketeering, were laid before the juries today by their foremen, who were advised of their "great power" by General Sessions Judge William Allen.

Mr. Medalie has expressed willingness, if requested by the juries, to disclose the names of the leaders he says are ruled by gangsters and racketeers.

The impending grand jury inquiry was apparently not favorably received by the acting district attorney, Albert B. Unger, and Tammany Hall leaders. Mr. Medalie is a Republican and was an unsuccessful candidate for United States senator at the November elections last year.

Effort to Assassinate Bulgarian Leader Fails

Sofia, Bulgaria, Aug. 17 (AP).—An unsuccessful attempt was made today to assassinate Alexander Tzankoff, former president of the council of deputies and originator of the coup d'etat which overthrew the regime of Premier Alexander Stambouliski in 1923.

Tzankoff, spending a vacation in southern Bulgaria, was unhurt by two bombs thrown at him.

Bloomsburg, Pa., Aug. 17 (AP).—Transfer inheritance tax appraisements today revealed Secretary of the Treasury William H. Woodin received an estate of $355,300 from his mother, Mrs. Mary Woodin, who died several months ago.

The appraisement showed $22,000 in real estate and the rest in personal property.

2 Survive Wild Night On Lake Erie Sailboat

Chatham, Ont., Aug. 17 (AP).—After being tossed about all night by the heavy waves on Lake Erie, the sailboat Yoo Hoo, owned by Dr. Hillard Hicks, of this city, arrived at Erieau, Ont., today from Cleveland.

Hicks, accompanied by Jack Morley, Chatham, and Angus McFarvin, left Cleveland yesterday and ran into a heavy blow during the night. They lost their bearings and they finally arrived in the vicinity of Port Stanley.

Couzens Raps Banking Ethics In Detroit Quiz

Financiers' Acts Shameful, Says Senator, in Telling "Inside Story."

Detroit, Aug. 17 (AP).—Before a jammed courtroom, United States Senator James Couzens (Republican), Michigan, today related his own "inside story" of events—ranging from the White House to the Dearborn office of Henry Ford—that preceded the Michigan and National Bank holidays, and charged that banker witnesses before an investigating jury here had not "told all they knew."

The jury for several weeks has been investigating the closing of two large national banks in Detroit.

At one point during his day on the witness stand, Mr. Couzens veered from the Michigan banking situation to say that during the last National political campaign former President Herbert Hoover had asked him to issue, "for political purposes," a statement approving the Reconstruction Finance Corporation's $90,000,000 loan to the Chicago bank headed by Charles G. Dawes, former R. F. C. president.

Bankers Bitterly Assailed.

Banker critics of the senator came in for sharp criticism. In blunt, terse phrases he let it be known that he was displeased with bankers' handling of the National crisis.

"A lot of things happened in national banks for which no criminal prosecution can be brought," he said. "But if civilization is to exist and rely only on criminal law and not on morals and ethics, we might as well give up. The ethics of banks here and outside could not be prosecuted, but some of the acts were as vicious and as shameful as could be."

Senator's Retaliation.

Yesterday Wilson W. Mills, former chairman of the First National Bank of Detroit, the country's largest closed bank, accused Mr. Couzens of blocking a R. F. C. loan to the Union Guardian Trust Co., of Detroit, that would, he said, have

Charles A. Levine Held On Counterfeit Charge

Hoboken, N. J., Aug. 17 (U.P.).—A man who said he was Charles A. Levine, first transatlantic air passenger, was held in $2,500 bail today by a United States commissioner on charges of attempting to pass counterfeit money. Levine denied the charge.

Levine insisted he had received a $100 gold certificate in a business deal and that he had no knowledge of it being counterfeit. Bail was provided for his release.

Ogburn, at Home, Denies NRA Feud

Chicago, Aug. 17 (AP).—Prof. William F. Ogburn, University of Chicago social scientist, returned to the campus today and explained that his resignation last week as director of the consumers' board of the NRA was not the result of a feud but to call attention to the plight of the consumer.

His action, he said, was taken to dramatize the fact that no adequate organization had been set up for analyzing proposed codes from the consumers' viewpoint, for considering complaints against profiteering and in fixing standards of quality. He said his resignation had produced the desired effect.

Capital Women 'Beat Barrier' In NRA Housewife Campaign

Washingtonians Two Weeks Ahead of Nation in Pledge Drive.

Women workers in the local NRA campaign are two weeks ahead of their job, it was revealed yesterday.

While the army of 1,000 women were going from house to house obtaining pledges from housewives to cooperate in the recovery program, Miss Etta L. Taggart, their lieutenant general, was informed by Russell I. Whyte, of the Department of Commerce, that the women's canvassing campaign was not supposed to start until August 29.

"I thought that was when the campaign was supposed to end," Miss Taggart said.

"Oh, no," said Whyte.

"Well, we've started," said Miss Taggart, "and we're not going to stop. Canvassing the homes of Washington is a big job and we want all the time possible to do it."

Miss Taggart indicated, however, that she intends to continue her campaign with as much speed as has already been evidenced. Further orders for the women's campaign will be given at a meeting of majors and captains at 2 p. m. today at the Board of Trade offices.

The women will be addressed by Miss Taggart and Mrs. Charles H. Blair, major in charge of the house-to-house campaign.

Captains in charge of the campaign include: Mrs. Leon Arnold, Mrs. Gratan Kerans, Mrs. Horace Phelps, Mrs. Thomas Faris, Mrs. F. C. Hilder, Mrs. George Cornwell, Mrs. R. Kirkpatrick Noble, Mrs. W. L. Broaddus, Mrs. J. Edwin Reid, Mrs. Clara Wright Smith, Mrs. Leonard Schloss, Mrs. E. Avery, Mrs. H. J. Steimer, Mrs. Charles S. Schermerhorn. Other appointments will be made at this afternoon's meeting.

D. J. (Radio Joe) Kaufman reported satisfactory cooperation by radio companies. Miss Taggart will be the first speaker on a series of local NRA broadcasts at 8:30 p. m. today over station WMAL.

Theaters are cooperating 100 per cent, Julian Brylawski announced. NRA trailers are to be shown on Washington screens for eight successive weeks, he said. The trailers will be made by Warner Bros. and Paramount.

Jack Mulhall Charged With Fight in Suit

Los Angeles, Aug. 17 (AP).—Damage suits totaling $135,000 were filed today against Jack Mulhall, film actor, and his friend, Charles Fredericks, by Maurice Fine, Santa Monica style creator, his wife and their two guests, who charged Mulhall and Fredericks invaded the fine apartment without invitation and started a fist fight.

Mulhall and Fredericks were arrested soon after the affray on battery charges and are at liberty on $1,000 bond pending trial August 31.

Cuban Treaty On U. S. Trade Aim of Envoy

Negotiation Will Be First Official Act Here, Says Sterling.

The newly appointed Cuban Ambassador to the United States, Manuel Marques Sterling, plans to immediately negotiate a new commercial treaty with the United States. He has announced this will be his first official act after presenting his credentials to President Roosevelt.

His appointment was officially announced yesterday by the State Department.

Cuba's prosperity depends on the sugar allotment by the United States, the ambassador said.

The recent hearings before the Agricultural Adjustment authorities here failed to fix a quota because of conflicting demands of Philippine, Cuban, Puerto Rican and beet sugar producers. President Roosevelt's final decision on the sugar quota will be based on testimony given at the hearings.

Came Here in 1901.

The representative of the Cuban new deal in Washington is a veteran in the diplomatic and journalistic service of his country.

He came to the United States in 1901 with the Cuban commission which made the friendship treaty with President McKinley.

He was correspondent for Havana newspapers at the Washington Arms Conference. Later he was appointed special ambassador to South American countries, inviting them to the last Pan American Conference at Havana in 1926.

Resigned as Envoy to Mexico.

Ambassador Sterling has been living with his son at 3439 Oliver street, Chevy Chase, for the last three months actively cooperating with the group opposing President Machado. He resigned as Cuban Ambassador to Mexico last July in protest against the Machado government.

When asked whether he was a member of the radical wing of the Cuban Liberal movement, the ambassador replied:

"There are no radical diplomats."

"Jury" of Workers Passes on Ousters

How the Labor Department let a block of its own workers decide which of the department's 30-year employes were most indispensable was disclosed yesterday by Secretary of Labor Perkins.

The disclosure was in answer to charges that compulsory retirement of 30-year employes was made unfairly.

Secretary Perkins said she called on 20 of the department's most experienced workers to submit lists of 25 30-year workers whose services they considered least dispensable.

The first 15 names on each list were nearly identical, she revealed, although none of the "jury" of workers knew others in the group were compiling a list. The department followed this list wherever it could in sparing workers under the 30-year provision.

Market News Service Restored After Protests

(Associated Press.)

Further restoration of funds for the Agriculture Department's market news service yesterday brought this agency, once ordered abolished, to a scale approximating its former status. Protests caused the cancelling of the abolishment order.

Secretary Wallace said the service would have about $1,000,000 available for this fiscal year, as compared with the original appropriation of $1,300,000.

Food Prices Rising Slowly in Capital

Retail food prices in Washington are rising more slowly than they are in the rest of the country, according to the report of the Department of Labor issued yesterday.

On July 15 the retail price index was 6 per cent higher here than it was on June 15. At the same time, the index for the whole country showed an increase of 8½ per cent between June 15 and July 15.

Between June 15 and July 15 prices rose more rapidly in both Baltimore and Richmond than they did here. Over the month period Baltimore and Richmond both showed an increase of 7 per cent, compared to the local rise of 6 per cent. Compared to prices in July, 1932, the Richmond level was 1 per cent higher and the Baltimore level showed the same gain as Washington—less than one-half of 1 per cent.

Court Merciful In Heye Killing

Manger Gets 3 Months in Death on S. S. Bremen of His Friend.

Bremerhaven, Germany, Aug. 17 (AP).—Charles Manger, of Los Angeles, today was sentenced to three months' imprisonment on a charge of involuntary manslaughter in connection with the death of his friend, Karl Werner Heye 3d, of New York, aboard the liner Bremen July 30.

The sentence, pronounced by a jury which heard the state's attorney ask for a mild verdict because Manger had "proved himself an upstanding man," will not take effect until September 30, 1936, if he pays a fine of 3,000 marks ($960) immediately.

Manger's attorney, Dr. Hirschfeld, pleaded that his client completely forgot he had loaded the revolver more than three years ago at Honolulu.

Manger already had suffered most severely because of the accident, Dr. Hirschfeld maintained, and a cloud would hang over his entire life.

The defendant, in a brief plea to the jury, declared he had no intention of killing his friend. When the judge showed him a photograph of Heye, Manger burst into tears.

The wording of the sentence was taken by observers to mean that Manger, a university student, will not be imprisoned at all unless he returns to Germany.

California Orchard Walkout Deferred

Mediators' Appointment Delays Strike Plan of Fruit Pickers.

Fresno, Calif., Aug. 17 (AP).—A general strike in the fruit belt of Fresno called by Pay Chambers, identified as the leader of the Tagus Ranch controversy in Tulare County, was deferred today when announcement was made that mediators had been named.

The general strike was called when those in charge of the Tagus walkout learned that workers were to be imported from Fresno and the Sacramento Valley to take the place of the Tagus ranch employes who were asking an increase from the 15 to 17½ cents an hour wage.

President L. E. Wood, of the California Packing Corporation, wired W. C. Griffin, superintendent of the Atwater and Tuttle ranches announcing an increase from 17½ to 25 cents per hour, effective at once.

Chorines Get $30 Under Stage Code

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt yesterday approved a code of fair competition for the legitimate stage industry.

The theatrical code, the ninth to receive Presidential approval, provides for a 40-hour work week for actor employes and sets up minimum wages of $40 to $50 for actors with more than two years' experience.

Actors with less than two years' experience will receive a minimum wage of $25. The minimum wage for chorus members was fixed at $30. It becomes effective August 28.

Farley From Bed Asks Colorado to Aid Repeal

The luxuries of modern science were applauded yesterday by Postmaster General Farley as he revealed that he had addressed the Colorado Legislature while lolling at his ease in bed, dressed in a pair of green pajamas.

He spoke into his telephone here Wednesday night, and the speech was carried over telephone wires to Colorado, where it was amplified so the legislators could hear. Mr. Farley was in bed when the telephone rang to notify him arrangements were complete.

"All right," he said, "I'll go right ahead." And he launched into a 10-minute plea for repeal.

Machado Planning Philadelphia Home

Philadelphia, Aug. 17 (AP).—Separated now by hundreds of miles of land and sea, Cuba's exiled "first family" planned today a reunion in Philadelphia to take up permanent residence here.

Daniel Crawford, jr., manager of the hotel in which the Machado family is staying after fleeing the island republic, said the deposed president, Gerardo Machado, had told his family by telephone to remain in this city until he joins them to complete plans for settling here permanently.

Earlier Crawford announced that Jose Emilio Obregon, millionaire banker and son-in-law of the exiled chief executive, had commissioned him to look for a home or estate in Philadelphia or its suburbs for the family.

"You are safe there," Crawford said Machado told members of his family in one of five telephone calls from his place of exile in Nassau, the Bahamas.

Head of Ecuador Refuses to Resign

Vote of Nonconfidence in Cabinet Scorned by Martinez Mera.

Quito, Ecuador, Aug. 17 (AP).—President Juan Martinez Mera sent a special message to Congress today, refusing to accept a vote of nonconfidence.

The executive yesterday addressed a message to Congress in which he refused to accede to a request that he resign. Congress authorized a commission to call upon him demanding that he bow to the popular will "in the name of democracy."

The lawmaking body later voted nonconfidence in the cabinet for supporting the president's stand.

Opposition congressmen based their demand for the resignation on a charge that the president was elected fraudulently. Martinez Mera pointed out in his message yesterday, however, that the same group which demanded his withdrawal had conducted an examination of the election and pronounced him legally chosen.

Newport, Wash., Aug. 17 (AP).—Three days after he started hiccoughing, E. G. Sherman, 76, a former county commissioner of Pend Oreille County, died at his home here today. He had been ill several months.

Political Prisoners Escape in Germany

Warsaw, Poland, Aug. 17 (AP).—The Polish Telegraphic Agency received press reports from Grodno today that several political prisoners had escaped from an East Prussian concentration camp into Poland.

Among them was a former socialist member of the Reichstag, it was reported, who was wounded by German border guards while crossing the frontier.

Matador Objects To 'Bull Thrower'

New York, Aug. 17 (AP).—Sidney Franklin, the Brooklyn boy who made good in the bull rings of Madrid, objects to being called a "bull thrower."

He voiced his objection today in an affidavit filed in Supreme Court in a suit in which he seeks $100,000 damages and an injunction restraining Columbia Pictures, Inc., from distributing a film called "Throwing the Bull," in which Franklin appears.

Franklin said he displayed his skill as a matador in the picture, only to have the narrator describe him as a "Bull Thrower," and refer to him in a "leering, jocular and undignified manner." Franklin also charged that several parts of burlesque bull fights in which the bull appeared on roller skates also were included in the film.

$65,000,000 Allocated for Public Works

$44,200,000 Granted to Aid in Building New York Bridge.

(Associated Press.)

With President Roosevelt applying the spurs to the temporary recovery drive, the Public Works Administration yesterday announced allocations of $65,000,000 for speeding employment through construction.

Allocations approved included $44,200,000 for the Triborough Bridge project in New York; $11,527,499 for 29 public buildings in 22 States, and almost $10,000,000 for the first group of housing projects to eliminate slums.

These were the biggest expenditures by far approved up to this time for non-Federal projects. All have received favorable action at the White House, either formally or informally.

26 Postoffice Buildings.

Secretary Ickes, public works administrator, in announcing Federal projects, which include 26 postoffice buildings, a quarantine station, a border station, and an office building, said they were needed and therefore properly included.

The Cabinet Board in charge of public works program also established a scale of minimum wages for the construction projects under its jurisdiction, ranging from $1 to $1.20 an hour for skilled labor, and from 40 to 50 cents for unskilled labor.

To Link Three Boroughs.

The huge New York bridge project, for which funds were advanced to the Triborough Bridge Authority, will connect the boroughs of Manhattan, Bronx and Queens.

Under the terms of the recovery act, the public works board agreed to make an outright grant of $7,200,000, or 30 per cent, toward the project, and lend $37,000,000 for 20 years with interest at 4 per cent on bonds constituting a first lien against revenue from the bridge.

Direct and indirect employment from the project was estimated by officials at 18,000 man years of work. A "man year" of work means a full year's employment for one man.

Sapiro Fights Illinois Extradition Attempt

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 17 (AP).—Taking the witness stand in his own behalf, Aaron Sapiro, organizer of farm cooperatives who once sued Henry Ford charging libel, swore to Gov. Lehman today that he was in New York City on May 30 last, and not engaged in a laundry "racket" in Chicago, as claimed in an indictment against him there. Gov. Lehman reserved decision on the Illinois request for Sapiro's extradition.

Sapiro was indicted with Al Capone and others on a charge of conspiracy to commit malicious mischief as counsel for the Chicago Laundry Owners Association.

Long Wires Ended; U. S. to Use Air Mail

President's Council Acts to Prevent Waste in Telegraph Tolls.

(Associated Press.)

Postmaster General Farley, who runs the air mail, yesterday announced the descent of an administrative ax upon wasted telegraphic wordage in all Federal departments.

No more burning of wires with messages to Gov. L. A. Miller of Wyoming on the cotton textile code. No more red-hot dope to congressmen from big cities on the agricultural situation.

"By authority of President Roosevelt's executive council, a bulletin is being sent to the head of every executive agency in the Government, directing the use of air mail for all but the most urgent Government messages," the Postmaster General announced.

A "turn-out-the-lights" campaign also was launched yesterday by the Postoffice Department. A weekly check-up by postmasters throughout the country to see that employes are turning off lights not needed was requested by William Evans, Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, in the department's daily bulletin. He also asked that lower power bulbs be substituted where possible and that bulbs and globes be kept clean to give maximum light at minimum cost.

Wheat Exports On Subsidized Basis Planned

Idea Would Help Western States; New Grain and Cotton Tax Likely.

(Associated Press.)

Developing plans for the subsidized export of wheat at prices below the American level were announced yesterday at the Agriculture Department in the same breath with the heralding of a prospect for additional processing taxes on wheat and cotton.

During a day in which major developments or enunciations of policy in the application of the farm act to agricultural production tumbled swiftly one after another at administration headquarters, the following points stood out:

Administrators summoned a conference for Monday at Portland, Oreg., to discuss plans for raising wheat prices by shipping part of that area's surplus to the Orient, under which exporters would be reimbursed for losses in selling at less than the American price.

Additional Processing Taxes.

Secretary Wallace announced that should wheat and cotton prices continue to sag there was strong possibility of additional taxes being imposed on manufacturers or processors of the products, with the benefits returning "eventually" to the farmer.

Administrators said a well-defined long-time program for the reduction of cotton acreage probably would be completed by September 15, including both the 1934 and 1935 crops.

Mr. Wallace estimated that farmers participating in this year's cotton reduction campaign would be required to pay back debts to the Government amounting to less than $10,000,000 of the $110,000,000 to be distributed, and only then if the individual financial conditions permitted.

No Back Debt Payments.

Wheat producers who qualify for benefits under the wheat acreage reduction program will not be required to return any part to the Government to pay back debts, it was said.

Douglas McIntyre, Farm Administration wheat marketing staff member, will head its representatives at the Portland conference with grain interests of the Pacific Northwest.

Mr. McIntyre will be assisted by Ray Miller, who is helping the staff in developing export outlets for surplus American farm products.

George N. Peek, chief administrator of the farm act, said that approximately 50,000,000 bushels of wheat in the Pacific Northwest would be available for export and that its movement into foreign markets would aid domestic wheat prices.

By moving wheat abroad from that area, Mr. Peek said it would prevent the product from finding its way into Eastern American markets by shipment through the Panama Canal.

U.S.S.R. Recognition Arises

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Wallace said yesterday the question of recognizing Russia had arisen in negotiations for the sale of cotton to that country and that the Amtorg Trading Corporation, Soviet commercial agency, had been "playing a rather coy game for recognition."

Former Senator Brookhart (Republican), Iowa, Eastern European trade adviser for the Farm Administration, has been carrying on negotiations with the Amtorg for the cotton sale.

Mr. Wallace commented that the proposed sale, involving the exportation of 1,000,000 bales of American cotton to Russia, would "be very helpful."

New York, Aug. 17 (AP).—Peter A. Bogdanov, chairman of the board of the Amtorg Trading Corporation, expressed surprise tonight at the declaration in Washington of Mr. Wallace that Amtorg is "playing a coy game" for the recognition of the U. S. S. R.

"The fact is," said Mr. Bogdanov, "that the only business and concern of Amtorg is to develop and promote trade and commercial relations between the United States and the U. S. S. R.

Plane Designs To Be Studied At Conference

Revised Requirements for Civil Aircraft Will Be Discussed Sept. 14.

Revised airworthiness requirements for civil aircraft, now being considered by the aeronautics branch of the Department of Commerce, will result in much more efficient planes, according to Eugene L. Vidal, director of air regulation.

A conference will be held here September 14 with designers and manufacturers of airplanes, when the proposed new requirements will be discussed.

Based on Late Tests.

"Heretofore," he explained, "design requirements have been based largely on experience, rather than on theoretical considerations of the performance of specific aircraft. This was due to the limits of available aerodynamic and structural knowledge. However, during the past two years, Government agencies and outside bodies, have concentrated on practical aircraft engineering problems which needed to be solved. The knowledge gained from the solution of these problems has been incorporated in the revised requirements.

"Under these new requirements there will not be an ounce of unnecessary dead weight in an airplane's structure. It also will be possible to predict accurately just what the performance limitation of any airplane will be under different conditions, and this will make possible airplanes that will carry larger pay loads with greater safety.

To Cut Express Weight.

"We know much more about metals, welding, stresses in structure, and many things which will make it unnecessary to add excess strengths, and more positively will reveal possible weak spots."

A tentative draft of the requirements is printed as Aeronautics Bulletin, No. 7-A. The revised and accepted standards will go into effect the first of the year. Meantime designers are urged to take full advantage of reference material of the National Advisory Committee on Aeronautics, the Army, the Navy and other responsible bodies.

Radio Aids Blind Landings.

Blind airplane landings in fog, long considered aviation's greatest barrier, soon will be common practice, Maj. J. Carroll Conde, director of aeronautics of the Department of Commerce, told the Kiwanis Club at its Mayflower Hotel meeting yesterday.

Perfection of radio landing beam devices will make blind landing entirely feasible, he said.

Inflation Urged To Halt Farm Price Declines

Wallace Says Pressure Would Be Relieved Only Temporarily.

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt was pressed yesterday to wield his emergency inflation powers immediately in an effort to arrest the fall in farm commodity prices and to boost others.

Secretary Wallace, widely known as an inflationist before he entered the Roosevelt Cabinet, gave newspapermen a surprise statement that he considered inflation would lift the farm problem pressure only "temporarily."

Pleads for Notes.

The Chief Executive, watching carefully the price trend, is keeping his own counsel upon any currency moves he may have in mind.

Senator Smith, of South Carolina, and Representative Jones, of Texas, the chairmen of the Senate and House agricultural committees, urged Mr. Roosevelt to issue non-interest bearing Treasury notes to meet Government obligations.

"There is power to issue $3,300,000,000 in Treasury notes," said Senator Smith. "I would use these or whatever amount is necessary to pay for the Government's projects.

"Unless commodity prices are raised we will have no NRA. I don't think it would take over $2,000,000,000 to turn the trick."

Wants United States Control.

Senator George (Democrat), Georgia, also called at the White House, saying afterward he had suggested that if any inflation is put into effect, it be done directly by the Government through the Federal Reserve System rather than through any bank.

The President received a brief visit from George Leblanc and Robert Harriss, of New York, who are interested in the monetary problem. They did not talk about their visit, and Mr. Roosevelt maintained silence.

Farrington Death Found Accidental

Leonardtown, Md., Aug. 17 (Spl.).—A verdict of accidental death from drowning was issued today at the inquest into the death of Dr. John M. Farrington, 28, of Mechanicsville, whose body was found at Paw Paw Inlet yesterday.

Magistrate John Drury conducted the inquest. An autopsy revealed no injuries or other signs of violence. Funeral services will be held tomorrow in Washington, with burial there in Mount Olivet Cemetery. Surviving are his widow and infant son, and two sisters, Misses Mary and Margaret, of Washington.

U. S. Acts to Force Code Acceptances tinually sky-rocketing prices lies in the power to fix the gasoline base.

The President is to fix National production at a point to balance consumer demand. The total production allowed is to be allocated among oil producing States. State agencies are to regulate production within their own borders. Shipment would be forbidden from States which exceed their quotas.

The same bluntness with which the administration moved to settle the oil problem is expected to be used by the Government in its dealings with the steel and coal codes.

Gen. Johnson conferred with various leaders in the bituminous industry yesterday and is to meet with a larger group today. John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, a member of the labor advisory board, was in the corridor outside while the conference took place yesterday, but apparently nothing developed to cause any flare-up.

There were several gatherings of representatives of the steel industry with Recovery Administration officials. Indications were that not all had been love feasts, but they continued into the night, and Gen. Johnson said an agreement was nearly reached and probably would be today. He denied any intention to issue an ultimatum and denied his procedure in handling the oil code had differed from his former practice.

The automobile industry submitted a revised code at conferences. The major change was in the so-called open shop provisions proposed by the industry in the code formerly submitted by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. It had declared for continuance of the open shop policy, which had resulted in unusually satisfactory and harmonious relations. It was changed to say employers "may continue the open shop policy under which the selection, retention and advancement of employes will be on the basis of individual merit without regard to their affiliation or nonaffiliation with any labor or other organization."

Organized labor leaders are expected to fight the modification as in violation of the intent of the collective bargaining provisions of the recovery law. Public hearings are to being on the code at 10 a. m. this morning under Deputy Administrator Robert Lea in the Commerce Department Auditorium. Henry Ford is not a subscriber to the proposed code and has not been heard from.

Codes for other industries were submitted. These included the copper, chemical and automatic sprinkler industries. Modifications were approved for the baking and ice industries, while public hearings were held for codes for the optical, retail lumber, and the hat, hat supplies and cap industries.

More than 1,000,000 retail stores, with employes numbering between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000 will be affected by public hearings which will begin on the retail code on Tuesday. The retail drug code will be heard the following Friday.

I.C.C. Approves Merger Plans Of Rock Island

Authorizes Consolidation With 11 Subsidiaries to Aid Credit.

(Associated Press.)

Merger into one corporation for ownership, management and operation of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway and its eleven subsidiaries was authorized conditionally by the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday in line with the system's effort to improve its credit and effect economies.

Final orders approving unification of the properties, which operate 8,358 miles of line in 14 States, will be withheld until the system has complied with certain accounting methods now being studied by the commission.

May Acquire Grain Carrier.

Another condition laid down was that the parent company bind itself, if the commission subsequently deems it necessary, to acquire the Wichita Northwestern, a grain carrying railroad.

James E. Gorman, president of the Rock Island, testified at hearings on the proposed merger that its primary object was to give the company power to secure its bonds by direct lien upon all the properties.

He said further that bankers held the unification would greatly improve the credit of the Rock Island and permit its bonds to be marketed more easily and at better prices.

Cites Other Benefits.

The merger, he added, also would result in savings by conserving the time of officers, dispensing with corporate meetings, and eliminating records, reports and other incidents of the maintenance of separate corporations.

Since application for the merger was filed, the Rock Island has petitioned the Federal courts for reorganization under the new bankruptcy relief act. The courts held the petition was properly filed and also consented to the prosecution of the merger application before the commission.

Couzens Assails Ethics of Bankers prevented the Michigan bank holiday, declared February 14.

Mr. Couzens retaliated today with a statement that not only himself but "every responsible Government official" had opposed the loan because of insufficient collateral, declared the loan would not have prevented the closing of the banks, and charged Mr. Mills with failing to tell "all he knew" about the State's bank crisis.

He suggested that his questioner, Prosecutor Harry S. Toy, ask Mr. Mills to tell "of the millions in default by employes and officers, and of the loans to favored ones." He startled the courtroom by charging that as early as last November, four months before the bank crisis in Michigan, the Federal Government told First National officials that the solvency of their bank was a matter of serious doubt, but declined to give the name of the Federal officials, saying the matter was "confidential."

Conferences With Ford.

The senator, reading from his manuscript, told of conferences with Henry Ford by telephone, and said that he (Couzens) offered to enter a joint guarantee with the motor magnate that the Government would not suffer loss if it loaned the Union Guardian $45,000,000, instead of the $37,700,000 which the R. F. C. agreed was the limit under collateral offered.

Mr. Ford, he said, refused the offer, presumably because he did not want to "involve himself further" in the trust company. He also corroborated previous testimony that Mr. Ford had refused to "freeze" $7,500,000 on deposit in the trust company to assist in obtaining the loan. He said he was informed by Melvin Traylor, Chicago banker, that one reason the State holiday had been decided on was "so that Ford and others on the inside could not withdraw their deposits."

Police Leave Man, Robbers Get $350

Holdup Occurs Shortly After Escort Turns Back at Precinct Line.

A few minutes after a police escort had left him, Jesse B. Smith, of 2141 K street northwest, was robbed of $350 near Union Terminal Market yesterday.

Smith, a produce dealer, asked for an escort from the Third Precinct station after he had noticed two men who had been watching his home for several days.

As he started for his place of business the two men were standing near his home. But Smith was escorted by two policemen. At the precinct boundary line the policemen turned back.

When Smith arrived at the market the two men were there and they attacked him as he left his automobile.

Police Station Used By Bold Swindlers

St. Louis, Aug. 17 (AP).—Confidence men who impersonated detectives, going so far as to take their victim into the lobby of police headquarters to lend the situation the proper realistic touch, swindled Timothy E. Canty, a railroad clerk, out of $500, he reported to police today.

Canty reported that two "detectives" arrested him on a faked charge, persuaded him to withdraw $500 from his bank account to make bond and then took him to the lobby of police headquarters, where one of them walked up to the information desk and spoke briefly to the clerk on duty.

Returning to Canty, he exhibited a paper which he represented as a bail bond. The man instructed Canty to put his $500 in an envelope with the bond. When Canty complied he was told to "go back to work and don't worry. We'll call you when you have to appear."

Culpeper, Va., Aug. 17 (Spl.).—Explosion of a boiler at a sawmill on the R. G. Quaintance farm, near Woodville, which sent fragments of machinery hurtling into the air, caused the death of Robert Wesley Tanner, 18, who was struck by a piece of iron as he approached the mill, although 100 yards away.

George Tanner, father of the young man, and five other men, who were operating the mill, were shocked by the blast, but otherwise unhurt.

Funeral services were held at the Tanner residence at Rudasill Mills and burial took place in the family burying ground, with the Rev. William Norman, of the Church of the True Gospel, officiating.

Lawyer Hints Others Linked To 4 Killings

Ohioan Held in Poison Mass Murder Pleads Not Guilty.

Benton, Ark., Aug. 17 (AP).—Hinting that he may make new disclosures shortly implicating one or more persons, Mark H. Shank, 41-year-old attorney of Akron, Ohio, pleaded not guilty before a justice of the peace here today to the poison murder of four persons.

Shank told Sheriff Virgil Rucker and an Akron newspaperman whom he knew that he would not elaborate on his written confession to the quadruple poison slaying of Alvin Colley, his wife and two small sons, until his law partner, Fred Cain, arrives from Akron.

When Cain arrives, Shank said, he might disclose new information that would enlarge upon the motive aready advanced—that he feared implication and prosecution in a theft of State's evidence against a client of his, a theft with which Colley was charged.

For the first time since he was captured, shortly after Colley and one of his sons were found dead in their automobile, Mrs. Colley and another son dying and a third child, 3 years of age, suffering from the poison, Shank showed emotion today when the Akron newspaperman talked with him. Tears came in his eyes as he showed a telegram he had received from his wife, telling him "Have all confidence in you; love."

The arraignment before Justice of the Peace J. P. Carter was a formality, Shank waiving preliminary hearing and being ordered held without bond for action by the Saline County grand jury, September 4. Following this he was taken under heavy guard to Little Rock for safekeeping.

Products Corporation is the largest vendor of dairy products in the country. It embraces every State in the Union, he said, as well as foreign countries.

When the corporation was started in 1925, he said, its assets were listed at $11,000,000, which increased to $209,000,000 in 1932. At first its good will was listed as $1. Good will is now listed among intangible assets as $22,000,000, he said.

In 1932 the company made net profits of $12,000,000, exclusive of $9,000,000 charged to depreciation and $9,000,000 for maintenance and repair, he testified. Cash on hand in 1932 totaled $25,000,000. This was one and a half times greater than the company's current liabilities.

King Hints "Watered Stock."

Determination to learn whether National Dairy Corporation gained its control of milk distribution by issuance of watered stock was expressed by Senator King. His statement came during the examination of A. D. Graham, chairman of the First National Bank of Baltimore.

Mr. Graham said his bank had engineered the sale to National Dairies of the Western Maryland-Fairfax Dairies and the Chevy Chase Dairy. The Western Maryland-Fairfax controls 90 per cent of milk distribution in Baltimore. Subsequent to the sale, he said, he was placed on the board of directors of the Western Maryland-Fairfax Farms Dairy.

Hearings will be resumed Monday.

4 Texans Held In Kidnap Case Move for Bail

Family Suspected as Aids of Urschel Abductors Employ Counsel.

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 17 (AP).—Four persons held in the county jail in connection with the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma City oil millionaire, moved today to obtain their release on bond while Department of Justice agents awaited word from Washington concerning disposition of Harvey J. Bailey.

No Effort by Bailey.

Bailey made no attempt to make his bond of $100,000, set yesterday by Lee R. Smith, United States commissioner, when he was arraigned on a Federal warrant.

He said he would employ counsel when the "proper time" came.

Grady Woodruff, State senator from Decatur, and Sam Sayers, Fort Worth attorney, obtained permission to visit R. G. Shannon, on whose farm Bailey was arrested last Saturday near Paradise, Tex., and said they would seek reduction of the amount of the bond. Shannon, his wife, their son, Armon, and Armon's wife were held on bond of $50,000 each.

The Shannons protested they could not raise $200,000.

Border Watched for Kelly.

Reports were received, meanwhile, from Laredo, Tex., on the Rio Grande, that George Kelly, sought with Bailey, and George Bates, arrested Saturday at Denver as the Urschel kidnapers, might be in that vicinity. Police of that border town learned that a motor car believed to be carrying Kelly was headed for Laredo and that two cars carrying several men and a woman were following close behind.

5 Kidnap Suspects Freed.

St. Paul, Aug. 17 (AP).—Five men held here on conspiracy charges as a result of the Charles F. Urschel kidnaping were freed today and all accusations against them dropped.

Werner Hanni, in charge of the Department of Justice here, said there was no evidence to connect them with abduction of the millionaire Oklahoma oil man beyond their possession and handling part of the marked ransom money.

The money turned up here after a liquor deal between a Minneapolis bootlegger and an unidentified stranger. The five men are Sam Kozberg, St. Paul manufacturing drug official; Sam J. Kronick, barber supply and cosmetic company head; William Nelson, unemployed truck driver; Charles Wolk, officer of a transfer company, and Barney Berman, all of Minneapolis.

Boston Abduction Foiled.

Milton, Mass., Aug. 17 (AP).—William J. McClusky, local water commissioner and instructor in military science in Boston high schools, tonight reported to police an attempt to kndnap his 8-year-old daughter, Ann.

McClusky said his daughter told him that as she was returning home from the library about 8:30 p. m. a "large black automobile" backed into the driveway of the McClusky home and a man leaped out and tried to force her into the car.

She resisted, and her dog, Pooch, attacked the man so savagely that he ran back into the car and drove away at a high speed, McClusky said.

The McCluskys live in the exclusive Blue Hills Parkway section.

Clerk Held in Kidnap Plot.

Vineland, N. J., Aug. 17 (AP).—A 24-year-old drug store clerk was arrested today by Federal authorities, who said he admitted writing a letter threatening to kidnap or kill the daughter of a wealthy grain merchant by whom he was formerly employed.

The prisoner, Albert Goldstein, was taken into custory at the store in which he worked. Federal agents said that when he was arrested he asserted, "It was all a joke." He was held for $25,000 bail for the Federal grand jury. The letter, received by Herman Schwartz at his summer home in Atlantic City, threatened Schwartz's 11-month-old daughter, Shirley.

Kentucky Suspect Held.

Shelbyville, Tenn., Aug. 17 (AP).—Thomas W. Wordeagle, charged with participation in the kidnaping of Claude Boyd, 38, at Hopkinsville, Ky., the night of August 9, was held in $100,000 bond today by United States Commissioner Edwin T. Nance to await action by the Federal grand jury.

Negro Held as Kidnaper.

Atlanta, Aug. 17 (AP).—Paul Jones, escaped Negro convict, was ordered held under $20,000 bond today by United States Commissioner Ed S. Griffith on charges of kidnaping a rural mail carrier and a traveling salesman.

Daniels and Calles Plan LatinProgram

Mexico City, Aug. 17 (AP).—Ambassador Josephus Daniels revealed today he has been discussing with former President Plutarco Elias Calles the part to be played by Mexico and the United States in the forthcoming conference of North and South American nations at Montevideo.

Gen. Calles, who is chairman of a commission named to determine Mexico's program at the Pan-American meeting, told Daniels he considered it the psychological time for the American nations to bring about unity in the commercial and economic fields.

President Roosevelt was praised by the former Mexican chief executive for "his courage of initiating reconstructive measures."

Central Office For Purchases Ready to Open

New Agency Will Function in September; Bureaus to Be Transferred.

The centralized purchasing and disbursing agency of the Government, created by recent reorganization orders, will begin functioning the first week in September, it was learned last night at the Public Buildings Commission.

The commission, meeting with Senator Connally, chairman, determined to house the new agency in the Treasury Department Annex at East Executive and Pennsylvania avenues.

The first step in forming the new unit will be taken early next month, Harold A. Candland, commission secretary, said.

Schedule of Transfers.

At its meeting yesterday the commission also established a schedule of transfers to house new agencies and bring subordinate activities closer to their heads.

The Coast Guard, now housed in the annex, will be moved to the Wilkins Building, on H street near Fifteenth. This building is now occupied by the Veterans' Bureau. A part of the veterans' unit will be transferred to the Arlington Building. The disbursing agency of the Veterans' Bureau, now in the Wilkins Building, will change places with the Coast Guard, being established in the annex.

The disbursing activities of the Veterans' Bureau will form the nucleus of the new unified disbursing office for all Government agencies. After the veterans' unit is established in its new quarters, the disbursing activities of various independent offices will be consolidated with it. Later, about December 1, it is planned to transfer the disbursing offices of the various departments to the central agency.

Other Moves Planned.

A number of other organizations now in the annex will have to be moved. The Bureau of Narcotics, Treasury Department files, and other Treasury offices will have to be transferred. Where these will go has not been decided.

These moves are all dependent on the Treasury Department being willing to pay for them. It was pointed out that only enough money was appropriated for the Buildings Commission to enable them to move Government agencies into the new buildings as they are completed.

Numerous other Government transfers are either under way or ready to start, J. F. Gill, assistant director of the Office of Parks and Buildings, said yesterday. The Federal Stabilization Board has already moved to the Navy Building. Quarters used by the Shipping Board were vacated by a rearrangement of this unit, providing space for the Stabilization Board.

The headquarters of the Tennessee Valley Authority will be moved from the Interior Buildings to Temporary Building F at Seventh street and Constitution avenue northwest. The Conservation Corps will also be moved out of the Interior Buildings to Temporary Building No. 2, at Twenty-first and C streets northwest.

Arrests Expected For Train Wreck

Salisbury, Md., Aug. 17 (AP).—As the inquiry into the wrecking of the "Cavalier," fast Pennsylvania Railroad passenger train near here last Saturday, ended late today, one of the railroad officials participating in the investigation declared "it would not surprise me if arrests are made most anytime."

Four persons—the engineer, fireman and two Negro "train riders"—were killed and four were hurt as the engine and several cars left the tracks.

The formal hearing, conducted by railroad officials and two representatives of the Safety Bureau of the Interstate Commerce Commission, began Sunday. Twenty witnesses were summoned to testify.

NRA Attempts Settlement of Garment Strike

Grover Whalen Acts as Mediator in Walkout in New York.

New York, Aug. 17 (AP).—Representatives of 60,000 striking garment workers met today with NRA mediators in an attempt to eliminate sweatshops and establish better wage levels while police dealt with minor disorders arising from the general trade walkout.

The strike of workers in New Jersey, Connecticut, eastern Pennsylvania and New York was ordered yesterday and negotiations had reached the point tonight where officials predicted the strikers would return to their jobs by Monday.

Whalen Seeks Truce.

Grover A. Whalen, former New York police commissioner, acting as NRA go-between to settle the strike, heard the workers' grievances in a three-hour conference with contractors and union officials.

Whalen told representatives of the workers, manufacturers and jobbers that President Roosevelt means to "spell the death knell of the sweatshop, which has been a cancerous growth in your industry for many years."

Iron Dropped on Crowd.

A heavy pressing iron, tossed out of an upper floor of a 35-story building in the garment district and the turning off of electricity in some nonunion shops provided the only disturbances of the strike today. The iron barely missed a group of workers gathered on the sidewalk.

Strike leaders reported the walkout was general in New York and Connecticut, but not altogether successful in New Jersey. Approximately 2,500 shops in the metropolitan area were affected.

Whalen urged a temporary truce so that workers may go back to their jobs. The union asks for $1.10 an hour. The strike was called by the International Ladies Garment Workers' Union in protest of a 70 cents an hour scale.

Tiny Girl Rider Is High Light Of Horse Show

Record Crowd on Hand as Brilliant Berryville Event Starts.

Berryville, Va., Aug. 17 (Spl.). The riding of little Ellie Wood Keith, of Charlottesville, was a high light of the altogether brilliant showings made by all riders and mounts today, the first day of the famous Berryville Horse Show.

Riding entries of Capt. Ewart Johnston, Clarke County, the diminutive equestrienne came in second in the class of ladies' hunters, the first prize going to Red Tape, of the stables of Dr. L. M. Allen, of Winchester.

Results Announced.

C. E. Norman, of Purcellville, and Stull Brothers were the successful exhibitors in the heavy draft classes.

Taking three blues in the hunter classes to hold the lead for the first day in this class, Mrs. John Hay Whitney, mistress of Llangolen Farm, at Upperville, kept her usual high standing at this and nearby horse shows.

Weather Is Ideal.

With the weather ideal for outdoor sports, and with the largest crowd that has ever attended the first day of the show watching, the thirty-second annual exhibition of the Clarke County Horse and Colt Show Association bids fair to be the most successful ever held here.

Nowhere could more beautiful horses be found than the entries in the ladies' hunters, among which were that beautiful trio of grays, Gray Knight, Two Leggins and Bon Diable, of Llangolen Farms, which have won international honors at the Royal Horse Show in Toronto and Madison Square Garden. Red Tape, the brown gelding of Clifton Farms, was received in high favor. Gray Knight, which won the International Challenge Cup for hunters at the Royal Horse Show, was bred by Capt. P. M. Walker at his Pagebrook Stud, Clarke County.

There were no spills or accidents of any kind. In the pony class the riding of the children was skilled, as usual. In the handicap jump, there were 38 entries and it took some time to judge them.

The day's results included:

Class 28, heavy drafts, best foal of 1932—First, entry of Harvey Fields, Round Hill; second, entry C. E. Norman, Purcellville; third, entry E. F. Royston, Boyce.

Bethesda Store Owner Is Taken In Rum Charge

T. F. Laffin Free on Bond as Raid on Home Nets 200 Gallons.

Thomas F. Laffin, 41, prominent Bethesda merchant and former president of Bethesda Chamber of Commerce, was arrested yesterday on charges of possession of intoxicating liquor with intent to sell.

The arrest was made on a warrant sworn by Sergt. George Deyoe, Washington policeman, before Justice of the Peace Frederick K. Van Court, as the result of a raid Wednesday on Laffin's home in Bethesda.

Bond was fixed at $500 for his appearance in Montgomery County Police Court at Rockville August 25. The bond was posted by William Dosh, Rockville professional bondsman.

Sergt. Deyoe and Detective William McEwen, both District policemen with Federal powers, said they arrested Laffin after a chase in which he abandoned his truck and ran into his home, later emerging when he found the men were police and not hijackers.

The policemen obtained a search warrant and searched his house, finding approximately 200 gallons of alleged liquor, they said. The contraband was confiscated, as well as 100 gallons on the truck. Richard F. Green, colored, of Washington, Laffin's companion on the truck, also was arrested and charged.

Laffin told police he was doing a favor for a friend, Thomas Wallace, alias Daniel Lynch, also of Bethesda, whose liquor cache had been raided by hijackers. Fearing a repetition of the raid, Wallace borrowed Laffin's truck to move his stock, Laffin said.

Montgomery County police raided Wallace's home and found 500 gallons of alleged liquor. He was charged with possession with intent to sell.

Gang Suspect Slain, Wife Shot In Farm Siege

Arkansas Posse Riddles Home With Machine Gun Bullets.

Springtown, Ark., Aug. 17 (AP).—Gene Johnson, alleged confederate of the Wilbur Underhill gang of escaped Kansas prison convicts, was fatally wounded and his wife, Jewell Johnson, was shot in the arm when a posse opened fire with machine guns and rifles at the Johnson farm home near here early today.

A second alleged desperado and gunman, Leroy Wright, although believed to have been wounded, escaped from the posse of 20 Arkansas, Oklahoma and Kansas officers. Wright was being sought with bloodhounds in the Benton County wilds north of Siloam Springs.

Johnson, wanted in the slaying of Patrolman Charles Bruce, of McPherson, Kans., May 14, was shot in the head and body. He was taken to a hospital at Siloam Springs, where he died this afternoon. His wife was placed in jail at Bentonville.

Mrs. Johnson was quoted by officers as saying she believed the posse would find "another body" before they returned. It was believed she referred to Wright.

Mrs. Johnson's condition was not serious. A bullet passed through her arm. When Johnson fell, he slumped over his wife's body, partly shielding her from the machine gun and rifle fire.

Hobo Claims Share In Aiding Progress

Chicago, Aug. 17 (AP).—The hobo defined himself today as a necessary adjunct to American civilization and claimed his share of contributions to progress.

At the National convention of hobos, "Slim"—that's the only name he's known by—declared:

"The hobo may be defined as the stiff who built the railroads and rides the rods; who built the highways and hitch-hikes; who stacked the wheat and eats stale bread; who mowed the hay and sleeps on it. About the only surplus remuneration he ever received for his essential services was his freedom, and he will not easily part with it."

500 Klansmen Meet in Glare Of Fired Barn

Foes Blamed for Blaze at Scene of Martinsburg Demonstration.

Lighted by flames from a burning barn, firing of which was attributed to enemies of the Klan, 500 Ku Klux Klansmen from northern Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia last night held a mass meeting in full regalia at Martinsburg, Md.

The conclave, during which a 75-foot flaming cross was exhibited, was held with the avowed intention of impressing the colored population of Martinsburg.

Several years ago two Klansmen were shot in the town while returning from a Klan meeting, according to members of last night's group.

Many of the hooded and robed figures, who arrived at the conclave in a long line of cars and buses, carried side arms, and 20 riflemen were posted at strategic points in the surrounding woods during the conclave.

An hour before the gathering of the Klan a large barn on the farm where the meeting took place burst into flames.

Robert Oxley, owner of the farm, said he was not a member of the Klan but had given the Klansmen permission to hold the meeting on his property.

Fire Razes Hotel At Fishing Point

Loss Set at $30,000 as Week-End Resort Goes Up in Smoke.

Leonardtown, Md., Aug. 17 (Spl.). Fire which apparently started in a flue this morning destroyed the Fishing Point Hotel, 15 miles from here. The loss was set at $30,000, half covered by insurance.

There were no guests at the inn at the time. Sheldon Bullard, manager, and a cook smelled smoke soon after midnight. The Leonardtown Fire Department, just back from another blaze, rushed to the scene, but the building was already doomed.

It was a favorite among week-end visitors and fishing parties. Nearly 1,000 American Legion men were scheduled to go there for a picnic this week-end.

"Chichester's Will" Offered to Library

Mrs. M. D. Hall, president of the Fairfax Library Association, of Fairfax, Va., has received a letter from Portland, Me., in which the writer offers to sell to the library what he says is a "very early manuscript diary containing Richard Chichester's will, 1793, and probably in his own handwriting."

The letter further states this manuscript was picked up in Virginia during the Civil War by a Capt. Watson, of Bath, Me. It is in a good state of preservation, the writer said, and contains 56 pages of clear handwriting, telling how he willed his slaves and land.

Mrs. Hall believes it probably is the will of a member of the Chichester family of Fairfax County and is part of the records of the county which disappeared during the Civil War. If it is true, the county's right to it is believed to have been settled in the suit of the County of Fairfax against John Pierpont Morgan for the will of George Washington, which Mr. Morgan had to return to the county.

Clarendon Man Sure Of Beer, Buys Fixtures

In anticipation of early passage by the General Assembly, now in special session at Richmond, of a bill legalizing sale of beer, James Leonard, operating a lunchroom in Clarendon, Va., lost no time yesterday by installing fixtures.

Leonard, who has been in business in Clarendon for years, said that his business, since beer has been legalized in the District of Columbia, has fallen off 50 per cent. Many merchants have already been to the office of Harry K. Green, commissioner of revenue, seeking information as to the filing of applications for a permit.

Low License Fee For Beer Opposed

North Virginia Delegation Fights Pollard Plan for High Excise.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 17 (Spl.). The delegation to the General Assembly from northern Virginia is opposing the proposal of Gov. John G. Pollard for a low license fee and a high excise tax on beer.

The governor's proposal for the same tax as is now in effect in North Carolina of $3.10 a barrel and 1 cent on each 12-ounce bottle would work a hardship on the beer vendors of counties bordering the District of Columbia, Maryland and West Virginia, the members claim. They are proposing a higher license fee and a lower excise tax than that included in the administration's beer bill introduced this afternoon. They claim their proposal would encourage the sale of beer, discourage the beer bootlegger, and thereby yield a larger revenue to the State and local governments.

Delegate John C. Mackall, of Fairfax County, elected to fill the unexpired term of the late Edmund H. Allen, was not seated today, as his credentials were not received.

Firemen Rush To Enter Big Parade Here

Maryland, Virginia Sending Scores of Units; Indiana In First Time.

Fire companies throughout Maryland and Virginia are fairly flooding Sergt. A. J. Bargagni with entries in the National Firemen's Labor Day parade.

Yesterday the parade marshal had received scores of entries from fire fighters, bands, drum corps and ladies auxiliaries of both States. He urges all organizations in nearby sections to rush in their letters of parade entry.

At a meeting of the City Fire Fighters Association Wednesday night, the unit voted a handsome trophy for the parade. With the others that have been donated, it will be placed in Gude's window on F street Monday.

Indiana Enters First Time.

Within the last few days, Sergt. Bargagni has received entries from North Carolina, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, and, for the first time, Indiana.

Before the day of the parade, the committee hopes to have companies enlisted from at least ten States. In the past, the celebration here has had representation from as many as nine.

Entertainment Planned.

Odell S. Smith, chairman of the citizens committee of the parade, was making plans yesterday for the entertainment of officials who will take part in the ceremonies. He has an enthusiastic group of civic leaders working with him and hopes to treat the dignitaries in appropriate style.

Yesterday Sergt. Bargagni appointed a subcommittee of well-known colored men to handle such phases of the parade as affect colored fire companies, colored civic organizations and colored musical units. The committee is headed by Francis Wells, Dr. John E. Washington, Dr. John R. Francis, J. Franklin Wilson and Prof. Haley C. Douglass.

Richard Brauner Funeral Is Held

Veteran Attache of Adjutant General's Office Cremated Here.

Funeral services were held for Richard Brauner, 73, last night at the Thomas S. Sergeon chapel, 1011 Seventh street northwest, followed by cremation.

Mr. Brauner was employed in the adjutant general's office of the War Department as a clerk in the Old Records Bureau for 42 years, retiring in 1932. Born in Germany, he came to the United States when he was 18 years old, living in Texas until 1890, when he moved to Washington.

In Washington Mr. Brauner belonged to the Concord Club, the Texas Club and Schlaraffia, a German organization.

He died Tuesday at his home, 3165, Adams street northeast, survived by his wife, Mrs. Caroline Brauner; three daughters, Mrs. Elsa Larridge, Mrs. Gertrude Mullin and Miss Inga Brauner; two sons, Ralph and Walter, and six grandchildren, all of Washington; three brothers in Texas, and a sister in Germany.

Youth Drinks Antiseptic.

Music and Food Lure Brightwood Citizens

Hot dogs, cake and coffee followed the annual Fire Department Band concert which drew a large crowd of Brightwood citizens to No. 22 Engine Company last night. Mrs. Lillian Shuler, who gave the boys a helping hand, finds her table the most popular. Receiving their share are Capt. W. Trent, Sergt. A. Minnick, Lieut. C. W. Rice, Capt. W. A. Smith and Lieut. H. T. Davis, all of 22 Engine Company and 14 Truck.

Reallocations By Civil Service Will Continue

Ban on Pay Increases Will Not Halt Promotions to Higher Grades.

The Civil Service Commission has no intention of discontinuing reallocations of employes to higher pay grades simply because the independent offices act placed a ban on pay increases where promotions are ordered.

This was made clear by the commission last night in a statement outlining its policy. The commission held there is nothing in the law to indicate Congress intended to suspend the classification process, even though the Personnel Classification Board was abolished two years ago, and its functions merged with the commission.

"It is the duty and responsibility of the Civil Service Commission under the classification act to keep positions properly allocated to the various grades defined by Congress in the classification act," the statement read.

"Since there is nothing contained in the provisions of the appropriation acts mentioned which would relieve the commission of this responsibility, the commission's division of personnel classification and its board of appeals and review will continue their functions of reallocating positions to their appropriate grades upon submission by departments or employes of evidence that reallocations should be made, even though by such reallocation an employe affected may not receive any salary advantage during the present fiscal year."

Taxi Driver Beaten On Head by Passenger

Still conscious after being struck on the head three times with what looked like a homemade blackjack, John H. Murray, 518 Seventh street northwest, a Bell Cab driver, frightened away his assailant last night on the Soldiers' Home grounds.

Hailed by a male passenger at North Capitol and M streets about 8:30 last night, Murray was instructed to drive to Third and Taylor streets northwest. On the way the passenger told Murray to drive into the Soldiers' Home grounds and to stop by the spring. As Murray stopped the cab he was struck by the passenger.

No Beer?

School Definition Sought as Cafe Man Fights to Retain Permit.

When is a school not a school?

The answer by Attorneys Conrad and Sam A. Syme is:

"When the institution teaches the English language to a student body of foreigners."

The lawyers suggested this answer yesterday in District Supreme Court while testing another phase of the District's beer regulations. They petitioned for a writ of mandamus against the District Commissioners to compel issuance of a permanent "on sale" permit to William A. Rowe, 801 Tenth street northwest.

Rowe had one of the first places legalized to dispense beer. Although his permit was only temporary, he spent $1,500 making his establishment attractive.

His license was canceled in July because his place is within 200 feet of Webster School.

But he contends it is not a school because it is used exclusively for teaching the English language to about 400 aliens.

Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue gave the Commissioners until September 6 to refute the contention.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 17 (AP).—Gov. Lehman's antikidnaping bill, calling for a death penalty for convicted kidnapers when the kidnaped person has not been returned prior to the trial, was passed tonight by the New York Senate and sent to the Assembly for concurrence.

Before approving it, the codes committee struck out the provisions making payment of ransom money or otherwise dealing with kidnapers a felony, but specified that the persons paying the ransom or dealing with kidnapers must not withhold information from the investigating authorities.

Three men, although reported to be in no danger now, are in the hospital. The food served has been analyzed in an effort to determine what was responsible.

Admr. Morgan, Noted in War, Expires at 66

Retired Officer Served 30 Years; in Cuban and World Conflicts.

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Aug. 17 (U.P.). Rear Admiral Casey Bruce Morgan, United States Navy, retired, died of heart ailment at a summer camp near here today. He was 66.

He is survibed by a brother, B. Tyrel Morgan, of Savannah, Ga.

(United Press.)

Rear Admiral Casey Bruce Morgan, who died at Lake Clear, N. Y., yesterday, was decorated by two nations during the World War.

America gave him the Distinguished Service Medal for his work as force transport officer and commander of the transport Agamennon, which carried large bodies of troops safely through areas endangered by mines and submarines. France also honored this service, citing Admiral Morgan an officer of the Legion of Honor.

Admiral Morgan retired in 1923 after 30 years of active service, which included the Spanish-American and World Wars. In the former he fought at Manila Bay aboard the U. S. S. Raleigh. He was a native of Augusta, Ga.

Sherwood Gets Court Sanction In Defying Quiz

Refuses to Tell Grand Jury of Association With Jimmy Walker.

New York, Aug. 17 (AP).—Russell T. Sherwood, confidant of James J. Walker, who fled during a legislative investigation of the former mayor's regime, refused to answer questions today at a Federal grand jury's inquiry into Walker's income taxes, and was upheld by Judge Robert P. Patterson.

In refusing answers to the questions put to him by United States Attorney George Z. Medalie—which mainly concerned his association with Walker during his disappearance—Sherwood contended that to do so might incriminate him in contempt of court proceedings against him in the State supreme court.

Ruled Within His Rights.

Judge Patterson ruled that Sherwood was within his rights.

Walker's reputed financial agent, however, answered one of Medalie's questions, that concerning his visit to Mexico City.

Sherwood said he cashed a check for $1,023 in Mexico City, drawn on the Central Hanover Bank & Trust Co., against a special account.

"Whose account was that?" Medalie asked.

"I considered it mine."

"It was not all yours, then?" Sherwood was asked.

"Some of it," he replied, "was James J. Walker's."

On "constitutional grounds" Sherwood held firm in his refusal to answer all other queries concerning his absence from New York—which began August 11, 1931, shortly before he was summoned to appear before the Seabury investigation into the city's political structure.

Visited Canada, Mexico.

The questioning brought to light for the first time the itinerary of Sherwood during his exile from New York.

From New York, Sherwood said, he went to Atlantic City, then to Montreal, Mexico City, Los Angeles, San Diego and New Orleans—absent some 21 months in all before he publicly ended his exile in East Orange, N. J., several months ago.

Walker—who resigned when Seabury placed certain results of the investigation in the hands of Franklin D. Roosevelt, then governor—was charged with blocking the investigation by having Sherwood absent himself from New York. Walker is said to be in England now following a long sojourn in France.

Telephone Girl Thwarts Robbers

Starbuck, Minn., Aug. 17 (AP).—A telephone operator helped to thwart a bank robbery, which resulted in the killing of one robber after he and a companion today robbed the First National Bank of $1,000. The loot was recovered. A posse pursued the accomplice.

Miss Florence Bulman, telephone operator, was passing the bank, where two employes and two patrons were held at bay by one robber while his companion stood guard at the door. The latter, flourishing a pistol, orderd Miss Bulman to "come in here."

Instead, she darted across the street, warning Rudy Hanson, restaurant propritor. When the two invaders left the bank a few moments later, Hanson fatally wounded one. As he fell, the loot dropped to the ground. The accomplice fled.

A Nice Kettle of Fish.

Yesterday's market reports indicate that the dollar rose in terms of gold currencies, that commodity prices went up, and that the stock and bond markets improved. After weeks and months of education by self-appointed committees on the welfare of the Nation to the effect that the only way to prosperity was by debasing the American dollar, it seems that we can have an improvement in the commodity markets simultaneously with an improvement in the value of the dollar in the world's exchange markets. Even silver, which was supposed to rise only if the dollar depreciated, staged a notable recovery.

A Taxicab Code.

If the taxicab situation in Washington can be untangled through a code of fair competition, the result will be a notable service to residents of the District. At least two different efforts are being made to bring the cab operators together in some kind of agreement. One group is seeking restoration of the meter system and another is trying to secure an improved and unified zoning arrangement. It would be a great convenience to have some definite system established to eliminate the present inequities and the lack of responsibility for accidents.

Under present conditions many cab drivers work extremely long hours. Cabs are so numerous and fares are so low that long hours are necessary to keep the wolf from the door. Certainly this situation is not in harmony with conditions sought under the NRA program.

One defect in the present system is the lack of security which it offers the public. A large number of cabs are being operated in Washington by drivers who carry no liability insurance and are not themselves financially responsible for possible mishaps. No doubt many cab operators would be forced to quit the business if they were compelled to establish responsibility for accidents and injuries to patrons. It is hard to justify a system which permits irresponsible public carriers to serve the public at its own risk.

Under present conditions it is difficult for cab operators to provide themselves with liability insurance because many of their competitors do not incur this expense. This seems to be a typical case where cooperation is desirable for the general welfare. It is to be hoped that any code considered will include provisions establishing responsibility of all cab operators for accidents.

Disarmament Plans.

The Geneva disarmament conference is scheduled to resume its deliberations on October 16, though preliminary interchanges among various national delegates are expected to begin several weeks before the formal opening date. While the United States will again be represented by Ambassador Norman Davis, it is intimated, following his conferences with the President and the State Department, that the policy of this country will be to take a less aggressive part in the proceedings than was manifested at the last session.

The administration apparently feels that its willingness to go as far as any other nation in the matter of disarmament has been amply demonstrated, that the futility of each nation striving for a nationalistic advantage has been realized, and that a more rational consideration of general measures may now be anticipated. With assurance that the atmosphere has been considerably cleared and feeling that European nations are best prepared to suggest the steps which will lead to compromise agreements, the United States apparently will be content to follow rather than take the initiative. Mr. Davis says the plan for land disarmaments proposed by Prime Minister MacDonald will be the basis for the renewed discussions in October.

If the official representatives are preparing for a quiet resumption of negotiations at Geneva this is not the intention of the various world peace organizations. Preparations are being made to arouse widespread interest in the conference and to endeavor to rekindle enthusiasm for general relief from the burdensome costs of excessive armaments. Plans are being made for a great mass meeting in Geneva immediately preceding the assembling of the conference to impress the delegates in somewhat the same manner as the "Parade of Petitions" which took place at the opening of the conference in February, 1932. Peace and disarmament organizations in every country will hold rallies the week preceding the conference to awaken public interest in the importance of the parley.

These unofficial organizations are reported to be quite thoroughly agreed upon what the conference should do, even if the nations are not. They will urge at Geneva that definite steps be taken, not only to limit rearmament, but to secure substantial reductions, to eliminate aggressive weapons, to limit rivalries by limiting armament budgets, to control the manufacture and trade in arms and munitions, and to create a permanent disarmament body.

Virginia Moves Toward Repeal.

Gov. Pollard's message to the Virginia legislature, meeting in extra session, may be taken as a forecast of an affirmative vote on prohibition repeal on Oct. 3. Public sentiment has changed in Virginia as elsewhere, and it is now evident that the American people have determined that the eighteenth amendment shall be discarded as soon as possible. Gov. Pollard is convinced that prohibition will be repealed by Dec. 1, and he feels that Virginia should act before that time, not only on the eighteenth amendment, but on the question of State prohibition. A four-fifths majority would be required in the present legislature to substitute a State control act for the present law. Gov. Pollard prefers to submit this question to the new legislature, which will be elected this fall. He accordingly recommends that the people be asked on Oct. 3 to choose between continuance of the State prohibition law or a control act, and in the event they should favor repeal of State prohibition, he would ask them to indicate whether the State control should be by a dispensary or a private license system. This referendum would be a guide to the legislature, and would in any event prevent return of the open saloon.

Gov. Pollard holds that such a question as liquor regulation should be passed upon by the people rather than having a system imposed upon them by the legislature without testing public sentiment.

Hopes for the Pennant.

With the Nationals holding a strong lead over the New York Yankees, and other contenders far behind, it is becoming evident that Washington's team is not merely enjoying a lucky streak, but is in fact the best team in the American League. It is too early to claim the pennant for it, but no other club can compare with its chances for victory. In batting, pitching, fielding, and strategy the Nationals have thus far outclassed any of their opponents, east or west. As the Nationals have driven forward under the aggressive management of Joe Cronin, the Yankees have slipped back in all departments, although they are further ahead of other teams than Washington is ahead of the Yankees.

At present the New York Giants lead the National League, but not by such a margin as to discourage the Pittsburgh Pirates or the Chicago, Boston, and St. Louis teams. If the Giants should win the pennant it is possible that October will witness a repetition of the battles of 1924 between the Nationals and Giants, when Washington won the world championship. In 1925, when the Nationals were again league champions, they lost the world pennant to the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Giants do not seem to have developed league leaders in any branch of playing, while the Pirates boast of players ranked among leaders in runs, runs batted in, doubles, and triples. Individual players on the Washington team hold high places in the league in hits, triples, and pitching.

The Forest Army.

President Roosevelt has under consideration the recommendation of the War Department, the Forest Service and the National Park Service that the men now in the Civilian Conservation Corps be permitted to re-enlist for another six months following expiration of their enlistments in December. It is estimated that the proposed six months' extension would cost not more than $65,000,000. It would take care of the 314,000 men who are now working in 1,450 camps in various parts of the country. Of these men about 244,000 are between the ages of 18 and 25 years; 26,000 are world war veterans, and 30,000 are experienced foresters. The Office of Indian Affairs also has 14,400 Indians at work in 200 camps on reservations.

By Sept. 15 it is proposed to shift about one-third of these camps to the Southern States for climatic reasons. If another six months' period should be ordered it is estimated by Army officers connected with the camps that about 60 per cent of the men would re-enlist. It is not proposed that the rolls should be open for enlistment of men not now enlisted.

Naturally, the Forest Service is delighted with the operations of the Civilian Conservation Corps. The attention of the country has been drawn to forestry as never before by reason of the presence in camps of tens of thousands of men from all parts of the country. While it is well understood that the camps were established for unemployment relief purposes, in order to avoid a dole system, expert foresters report that the men after reasonable training "are as effective as any labor generally obtainable." The benefits obtained by this work in the way of forest fire protection, opening of roads and trails, extension of telephone lines, replanting, prevention of soil erosion, &c., are cited as substantial offsets of the cost of the corps. "It appears to be a question of working on a liquidating job vs. a dole with all its evils," is the conclusion of an ardent forest authority.

Slot Machines.

One does not need to go to Wall Street to find evidence of the gambling instinct. It may be found in thousands of places where mechanical devices are installed to assist the public in losing its money. In spite of vigorous drives against such devices, it is reported that the operation of slot machines has become a big business.

Use of a little discretion on the part of the public would put the slot machine out of business. But a majority of human beings do not use good judgment when they are in a mood to take a chance. They wish to try their luck, and so play the slot machine as a sporting proposition. The unfortunate aspect of these gambling devices, however, is that they swallow the nickels of children who do not realize how great are the odds against winning. Former Mayor Joseph V. McKee, of New York, referred to the slot machine as the world's "meanest racket," because of its tendency to victimize children.

Investigators report that most of these machines are of uniform construction. All of them are obviously designed to win money for their operators, or they would not be in use. In most instances the player has a chance to win a few slugs and a very meager chance to win the jack-pot. One investigator has reached the conclusion that the player has but one chance in 1,000 of winning the jack-pot; one chance in 500 of getting back 16 slugs, and one chance in 250 of obtaining 12 slugs. The chance of obtaining two slugs, he says, is only one out of eight tries.

A number of cities have made war on the slot machine, confiscating all such devices in use and prosecuting their operators. But their use to garner small coins from the unwary continues on a large scale, perhaps not under the label of gambling devices, but as vendors. In these days of so-called hard times it is astonishing that the public should waste money in these machines.

Cuba's Indebtedness.

The total of Cuba's foreign and internal debt exceeds $200,000,000. New York bankers who are largely interested in the island's finances have surveyed the situation following the change in government, and the opinion is expressed that with the reduced expenditures, particularly in connection with army costs, it may be possible to provide carrying charges without resort to a moratorium. Demands from the internal debt are more pressing than from the foreign loans and credits, since no important payment is due abroad until October 1.

Cuba's internal floating debt amounts to $45,000,000, which includes salaries, pensions, payments due utility companies and claims of contractors. In addition there are nearly $8,000,000 outstanding in internal bonds. The external debt totals $159,179,700, including credits of $20,000,000 extended by New York banks. Pledged revenues of the island have hitherto been sufficient to cover the debt service. The external funded debt of Cuba on June 1 last is listed as follows:

	Outstanding.
5s of 1904, originally $35,000,000	$10,530,000
4½s of 1909, originally $16,500,000	16,772,000
5s of 1914, originally $10,000,000	4,925,500
5½s of 1923, originally $50,000,000	24,639,500
5½s ser. of 1927, orig. $9,000,000	4,408,000
5½s ctfs. public works due June 30, 1933	1,250,000
5½s public works due 1945	40,000,000
5½s Treasury bonds due 1935	20,000,000
Sugar stabilization 5s due 1940	22,654,700
Bankers' credit	20,000,000
Total	$159,179,700

The abnormal situation throughout Cuba during recent months caused extraordinary military expenditures by the Machado government which added upward of $1,000,000 a month to the floating indebtedness. Financial experts believe the new regime will be able to effect savings which will make it possible to balance the budget and cover debt charges. Since May $2,000,000 has been paid off on the principal account of the funded debt. Sugar is pledged to pay off the sugar stabilization bonds, and the public works certificates, while overdue, are being met in part by monthly receipts from public works revenues.

Uncle Sam, Detective.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal.

It must have been a good moment for Attorney General Homer Cummings when he was able to announce the capture of Harvey Bailey, one of the king pin criminals of the Nation. Not only is this the man who led the break from the Kansas Penitentiary on Memorial Day, when a warden and two guards were kidnaped; not only is he the man who has been identified as the ring leader in the Kansas City Union Station massacre, when five men were mowed down by machine gun bullets; this Harvey Bailey is the kidnaper of Charles F. Urschel, who was snatched from his home in Oklahoma City and held until his family had paid $200,000 ransom.

There is something more in the capture of Bailey than the mere triumph of law over the forces of organized crime. The story of how he was apprehended, how the search was made for his hide-out by airplane, and how he was arrested while lying on a cot with a machine gun, an automatic rifle and an automatic pistol beside him, would do credit to the most sensational fiction writer. The story is very pat in all its details. Urschel identifies an outbuilding on the farm where Bailey is discovered as the place where he was held captive, and his own fingerprints on various objects in the building corroborate his statement. A considerable number of the marked bills paid out in ransom by the Urschel family are found in Bailey's possession, linking him positively with that particular case.

The most important feature about the Bailey arrest, however, is the credit which it reflects on the Federal machinery for crime detection. Definite steps have been taken by the Roosevelt administration to strangle the kidnaping racket by means of a central agency in Washington. Nothing feasible offers such promise of relief from this national disease as the establishment of confidence among the people in the ability of the United States Government to crush the kidnapers. When such confidence is achieved, the families of kidnap victims may no longer try to hide their dealings from the proper authorities, as they now do most frequently in the hope of negotiating directly with the criminals. The successful handling of the Urschel case should go far to impress the public with Uncle Sam's superior ability to deal with kidnapers.

He Used to Be the Forgotten Man.

The Once Over.

By H. I. Phillips.

THE BLUE EAGLE'S VISIT.
(With apologies to Edgar Allan Poe.)

Once upon a midnight dreary, while
I pondered, weak and weary,
Over many a business problem and my troubles at the store—
While I worried, nearly napping, suddenly there came a tapping
As of some one roughly rapping, rapping at my chamber door.
"'Tis some sheriff," was my verdict,
"rapping at my chamber door:
Only this and nothing more."

Open then I flung the shutter, when,
with many a flirt and flutter,
In there stepped a fighting Eagle of the regal days of yore.
Not the least obeisance made he;
not a minute stopped or stayed he;
But, with manner unafraid he perched above my chamber door;
Spread his wings and gave a warwhoop just above my chamber door,
Spread his wings as if to soar.

Thus this stately bird beguiling my sad fancy into smiling,
By the bold and brave decorum of the countenance it wore—
"By thy manner very regal I can see thou art no sea gull,"
Said I to the stately Eagle as it
plumed its wings for war;
"Tell me why this midnight visit, for it makes me very sore."
Quoth the Eagle, "Nevermore."

As I watched this bird ungainly I perceived, and very plainly,
That it wasn't of a color such as eagles always wore;
"This," I murmured, "is a new one, for this Eagle is a blue one."
All my life I never knew one of a bluish hue before—
And it bears a quaint inscription which it's pinning on the door
As it mutters, "Nevermore."

"Nevermore will you slash prices on your ships and shoes and ices,"
Said the Eagle as he managed all his feelings to outpour;
"I can tell you that your biz'll never prosper if you chisel—
For the New Deal mustn't fizzle as have other deals before."
"Can't I hem and haw?" I asked him, "as I always have before?"
And the bird said, "Nevermore."
"Can't I wait for things to turn up as my inner feelings burn up?"
I inquired as his optics seemed to pierce me to the core;
"Can't I sit around and worry while the future gets more blurry?
Must I show some faith, and hurry better business to restore?—
Can't I just continue stalling as I always did before?"
Quoth the Eagle, "Nevermore."

"You will do as you are told, sir," said the Eagle, "and behold, sir,
Here's my photo; take and paste it in your office and your store;
'Twill convey to the consumers that you've joined the Johnson
Boomers, Shaking pessimistic humors which are such a frightful bore."
"Can't I fire help?" I asked him, "as I did in days of yore?"
Said the Eagle, "Nevermore."

So the Eagle, never flitting, now is sitting, now is sitting,
On my desk and in my window, on my shelves and on my door;
And his eyes have all the seeming of a good old bird that's dreaming
Of prosperity redeeming and of happy days galore—
And I guess I'd better help him with a cheer and with a roar,
For that bird can close my store!

If You Let the Cat Eat Goldfish, It Won't Chase Mice

By Robert Quillen.

THIS is written primarily for young people and I hasten to assure them it isn't "preaching." I get just as weary of that kind of stuff as they do.

It is customary to say the "younger generation" is going to the devil. By the time it has gone all the way, it will inherit the earth and then it will make a mess of things.

Well, let's examine the record, as the political orators say.

Back in the sedate 90's, there were young people who were "fast." They had too much spending money and nothing to do, and they raised the devil. If the world's affairs had fallen into their hands, they might have made a mess of things, but nothing of the kind happened. The steady, dependable ones took the reins—as they always do.

Today every community has its fast set. They are noisy and attract much attention. But they aren't all. There are plenty of boys and girls who don't get drunk or stay out all night.

The judge and the banker and the publisher and the leading business man have boys and girls. Watch them. They have a good time, but they aren't depraved. They are just as respectable and self-respecting as youngsters ever were.

In other words, those who now direct our civilization by reason of superior merit have children much like themselves. And the future will be in the hands of these—not in the hands of the vicious and silly ones.

Human nature hasn't changed and the rules of the game haven't changed. The wild ones burn themselves out, and the steady, intelligent, ambitious ones inherit the big jobs and run the country.

So much for the fears of alarmists. As to the cause of the present state of affairs, that, too, is commonly misunderstood.

Wildness costs money. In all ages the possession of too much spending money has sent youngsters to the devil. Result follows cause in this particular as inevitably as night follows day.

Nine decent kids in ten will go smash if given enough money and enough freedom. People are built that way.

The all-night, hip-flask youngsters don't earn the money they spend. They get it from foolish parents—usually new-rich parents—seldom community leaders.

And the solution of the whole problem consists in tightening the purse strings. Vice costs money. And those who can't get money without earning it seldom have enough to buy a fatal dose.

Comment of the Press

Trees and the Man.

New York Times.

It will take years to show what mobilization of the unemployed has done for the forests and woodlands of the United States. Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the American Tree Association, estimates that the work of these "forest workers" will mean the annual saving of hundreds of millions of dollars. The program calls for tree planting over burned and cleared areas, the thinning out of undesirable trees, the eradication of insects and diseases that destroy great numbers of trees, flood control and protection against soil erosion, making trails to help in fire-fighting, building lookout towers and emergency fire-control landing fields, and the clearing of grounds for camping and other recreational uses.

This is a sort of war that science and religion, pacifist and materialist, practical man and poet may unite in supporting. It is a war against the real enemies of man.

Speculation Checks.

Los Angeles Times.

Action of the board of governors of the New York Stock Exchange in adopting by-laws designed to check rabid speculation probably will be more effective than anything governmental authority might do in the same direction. Increased margin requirements, particularly on small accounts, prohibiting brokers from lending from their own funds to their customers, and various limitations on soliciting business outside business hours and business places, all tend to confine speculation to channels where it can be watched carefully and not allowed to get out of hand.

Home Loan Bonds.

Kansas City Star.

What threatened to be the chief obstacle to success of home owner relief should be removed through action just taken by Treasury and Federal Reserve authorities. This is to accord the Federal home loan bonds recognition that will make their value comparable with that of other Government securities for use as collateral. This is, in no sense, a guarantee of the home loan bonds. There is no authority for that in the home loan act, which leaves the Government to guarantee only the interest, of 4 per cent, on the bonds. But this action should have the indirect effect of stabilizing and maintaining the market value of the bonds.

Seaway in the Background.

Osakis (Minn.) Review.

We hope that the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway has the hearty support of the President and those in charge of the public works program, although the fact that it is not being prominently proclaimed as one of the Government's contemplated projects leads us to believe that, somehow and somewhere, somebody is successfully keeping the St. Lawrence waterway project in the background.

Prosperity Goes With Lamb Chops.

Detroit News.

Here is a sign of returning prosperity—the meat-consuming public is furnishing a greater demand for lamb. The Bureau of Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture notifies farmers that it will pay them to increase their flocks. Good times are coming.

Lamb appears to be a sort of economic barometer in this country. During the nine-year period preceding 1931 the number of sheep raised constantly increased. Then the slump had its effect and American meat eaters asked for the cheaper cuts.

Just Folks.

By Edgar A. Guest.

Sailor Heritage.

An uncle, long time dead and gone,
Would often say to me:
"My boy, as long as you live on You'll dream about the sea,
And ships with masts and many ropes,
Whene'er they cross your view,
Will always rouse long-buried hopes.
There's sailor blood in you!"

I do not know the name of him
In our ancestral line
Who some time back in ages dim
Went sailing o'er the brine;
But part of him must dwell in me,
Still pulsing hale and strong,
For when a ship puts out to sea
I ache to go along.

The land has kept me for its own
For all these many years,
For sailor's work too old I've grown
Still, when a ship appears,
I stand and watch it as it moves
On lake or far-flung sea,
And feel that yearning strange, which proves
The sailor blood in me.

Along the Potomac

With

Carlisle Bargeron

AS the flappers would say, Bob Gore, the Governor of Puerto Rico, is a caution. Shortly after he took up his post, he announced the island Legislature had to meet immediately in extra session to appropriate funds for a visit that Mr. Roosevelt is supposed to make this winter. At a time when legislatures and parliaments and the like are meeting to treat with emergency situations brought on by the depression, Bob's pronouncement of what he considered the most important matter before the Puerto Ricans seemed rather frivolous.

Bargeron.

But now Bob has come to the fore with another declaration, one that if we were not so busy with other things would give us considerable merriment for many weeks.

WHAT Bob has done this time is to announce that all officials he appoints must give him their undated resignations. And the reason he demands this, he says, is because it is Mr. Roosevelt's policy, that Mr. Roosevelt has his, Bob's, undated resignation in his pocket right now. Mr. Roosevelt demanded this as a condition to giving him the job, says Bob, and is demanding it of all his appointees.

That would be something, if true. It would be news.

I recall that back in Mr. Coolidge's time there was quite a furore because Mr. Coolidge is supposed to have asked it of one appointee, not of all appointees, but this particular one. I think it was an appointee to the Interstate Commerce Commission. The point is that the disclosure of this single instance caused the rafters of the Senate to shake.

* * * *

NOW wouldn't it be news to learn that before Mr. Roosevelt tendered Secretary of State Hull his appointment that he asked that the Secretary leave with him his undated resignation? Wouldn't it be interesting to know that this is the condition upon which Secretary Administrator Ickes and Sacrificer Dan Roper went to work, or, you might say, agreed to make the sacrifice?

What Bob has done, in fact, is to dissipate in one fell swoop the high motives which are supposed to underly our public men. If there is one single one in the service who says frankly or who will admit to himself that he took the job for the money or the prestige, I am yet to run into him. I am referring, of course, to the higher-ups and not the average Government employe.

It is always a case of the man thinking, or rather professing to believe that the job gave him an opportunity for public service, an opportunity to serve the dear old people.

* * * *

BUT if Bob's statement is correct, this can not possibly be true and it is hard to see how any of the public servants can believe it themselves.

You can appreciate what your reaction would be if you had brought yourself to a self-sacrificing mood, to a willingness to serve the public, and then to have Mr. Roosevelt say:

"Before I will let you make this sacrifice I must have your undated resignation in my pocket."

Why, the crassness of this would strike with a sickening thud against the high ideals which you had conjured up on the subject. And no persuasiveness on Mr. Roosevelt's part that this was really just a precaution against your sacrificing too much would be of any avail.

There is no getting around that.

* * * *

THE plain truth is, of course, that the President needs no undated resignations from anybody. He can at any time get rid of anyone he wants.

In some few instances, the dismissed appointee has tried to make unpleasantness, has even gone so far as to test the President's authority in the courts. Always the President has been upheld.

Under the circumstances, it is impossible to believe Mr. Roosevelt is following any such course as Bob suggests. He undoubtedly has done it as regards Bob. On his own personal experience there is no reason why Bob should not be an authority.

As to why Mr. Roosevelt did this in his case I don't know. Except that he must know his Bob.

Letters to the Editor.

Bridge to Kent Island Suggested as Better Than Ferries.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A connecting link for traffic between the Eastern Shore and Washington is sought through the proposed ferry from Chesapeake Beach to Eastern Shore. Since a saving in time in transit is the desired end, permit me to suggest that a bridge over the bay from Skidmore to Kent Island would replace all these ferries and provide for both rail and motor traffic. This would take care of traffic from the Eastern Shore to Annapolis, the State capital; Baltimore, the metropolis, and Washington, a growing metropolis at the gateway to the South.

This bridge would make possible the development and greater use of the ocean beaches at Rehoboth and Ocean City. A great enterprise could be developed that would provide a needed ocean playground within two hours by rail of several million citizens. This would give many thousands permanent employment and give the farmers and merchants of this section and the Eastern Shore a new market for their products.

She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and bouvardia.

Mrs. Henry C. Flower was her sister's matron of honor. She wore a frock of delphinium blue crepe made with cap sleeves, and her small velvet turban was of a matching shade of blue. She carried delphinium and yellow roses. The other attendants were Miss Shirley Flower, niece of the bride, and Miss Camilla Edge, daughter of Mr. Walter E. Edge, former Ambassador to France, and Mrs. Edge, sister of the bridegroom. Miss Flower and Miss Edge wore Kate Greenaway frocks of pink organdie, with which they wore wreaths of flowers instead of bonnets, and carried old-fashioned bouquets.

Nira's Day

Jubilant Iowa Villagers Dispatch Carrier Pigeon With New Stamp.

Nira, Iowa, Aug. 17 (AP).—The "New Deal" was boosted sky high today. A racing pigeon, liberated at 8:40 a. m. (Central standard time), carried the first "air route special delivery" news to the outside world of Nira's greatest day when 50,000 copies of the new Nira stamp, commemorating the National Industrial Recovery Act, went on sale. The village was the first town outside of Washington to sell the stamp.

Carrying a dispatch in an envelope with one of the new NIRA stamps, the bird raced 70 miles in an hour and 33 minutes to the loft of its owner, Leslie Swanson, a writer in Moline, Ill. From there the message was telephoned to the Davenport, Iowa, bureau of the Associated Press.

The envelope and stamp will be forwarded to President Roosevelt for his personal stamp collection.

The message follows:

"This tiny village of 20 souls, nestled in the hills of the extreme northwest corner of Washington County, reached by two trains daily, and telephone and telegraph communication are not the best, and, hitherto almost unheard of, had fame suddenly thrust upon it when the new NIRA stamp went on sale."

MEN—

Three months ago the men's clothing business swept to tremendous volume.

Wholesale prices are advancing daily.

There is an acute shortage of the raw materials for making clothing.

Labor costs have increased greatly.

BUT because we planned for and purchased this group several months ago, before prices advanced—this week we offer

A Limited Number of the Famous

Middishade and Woodshire Suits

In Weights and Styles for Fall and Winter Wear

$21.75

This Fall's regular price for Middishade suits of these identical fabrics and quality is $32.50—for Woodshire suits is $35

[—and, under the business recovery codes now in practice, we believe it will be impossible to produce suits of this quality to sell at anywhere near this price.]

We want you to COMPARE these suits with the new Fall suits bought and priced in the regular way—see how (point for point, fabric for fabric, and tailoring for tailoring) they equal the new, higher priced Fall suits that have just arrived.

2-button sacks	Browns	Fine worsteds
3-button sacks	Plain and fancy blues	Choice cassimeres
Double-breasted models	Plain and fancy dark grays	Long-wearing serges

We cannot say how long it will be before our stock of these specially priced suits is exhausted. We do know there has been an almost unprecedented demand for Fall-weight suits already this month—and we have every reason to believe that Washington men will be quick to seize this opportunity. If you want one or several Fall suits at vastly less than you will have to pay later this season, this is your event—and now is the time to buy.

Mrs. Roosevelt Pleads for End Of Child Labor

Economic and Fair Play Reasons Dictate Reform, She Writes.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt appeals to the States for immediate adoption of the Twentieth amendment to the Constitution, the child labor amendment, in an article in the Woman's Home Companion, published today. Both the President and Mrs. Roosevelt hope to make the permanent abolition of child labor one of the achievements of the present administration.

In the course of her plea, Mrs. Roosevelt states:

"The child labor amendment is being brought back to attention at the present time because many people are agitating to keep young people in school longer in order that they may not add to the group of unemployed already looking for jobs.

How Abuses Grew Up.

"This being the case, it is well to refresh our minds as to just what lies back of this agitation to pass a law regulating the age at which children may become competitors in the labor market. There has been slowly growing up in many communities the realization that while one State might have enacted rules and regulations which prevent the exploitation of the labor of children—and therefore the pulling down of the present standards of labor for everyone—another State might have no regulations of any kind.

"This means that the manufacturers who desire to live up to certain standards and pay adequate wages and observe good conditions in their factories have to sell their goods at a price which would cover these standards. But these fair-minded manufacturers are obliged to compete, often unsuccessfully, with manufacturers in States where no standards are set by law and where they themselves set no standards, but are quite willing to employ children at picayune wages under sweatshop conditions. Thus the unsocially-minded manufacturers can undersell their competitors by having exploited and injured those who manufactured their goods.

Economic and Human.

"Experience has shown that it is quite useless to hope that all human beings will be motivated by real interest in their fellow human beings. Unfortunately, many are quite willing to live at the expense of others and therefore we must use government to restrain those who are not socially minded.

"This is a human question, as well as an economic question, but for the moment the economic side can serve the human side. We have seen proved over and over again that what wins our elections is the appeal to the pocketbooks of the men and women, yet I doubt if anything is ever done in political life which does not have an appeal to the heart of the average man or woman, and I think there is still something in us which makes us listen when the good of our children is at stake. Therefore, I hope that in the next year, partly because of economic reasons and partly because it is a fair deal, we will see that our Legislatures vote on the child labor amendment."

Missouri Drys Plan High Court Fight on Ballot

General Command Here Requests Step to Stop Election Saturday.

St. Louis, Aug. 17 (AP).—On the eve of repeal election in Missouri, State dry leaders tonight indicated a new move to test the legality of the balloting Saturday would be made before the United States Supreme Court.

Word that "General Dry Headquarters" in Washington had requested that the election be made a test case was announced by Mrs. Nellie G. Burger, president of the State W. C. T. U.

Mrs. Burger, at Springfield, asserted the Weeks' bill, setting up machinery for balloting, violates Missouri election laws. Last Monday the Missouri court found the bill was not subject to referendum. The finding was in action brought by the drys seeking to prevent the election.

At that time Gus O. Nations, St. Louis attorney for the Antisaloon League, said efforts to prevent the balloting would be made in Washington.

Despite the court challenge of the drys, considerable speech-making, and the distribution of millions of pieces of literature by the repealists, only casual interest is manifest by voters.

Wet leaders predict the electorate will vote 5 to 1 for repeal in selecting delegates to a State convention to be held August 29 in Jefferson City.

Kansas Beer Bill Passage Approved

Topeka, Kans., Aug. 17 (AP).—The Legislative Council voted today to recommend passage of a measure to legalize manufacture and sale of 3.2 beer in Kansas and at the same time present without recommendation another measure which would declare a beverage with an alcoholic content of more than one-half of 1 per cent intoxicating.

The Legislature will meet in special session next month.

It was the consensus of the council the second measure should be presented in event the first measure failed of passage in view of the uncertain conditions since the supreme court's decision that under present circumstances the question of whether 3.2 beer is intoxicating is a question of fact for a jury or judge to decide.

Six Generations of Dunlops Lived in Sturdy Hayes Manor Since Bought by Family in 1792

Home Furnished With Rare Collection of Antique Colonial Furniture.

Imprint of Each Passing Generation Left on Halls of Mansion.

Homes are so much more than just houses. They reflect the originality, the tastes, the ingenuity of their owners. The following article is the fourth of a series which will describe especially individual Washington homes. The sequence will include large houses, small houses, country houses, town houses, even some interesting apartments, but all homes of distinction. The Washington Post presents this series with the belief that it will be of especial interest to home makers.

A home that has ripened for 170 years—that has housed six generations of the same family.

Such is Hayes Manor, the old country place just beyond Chevy Chase Lake.

The estate was created by royal grant in 1762. It was bought by James Dunlop, young Scotch tobacco trader, in 1792. It has passed from one generaton of the Dunlop family to another, to the present Mr. and Mrs. G. Thomas Dunlop.

Hayes seems to survey the casual visitor with an enigmatic eighteenth century smile. The memories that hover about it are stern and sportive. War and peace, death and birth, weddings and funerals, boom times and depressions, all have passed through the old house.

Parson First Owner.

A sporting Tory parson, the Rev. Alexander Williamson, was the first owner and builder of Hayes. He received the estate of 700 acres by royal grant and shortly afterward erected the brick manor house.

When the Revolution broke out, Parson Williamson stood stanchly by George III. Already known as fond of his cock fights and his wine glass, the parson's ardent Royalist stand proved unbearable to his flock. He was unfrocked.

Misfortune is attracted to the unfortunate and the parson's bitter cup was filled when his only daughter eloped with a Continental officer. He disinherited her and sulked away his remaining days among the lilacs and hollyhocks of Hayes. He is buried under a pear tree at the rear of the mansion.

Build Addition.

A great part of the charm of this old house of rosy brick is that it is a real home, bearing the imprint of each generation. One addition to the central house was built in 1880 by George T. Dunlop. Mr. and Mrs. G. Thomas Dunlop have added a brick sun parlor, greenhouse and garages.

When the fancy furniture period passed, this family began to look through the attics for furniture discarded for scores of years. They found 36 original Chippendale chairs, Hepplewhite sofas and other oddments.

Hayes is now furnished in antiques, all descended through the family.

China Collection Large.

The family china has survived the years in a way little short of remarkable. It includes about 90 pieces of rare Lowestoft, said to be about the largest private collection in the country; also 150 pieces of Spode.

The interior of the house is a delight to the lovers of colonial places. Wide floor boards, old brass door locks between rooms and huge iron locks and massive bars for the outer doors and early American mantels.

Color is not lacking as it is in some colonial homes.

George Dunlop ordered in 1880 a facing of blue and white Holland tile in the colonial mantels. At this time, also, the original wooden-paneled inner shutters were detached and made into paneling for the deep window embrasures.

Old-fashioned wall papering also supplies color. The paper in the living room is in a lemon and cream pattern, while the wide entrance hall is in delft blue and white.

In Excellent Condition.

Viewed outside, Hayes Manor is a splendid testimony to the sound craftmanship of early American artisans. In spite of its age of 170 years, it is in excellent condition.

The simple, sturdy front exposure has a wide portico entrance supported by Ionic columns.

More intimate is the south front. Garden furniture is grouped in a shady spot overlooking rose and iris gardens extending over an acre or so of massed color. A huge ivy vine, its trunk comparable to a small tree, covers this part of the house.

From around 1780 to 1887 every Dunlop who passed away at Hayes Manor was buried in the family graveyard, a few hundred yards from the mansion. Some years ago the acreage on which the family graveyard stood was sold.

Graveyard Is Moved.

It naturally was necessary to move the ancestral Dunlops, numbering 20. They were reinterred near the manor under one large monument. They now rest about 100 feet from the home where most of them lived throughout their lives.

But the climax in the story is that a number of the family slaves were buried in their master's graveyard. The grave markers had been perishable and their graves vanished from memory.

Think of the astonishment of the steam-shovel men when they began to unearth Negroes long since dead! Thirteen slaves, their eyes covered with blackened pennies, were exhumed in this summary fashion.

The stately trees of Hayes Manor are among its greatest beauties. One immense English elm is said by United States Agricultural Department experts to be the second largest in the United States.

President Studies Navy Yard Cuts

President Roosevelt yesterday reiterated assurances to organized labor that he is studying the situation created in navy yards by the Navy Department's five-day week, one-sixth pay cut, order.

John P. Frey, secretary-treasurer of the American Federation of Labor's metal trades department, and President J. A. Franklin, of the International Boilermakers and Iron Shipbuilders Union, conferred with Mr. Roosevelt at the White House for half an hour.

Both officials left under the impression the President will work out some adjustment of conditions affecting approximately 46,000 navy yard and field workers throughout the country, and nearly 4,000 here.

Bruening Facing Nazi Questioning

Former German Chancellor Accused of Intrigue With Vatican.

Berlin, Aug. 17 (AP).—Political observers today professed to see trouble ahead for Heinrich Bruening, former chancellor of Germany and leader of the recently dissolved Catholic Center party.

The newspaper Volkischer Beobachter, a Nazi publication, cited correspondence purporting to reveal he had warned the Vatican "not to be blinded by big promises, for it would not be the first time promises were broken."

It was alleged that the former chancellor had sent this word to the Vatican by private courier and that a member of the curia made reference to the dispatch in the presence of Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen, while negotiating a concordat between the Reich and the Holy See.

The Volkischer Beobachter declared "We expect Dr. Bruening to answer these revelations."

Maud Younger Addresses Anniversary Meeting of Party.

In the beautiful garden of the National Woman's Party headquarters at 114 B street northeast, the thirteenth aniversary of the ratification of the national suffrage amendment was celebrated last night.

Three hundred women and a handful of men heard Maud Younger, of California, congressional chairman of the party, tell with flashing humor the story of the suffragists' early struggles for political equality, in which she took an active part.

Her narrative was illustrated by pictures thrown on a screen, which showed actual reproductions of epochal events in the drawn-out struggle. Two hundred such pictures were shown, taken from a collection of 700, which for 10 years constituted a loan to the Library of Congress, but which were withdrawn two years ago to be placed in a carefully guarded vault at the National party headquarters.

Woman's Party members were urged to take a united stand and maintain an informed interest in the organization's present-day fight for economic equality by Anita Pollitzer in a brief talk which followed Miss Younger's. Miss Pollitzer, who is vice chairman of the party, is the wife of E. C. Edson, of New York City, for many years press representative for such distinguished foreign stars as Sarah Bernhardt, Alexander Moissi, Sacha Guitry and Yvonne Printemps.

The mayor's warning was issued after an emergency meeting of the police commission and Chief of Police D. C. Draper.

Jewish citizens have issued an appeal for members of their nationality to refrain from acts of violence should they see the swastika emblem displayed.

A Finesse or a Strip.

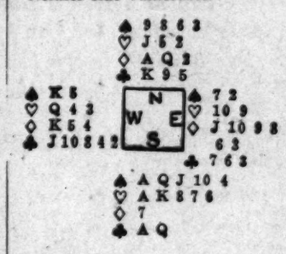
THE choice between a simple finesse to make a contract or a strip and elimination play to attain the same end is frequently a close and difficult one to make. Sometimes the deciding factor is unwittingly furnished by one or the other opponent, as in the hand below, played by L. M. Urban, of Brunn, Czechoslovakia. Mr. Urban's determination to play for the elimination and forced lead was based entirely upon West's Double. It would have been very poor play to prefer the elimination method of handling the cards had it not been practically decisively known that the finesse in trumps would not work.

Take it as an abstract proposition. The elimination play succeeds, first, if the spades are distributed 2-2 in the hands of the opponents; second, if the diamond King is with West, and, third, if the spade King and heart Queen are in the same hand—either East or West. The probabilities of these distributions are about one to three, one to two and one to two, respectively, and hence the probability that all the necessary conditions will exist and that the elimination will win is about one in ten. A successful finesse in spades implies fulfilling the contract, except in some very rare cases, as, for instance, when all of the four spades and all the five hearts are with East. The probability of making the contract by a successful finesse is slightly less than one to two or very much greater than the probability of making it by an elimination play. Thus it would be extremely foolish to make the elimination play unless there was definite information that the finesse would prove unsuccessful. This information was furnished by the Double, and it was very obvious then, as Mr. Urban points out, that the line of play should be tried, which might succeed if the spade King was with West.

The hand and bidding were:

East, Dealer.

Neither side vulnerable.



The bidding:

South	West	North	East
			Pass
2♠	Pass	3♠	Pass
4♡	Pass	4NT	Pass
6♠	Dbl.	Pass	Pass
Pass

The bidding was, perhaps, unduly optimistic. North's bid of four notrump was not the conventional bid showing two Aces and a King, but a strength-showing response to an Opening Forcing Bid. After this South must almost automatically bid the Slam.

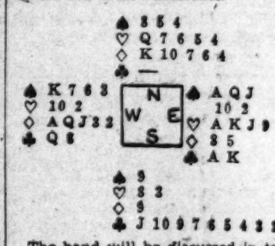
The Opening lead was a club. Declarer won it with the Ace and then finessed the diamond, discarding a heart upon the Ace when the finesse held. The small diamond was led from Dummy and ruffed by the Declarer. This completed the elimination of the diamond suit from both hands. South then led the club Queen, overtaking with the King, and returned a third round of clubs, which he ruffed with the spade Knave. Now the Ace of spades was laid down and the success of the contract was assured, provided West did not hold more than two spades originally. Another spade was led, and West was forced to win. His only choice of a lead at this point was either a heart or a club. The club lead would give the Declarer a ruff and a discard, while a heart permitted the play of the Knave from Dummy against the marked Queen in the West hand.

Tomorrow's Hand.

What is South's best course defensively if East, vulnerable, opens the bidding with two spades?

East, Dealer.

East and West vulnerable.



The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

MOTHER—protect her baby skin!

Prevent irritation with KLEENEX disposable tissues

Illustration and text copr. 1933, Kleenex Co.

Use for handkerchiefs, for drying, as a bib, for everything! Surprisingly inexpensive.

MOTHERS call Kleenex "the friendly tissue" because it's so handy and practical for so many, many uses. It costs very little. You use each tissue just once, then destroy. It's even softer than linen, and infinitely more absorbent.

Here are but a few of the many comments received from mothers:

"Kleenex makes the ideal handkerchief. It's so soft and absorbent that I feel sure of the safety of it on baby's tender skin."

"I dry my baby with Kleenex after her bath. Even old linen doesn't absorb moisture so effectively, and thorough drying is important in any baby's comfort."

"I use a sheet of Kleenex tucked under the chin as grandfather does his napkin, when I give my baby her cod liver oil and orange juice which stain clothes so badly. Baby's dresses are spotless and mother's temper much improved now. Kleenex also cuts down laundry expense."

And these are only a few of the valuable uses for Kleenex! Use it to remove face creams and cosmetics the safe way. It blots all dirt and impurities from the pores. You will want a box in every room in your house.

Safer than handkerchiefs

Important for baby! Kleenex is made under the most hygienic conditions. It is kept clean, hygienic, even during use, by the patented, self-dispensing, pull-out carton. You touch only the tissues you are about to use. Your hand never enters the box to contaminate or mess up the other sheets. You never take out more than the required amount—assurance of economy!

Garden Given Color Touch By Novelties

By Ruth Anne Davis.

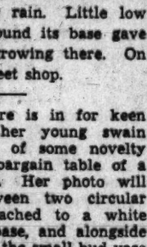
The garden was not only attractive because of its smooth lawn and well-trimmed hedges. Bright colored blossoms in shapely beds were decided attributes. But there was still more. The goldfish pond with its ivy border was atmosphere itself. The red brick walls barely visible beneath a sheath of vines left little to be desired. But the crowning glory was the mushroom seat, made of terra cotta, and colored to withstand the seige of sun or rain. Little low green plants around its base gave it the look of growing there. On sale in an M street shop.

Milady's picture is in for keen competition if her young swain takes advantage of some novelty frames on the bargain table of a downtown store. Her photo will be placed between two circular glass plates attached to a white nontarnishable base, and alongside will be a rose in the small bud vase forming one edge of the frame. Unless she can vie with the fragrant flower in sweetness and charm of appearance, let her be wary, at least till he has a talking picture.

At first thought one might say there's nothing new about musical powder boxes. But, aha, there is. There's a new price! An E street novelty shop is showing some which have been drastically reduced. Formerly selling for $3.50, they are now $1.49. And they're in excellent shape, some pyrimidal, some round. Choose your color—silver, green, blue. Quaint little miniatures on porcelain decorate their tops.

When you go on your vacation you want to leave the work-a-day world behind you. The surest way to do this is to equip yourself in A No. 1 style, and pretend you're a millionaire (see dictionary for obsolete terms). How can we pretend, you ask, when we can't pretend? That's an easy one. Haunt the bargain counters. Have one goal and cleave only to that. Seek the little odds and ends that make for finishing touches. Here's a lead—you'll take cards with you, of course. Everybody does. But you go one better. Buy a little leather card case that looks like a lot, but costs very little—29 cents. Excellent beginning.

The little dear had taken an hour for her bath. Mother feared the depths of the tub. Anxiously she opened the door and stood gazing into a white mist.



"Ka-choo!"

"Come out of there this instant."

A little butter ball with brown curls emerged in ghost-like form. In one hand she held an empty powder box.

A department store is selling a well-known brand of dusting powder, which has been $1.10, for 75 cents.

Don't Worry.

If it's a picnic, don't worry. If it's Sunday supper, don't worry. If it's this, that, or the other, don't worry. In fact don't worry. A downtown bakery is taking care of you with a specially prepared package containing one-half of a fried chicken for 35 cents.

When fall is really here and you dye some of your light summer dresses to wear around the house you'll need a little light wrap to wear over them. You'll want a nondescript color to go with anything you have, and made so as to be easily slipped on and off. And you want to pay very little for it, of course, for after all it's only for the house. It must be adapted for service, for you'll give it hard wear. Why not see the lightweight tan coat sweaters in an F street store on sale for 59 cents.

Men's Newer Underwear Affords Greater Comfort

Directed by Amos Parrish.

Modern underwear for men is designed to be as presentable and sensible as their outer apparel. And is. In color, pattern, cut and comfort it's as far removed from the 1900 red-flannel model as the Wright brothers' biplane is from Wiley Post's Winnie Mae.

Shirts-and-Shorts First.

The most popular men's underwear today is the two-piece shirt-and-short arrangement. The same outfit that track athletes have always found so comfortably convenient.

The undershirt part of your shirt-and-short costume is almost invariably plain-colored. Usually white, though there's a noticeable increase in the number of pastel shades being worn. You're not apt to find any patterned undershirts. Almost the only decorative treatment you'll see is confined to special weave effects such as mesh or Swiss ribbing.

Most likely the last shirts you bought were lisle. There's a pretty good chance (it's a general trend) that your next ones will be lisle again, because you, of course, know the fine comfort and absorbent qualities of this material. But some men like silk and synthetic yarns best . . . enough to make these types good fashions too.

Plain Blues and Whites Lead.

Color in underwear—if you crave it—comes in shorts. Whites, of course, hold first place. But blue is mighty popular. Next comes tans and grays. Plain trunks are the most worn, but vertical stripes and small checks are getting more and more popular.

Like your negligee shirts, the shorts in your bureau are almost sure to be broadcloth or madras. But there's nothing to prevent you from having the soft luxury of silk, or synthetic silks.

Carved-to-Fit Comfort.

After infinite research modern science recently found out that space is curved; it also made the discovery that the body is curved. And the result of all this is reflected in the cut and extra margin of comfort in present-day shorts—generously proportioned where roominess is wanted—curved and fitted where they should follow body lines.

There are three devices for keeping your shorts in place. First and oldest is the side-tie-type—illustrated above. Next comes the so-called French back—two straps which slip through each other and have two button-adjustments each—giving you a choice of four possible waistlengths. Finally there's the kind that have elastic either in the back or at each side.

So if you'll put just a little more care into the purchase of your shirts-and-shorts next time, you can easily assure yourself a better measure of underwear good-looks and comfort—the latter a mighty big item in hot, late summer days. Or any time, for that matter.

Anthropologist Says Home Life Best for Women

Feels They Lack Physical Endurance to Compete With Men.

Home and family will ever be woman's richest field for finding happiness—her natural medium for self realization and self expression—in the opinion of Dr. Ales Hrdlicka, curator of the Division of Physical Anthropology at Smithsonian Institution and one of the greatest living anthropologists.

"It is self evident," Dr. Hrdlicka stated gently, yesterday, to a Post reporter, who found him busy with figures in a gigantic ledger at his desk in his lofty, book-walled, cabinet-lined retreat at the institution.

"Woman was more fortunate until this latter-day feminist movement. It has rather confused her ideas. A good many who would follow it have been made more miserable. They have been deprived of happiness."

Convinced by Observation.

"I say this from lifelong experience as physician, scientist, and observer of human affairs." His detached manner, his low-pitched, musical, unforgettable voice, the far-seeing look in his eyes, lent quiet force to his conviction.

Turning aside from his figures, he continued:

"Disregarding what they may say, or think they feel, woman's greatest happiness will be found in husband, home, children. Her natural job is to bring up future generations. To do this properly—which means to do her best—takes a great amount of time, and no one can properly serve two masters."

Conceding that women scientists have indubitably added immeasurably to the sum of human enlightenment, Dr. Hrdlicka yet remains to be convinced that woman can ever be the absolute equal of man in such fields.

Children Need Mother.

Given equal inborn talents, woman will fall behind on the score of physical endurance alone, he believes. Not alone because of man's greater ability to endure, but also in view of woman's more acute reaction to the fatigue which results from doing so-called "man's work."

Another kind of endurance, another kind of force, she has in greater measure than man, he believes. Almost of a kind that man does not possess—the kind which sees her through the tedium and turmoil of child rearing, misfortune, grief, illness and loss, and leaves her in the end seemingly calm and unruffled—completed.

"She can give to children what no man can give. There is a sort of life force created and disseminated by a woman who lives in close daily association with her children," he hesitated, in search of words to make his thought articulate.

"It may be likened to sunshine. It does something for children, gives them a balance and an assurance, that nothing else can. And there is no substitute. If they don't get it from such source and in their childhood, they never get it in after life."

Scalp Needs More Care in Hot Weather

Frequent Shampoo in Summer Months Advised by Beauty Expert.

By Elsie Pierce.

During the summer the hair needs more frequent shampooing than at any other season.

For one thing, the oil and perspiration glands function more rapidly, sand and dust cling tenaciously and the scalp feels generally dirty. Frequent shampooing is in itself not harmful; not, at least, unless a caustic soap is used.

A good liquid soap should not prove unduly drying. This should be followed by thorough rinsing. Although wetting the hair in itself dries out some of the scalp's natural oil, it is not so much the shampoo as the subsequent drying that is really harmful.

The hot-air dryer should be used only in an emergency. If you have a shampoo at a beauty salon ask the operator to dry your hair as much as possible by hand with towels. She can turn the dryer on for the final drying, but not until most of the moisture is removed by towels first.

If you are in a special hurry or a last-minute teelphone call invites you to an important engagement and you wish to look your best, and your hair does feel oily or messy, try a dry shampoo.

There are a number of cleaning fluids, popularly called "dry shampoo," but they aren't technically dry. These are poured over the hair and allowed to dry.

The only objection to them is the odor. They smell much like cleaning fluids used for dresses. The odor, however, disappears after a short time and the hair is left clean and gleaming.

Cornmeal, almond meal and orris root have been popular for years. They are sprinkled over the hair, brushed out thoroughly and take every bit of oil and lint with them.

For excessively oily hair, equal parts of cornmeal and orris root and a little powdered camphor, mixed together, form an excelent dry shampoo. The large salt shakers obtained in the five and ten cent stores are splendid containers for these dry shampoos.

Many blondes find that their hair needs shampooing more frequently than once a week. After three or four days it becomes oily and dank. An occasional dry shampoo is fine to tone the scalp, stimulate the circulation, clean the hair.

My hair bulletins, including dry shampoo recipes, may be had for a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Elsie Pierce will answer any questions on beauty you wish to ask her. Address Miss Pierce, in care of The Washington Post, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Order Among Accessories.

There is no better boudoir "catch-all" than one of the inexpensive pasteboard shoe cabinets. Neatly out of sight in ehe clothes closet, perhaps, it will hold in its many separate compartments your stockings, gloves, collar and cuff sets, handkerchiefs, nose veils, hair bandeaux and other odds-and-ends. The convenient compartments prevent the jumble which usually results with the bestowal of belongings in larger bureau drawers, and are ideal for receiving things fresh from dry cleaner or laundry.

Fish Is Excellent Source of Proteins and Is Inexpensive; Hard Shell Crabs Replace Soft Shell Variety.

Those who observe Friday as fish day have a fairly large number of species to select from without considering those which are shipped from a distance.

Chesapeake Bay is now producing large quantities of butterfish, croakers, spot, sea trout, striped bass and crabs.

Each of these sea foods is an important source of minerals and proteins. It frequently has been said that fish, as a class, is the cheapest source of protein foods.

Tests have proved that fish are important sources of such minerals as calcium, phosphorous, iodine, iron, magnesium, manganese and copper.

But the best part of the fish situation is that the scientific aspects of the food may be brushed aside and the fish eaten and enjoyed because they are tasty, easily prepared and inexpensive.

This is the right time of year to buy hard-shell crabs as a variation from the soft-shell crabs of earlier months.

Hard-Shell Crabs in Season.

The hard-shell crabs may be prepared in several ways. One of the more easily prepared crab dishes is crab cakes. A time-tested recipe for crab cakes is:

One pound of crab meat. One egg. One slice of crumbled bread. Salt, pepper and parsley.

This mixture is made into patties, rolled in cracker crumbs and fried in deep fat or butter. These crab cakes really are good.

Another way to utilize hard-shell crabs is in soup. The recipe for this is:

Boil a soup stock beef bone. Add six cleaned crabs, which have had the claws cracked. After these have boiled for a short time, add one large can of tomatoes, or fresh tomatoes, and the kernels from two large ears of corn. Some chopped celery and parsley may be added, too. A can of peas may be included, if desired. The soup should be seasoned with a dash of red pepper in addition to salt. It should be boiled for about one hour.

Friers Are Inexpensive.

If one does not care for fish, chicken may be served advantageously. Friers and broilers are inexpensive. The quality is excellent. Friers and broilers retail from 25 to 30 cents a pound, depending upon quality.

Fowls are inexpensive. Considerable care should be exercised when shopping for these, as a wide range of quality is on the market. Top price is 25 cents a pound.

Spring baking chickens are more expensive than either friers or broilers. There is considerable work attached to preparing a baking chicken. But it is worth the trouble.

Baking chickens will be more plentiful later in the year when the chickens which now are of frier and broiler sizes grow a few pounds heavier. From the standpoint of economy it pays to wait a while.

More grapes are coming into Washington. And fresh dates from the Norfolk region are offered in scattered quantities.

Avocados are cheap compared with the prices of last year. California avocados are scarce. Those from Florida are of excellent quality.

Peaches are more plentiful. The harvest in the Winchester region of Virginia is on now. Prices are not low. It is possible that Maryland and Pennsylvania offerings may be less expensive as the harvest of Elbertas and Hales progresses.

Retail Food Prices.

Eggs—Government inspected, 29 to 30 cents; extras, 28 to 27 cents; loose mediums, 23 cents.

What Today Means

"Leo."

If August 18 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 to 11:10 a. m., from 4 to 5:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:30 to 8:10 a. m., from 12 noon to 12:15 p. m. and from 6 to 7:20 p. m.

Influences operating on this date will be thought provoking in nature and will lead people to intelligently ponder problems that have been troubling them for some time. You can look for people to think their way through and out of difficulties on this date. Children and lovers will not rush headlong into situations of a troublous or embarrassing nature on this date.

The child born on this August 18 will enjoy the company of many people and will be his brightest and sweetest when there are others around him for him to mix with. Kind, thoughtful and considerate, he will win favor with all who come his way. He will receive many presents and will not be spoiled by much attention.

If August 18 is the date of your birth, you are always willing to trust to Lady Luck; "take a chance" might well be your moto. If there is an element of risk in anything, you are willing to try it. Danger has a fascination for you, and without being actually reckless, you often do very daring things. You are a person of courage, physical and moral. You are not one to be easily dissuaded by others, but you can be reasoned with and you will listen to advice from those whose opinions you value. You have many friends, but you are not interested in people as people. As individuals they often mean a great deal to you, but to those who come your way you are often rude, sometimes to the point of being unkind. You love children and they respond to you. You generally have more money than you know what to do with, and you are generous with it to a fault, that is, when it comes to doing things for and helping out those you call friends.

Born on August 18, a fiery temper may make you suffer in your business relations; you must learn to keep youself in better control in your dealings with strangers. You will make a definite place for yourself in any line of work that you may get into. People will respect your opinion and your abilities and many will fear you. You can be ruthless in your treatment of others when it comes to making money. A loving mate will do much to tone you down.

Successful people born on August 18:

Seth Thomas, manufacturer.

Charles Francis Adams, statesman.

Marshall Field, merchant of Chicago.

Robley D. Evans (Fighting Bob), naval officer.

Mark W. Harrington, astronomer.

James H. Hyslop, psychologist and educator.

Seriously—Should NRA Affect Style?

Seriously, ladies, if you find the millinery modes of the coming season lack variation, you can lay it at the door of Gen. Johnson and his NRA—or so the millinery makers hint.

"I think we are going on a 40-hour basis, without overtime," stated a delegates at Wednesday's meeting of representatives of the millinery industry, foregathered at the Washington Hotel for a "final agreement and understanding on the terms of the code."

"The general tendency of the limited working hour basis," averred James C. Worthy, assistant to Dr. Howard Earl Dean, deputy administrator in charge of the garment industry, "will be to do away with variations in millinery."

"New styles are devised and created when workers have plenty of time. It looks now like the millinery workers, working on the new basis, will be kept busy in just turning out enough hats to cover the ladies' heads," he laughed.

Teach Child Not to Fear Doctor's Care

Lessons in Pill Swallowing Aid Child When Medicine Is Necessary.

By Alice Clarissa Richmond.

While childhood illnesses are not inevitable, most children do at some time or other get sick. One young mother decided to be prepared for such emergencies.

Part of the baby's bath ritual she made an exercise in gargling. Mother and child had gargling contests with plain water until the child became quite practiced in the art, and colds and throat infections lost some of their terror.

There was also a course in swallowing pills which stood them in good stead at a later time. A few bread pills were rolled at each meal and one was swallowed at a gulp to see if it could be done.

The child who is early trained in such simple practices is very much easier to handle in the emergencies of illness than the one to whom it is all strange. We can hardly expect a child to go through infancy without an illness, and sometimes a part of the cure may depend upon his cooperation.

Even more important than the ability to take the medicine is his willingness. If he is from the beginning made to understand that the doctor's word is law and that, no matter what the treatment or how evil-tasting the dose, it must be taken, many trying and exhausting scenes, often resulting in actual harm to the patient, might be avoided. Bribes in such a case are worse than useless, and in some crises may be a positive hindrance to the necessary speed of treatment.

The child must be made to understand that unpleasant as the duty may be there is no avoiding it. If he is made to realize this as soon as he is able to grasp the meaning of words, the problem is easy, and probably will be solved for all time, since no alternative will occur to the child.

Oysters Gave General First Defeat in Service

Maj. Gen. George Barnett, World War commandant of the United States Marine Corps, who died in Washington several years ago, never saw an oyster or a marine until he came East from his Wisconsin home to enter the class of 1881 at the Service Academy.

While his train was passing through Pittsburgh he saw a group of marines guarding a railroad station from strikers. His experience with the oyster took place in Washington.

With another boy en route to the Academy, Gen. Barnett had stopped off in Washington to see the sights of the National Capital. The general had heard of a certain restourant here which made a specialty of steamed oysters.

When he arrived at this eating house with his friend the waiter asked him how many.

Gen. Barnett, not wishing to admit his slight acquaintance with the succulent bivalve, responded:

"Oh, about a bushel apiece."

The oysters began to arrive, platter by platter, and to the amusement of the natives, their table was soon mostly oyster and very little boy.

After several dozen had been consumed by each lad they acknowledged that they had met their first defeat since entering the service of Uncle Sam.

Best Talcums Are Soft; React to 'Thumb' Test

That velvet-soft, slippery quality peculiar to the best talcums—the absence or presence of which you may detect by rubbing some of the powder between your thumb and forefinger—means there is included a property desirable as an antiseptic, deodorizing skin lubricant, and that the mixture is chemically pure.

If, when buying talcums, you remember to apply the "thumb" test, established by Dr. O. I. Waring, Long Island City research chemist, you can readily detect inferior talcums. They are gritty. And, worse, contain numerous mineral impurities which, when dissolved by bodily perspiration, yield soluble mineral salts irritating to the skin.

Clothes Tree Makes Lamp.

Wanting a floor lamp taller than could be found anywhere, one woman bethought herself of an old-fashioned clothes tree long since relegated to the attic. She dragged it forth, brightened it with mahogany stain, draped the "branches" with a string of bulbs, fitted an enormous seeming, yet completely-in-proportion lamp shade over the branches, and lo! had the lamp of her dreams.

Former Worship.

By Katherine Smith.

Your cigarette's smoke-threads float up
And circle your half-shadowed face,
Like heathen incense rising to Pay homage to an idol's grace.

In times long past my hands have been Pointed in prayer, my head
Heavy with earthly dust has bent
To lie beneath your feet. A thread

Of pale, sad smoke drifts to your face;
I watch it. Though I watched before
In adoration, now I know
That I shall never worship more.

Ring for Divorcee.

Another new thing under the sun—the divorcee ring. Of white gold, delicately wrought as any bride's, it is symbolically fashioned as a broken circle. The two ends pass without meeting. It twines once and slightly again about the finger—the wedding ring finger. If you are interested, you may inspect, try on and buy at an F street jewelry store. The idea originated with the store's proprietor.

Sunday Supper Simple to Serve

There is no time that is more pleasant for entertaining than Sunday evening. The informal and simple supper is the most enjoyable.

In some homes everyone helps with the preparation. In other homes the food is set on the dining-room table and all gather round and help themselves. Still others serve Sunday night supper in the living room or sunroom.

In planning your menu choose foods that may be prepared in advance and are easy to serve. Keeping a supply of meats packed in glass jars and cans on your emergency shelf will prove of much assistance if unexpected guests drop in.

Ham, tongue, luncheon meats, corned beef, sandwich spreads, as well as many other meats, are to be found at your retailer's. These meats are all ready to serve as they come from the container.

Cold Meat Platter.

In the center of a large platter arrange spiced peaches or pears on a crisp lettuce leaf. Divide the plate into six spoke-like sections. Place overlapping slices of baked spiced ham, liver sausage, meat loaf, cooked salami, luncheon tongue, and canned corned beef in the sections. Garnish with curled celery and pickle fans.

Senator Pepper Tells Good One on Parson

Former Senator George Wharton Pepper, of Pennsylvania, is a raconteur of parts, and enjoys telling a good story quite as much as people relish listening to it. He is fond of telling about a parson who was besieged by a woman who wanted her wedding to take place on Sunday.

As this was most unusual, the minister tried to dissuade her. But it was in vain. Only Sunday would do, and the only place to fit it in was after the second lesson at evensong on the coming Sabbath day.

Then the announcement was made:

"All persons desiring marriage step forward."

Out of the congregation advanced one lone man and 17 women to the chancel rail.

The senator, with a twinkle in his eye, always adds:

"One of these women was the bride, two were maids of honor and 14 of them were bridesmaids!"

Mother has on her new gray satin gown, which she expected to christen in Paris. Around the shoulders is a graceful drape which is partly covered by the lovely cape of gray heron's feathers with rhinestone fastening. This interesting new note is repeated in a fan of heron's feathers.

Jeanne has a diagonal swirl in her coiffure which is most becoming. She wears bronze green lame cut in the new mermaid lines with two fish tails. Her costume jewelry is of water blue stones. She enjoys, as always, her dance with her husband. Howard is somewhat conservative in his evening clothes.

Judy knows that these wide, ruffly shoulders are doomed, but she adores this dress of bonbon pink and is conscious that it is most becoming. The ruffles are edged with starched lace and the waist is finished with a perky bow of pink satin ribbon. Her escort wears a white mess jacket and black trousers of Palm Beach cloth.

Another guest has a costume of black and white chiffon. The ruffles on the shoulders are repeated around the bottom of a very full skirt which, of course, tightly sheathes her hips. The small white panama hat has a feather ornament in front. The lights of the smart Park avenue hotel twinkle above her.

Chances Bright for Preliminary Season of Revivals at National—Film Reviewed

Four Weeks of Dramatic Hits Hope of House

Substantial Screen Comedy Opens at Keith's; News of Show World.

By Nelson B. Bell.

Having arrived home from the Sharkey-Carnera fight, by way of Lake Hopatcong, N. J., at a late hour Wednesday night, Manager Stephen E. Cochran, of the National Theater, yesterday afternoon was enthusiastic over the outlook for a brief preliminary season of guest-star revivals of dramatic hits, as set forth in this space last Monday morning.

According to present plans—and their consummation seems not too remote a contingency to be taken seriously—this preliminary season would take the form of a four-week interval of standard plays, enacted by representative stars of the legitimate stage, to precede the major season of regular road-show bookings to be inaugurated at the National on October 2.

From the present outlook, I am informed by Mr. Cochran, this selection would in all probability be made from among the following: Jane Cowl in "The Lady of the Camelias;" Corinne Griffith in Noel Coward's "Design for Living;" Helen Menken in "Seventh Heaven;" Bert Lytell in "Criminal at Large," and James Kirkwood in "The Fool."

Telegraphic information was being awaited last night as to the quick availability of a sufficient number of these engaging works to assure the season Mr. Cochran contemplates.

Word from Anne Ford, whose eloquent typewriter at the moment is devoted to the interests of Miss Cowl and her "Camille," playing the Tremont Theater in Boston, by the way, yesterday brought tidings of a week's extension of this sterling work over the two originally allotted it in the Hub. With Rollo Peters in support of the star, it has proved a sensational hit, with an enormous demand for seats at every performance.

Fire Damage Overestimated.

It will be of interest and comfort to their many friends in the Capital, too, that Mr. Cochran reports the fire casualties at Rapley Lodge, at Lake Spofford, N. H., less serious than was at first reported last Tuesday. A wire from the owner of the National brought reassurance as to the welfare of both the dean of Washington managers and Mrs. William Harryman Rapley.

Mr. Rapley, incidentally, has heartily indorsed Panjandrum Cochran's scheme for the preliminary season.

An Ingenue to Her Dad.

When Will Rogers gets back to California from the polo matches in Chicago he may have a new leading lady, and by that token the surprise of his life, awaiting him.

Mary Howard—that, it will be recalled, is the name the cowboy philosopher's daughter adopted when she broke into the movies last month—has been screen and microphone tested for the ingenue lead in her dad's next picture, "There's Always Tomorrow," and the report around the lot yesterday, if the telegraphic flash now before me is to be relied upon, was that there seemed to be no visible way in which Mary could miss.

Her only screen work to date has been a small part in a musical production, "My Weakness."

In "There's Always Tomorrow," the role of the comedian's wife, played by long habit by Irene Rich, will be assumed by ZaSu Pitts, now appearing with "Slim" Summerville in "Her First Mate," at RKO-Keith's as a further perusal of this page will disclose.

"Blondies of the Follies."

Speaking of wire flashes from Hollywood, another one hot off the ticker is to the effect that two versions were offered yesterday as to why Peggy Hopkins Joyce, much married actress, surrendered her role in "Broadway Through a Keyhole" to Lilyan Tashman.

This was the script that won the country's most notorious gossip $25,000 from Darryl Zanuck, vice president in charge of production for Twentieth Century Pictures, and a punch in the jaw from Al Jolson.

The management of Twentieth Century said Miss Joyce's contract for the leading feminine role was abrogated because she failed to learn her lines and was late on the set.

Miss Joyce, through her secretary and a cloud of rumors, declared she quit the production yesterday because of a relapse suffered recently in Chicago following an attack of tonsilitis and that she was by no means leaving Hollywood, but was planning to continue her career in two other pictures.

Bumper—Not Bum—Year!

A note from that high-strung Southern gentleman, Mr. S. A. Galanty, Washington manager for Columbia Pictures, serves as a letter of transmittal for a copy of Columbia's year-book and also to convey the advice that when a preview screening of Damon Runyon's "Lady for a Day"—based on his story of "Madame Le Guimpe"—is arranged for the ladies and gentlemen (sic) of the local dramatic desks, they will see thrilling performances by May Robson, Warren William, Guy Kibbee, Ned Sparks and Glenda Farrell.

"We have assigned Frank Capra, Lewis Milestone and Frank Borzage," continues Mr. Galanty, "to do no less than six pictures during the coming season and have great hopes for a wonderful line-up of attractions."

A cursory survey of the yearbook, executed on pages 11 by 14 inches in size, in all of the colors of the spectrum on highly glazed plate paper, seems to confirm Mr. Galanty's most extravagant seasonal enthusiasms.

Stars at Play.

The "Water Carnival" issue of Screen Snapshots, currently on view at RKO-Keith's, is unusually prolific in screen celebrities caught by the camera in off-stage moments of relaxation and pleasure.

Up to the time my memory and teletyper both broke down I had chronicled for my own amazement the names of no less a group of notable than Will Rogers, William S. Hart, looking a little old, "two-gun Bill"; Richard Arlen, Colleen Moore, Jack Holt, Chester Morris, Glenda Farrell, Warren William, Lew Ayres, Ginger Rogers, Ken Murray, Jack Oakie, Bing Crosby, Helene Madison, Johnny Weissmuller, Stubby Kreuger, Dolores Del Rio, Claudette Colbert, Norma Talmadge, Herbert Brenon, the director; Joe E. Brown, Mrs. Brown and one of their sons; Jimmy Cagney and Jimmy McLarnin and Marie Dressler.

A fair day's work for any cameraman!

Horror in Havana.

The depictions of the Cuban rioting set forth in the latest issues of the newsreels are a bit too vivid for pleasant consumption. What the mobs did to the presidential palace and the Heraldo de Cuba publishing plant was exciting enough in spectacle of uncurbed vandalism, but when it came to the physical violence and murderous mayhem practiced upon the body of Col. Antonio Jiminez, head of the dreaded La Porra, former President Machado's strong-arm squad, the camera was a little too close for the most tranquilizing effect upon sensitively organized nervous systems.

Senor Jiminez, when they finished with him, looked like nothing quite so much as a blood-drenched bundle of rags. I think the newscaster announced that 41 bullets were fired into his body, but it may have been only 14—a completely adequate number, at that.

NRA—Not Run Again.

The official motion picture trailer of the NRA was given its world premier at Loew's Fox Theater yesterday. During its showing on the screen it was cheered lustily and accorded spontaneous and sustained applause.

The trailer was taken to the theater by Frank R. Wilson, department administrator of NRA in charge of public relations and publicity, in order that it might be viewed by his staff.

After one showing it was taken off, pending national release to motion picture houses throughout the country within the next few days.

"Brook Johns Night" will be officially celebrated at Loew's Fox tonight at the day's last performance of "Going Native," the all-Washington revue, which has its premiere this early afternoon.

A delegation of more than 100 residents of Kensington, Md., where Mr. Johns is well known and where Almira Sessions, one of the stars of the revue, makes her home, will be on hand to cheer the "home-towners" onto victory. A section of seats has been especially reserved for this delegation.

There will be some sizable delegations dropping in at the Earle today, too, to watch the headline artist go through his amusing antics—in the flesh.

Sort of a Howard watch, as you might say.

RKO-Keith's

"HER FIRST MATE." Universal picturization of the play, "Salt Water," by Daniel Jarrett, John Golden and Frank Craven, costarring "Slim" Summerville and ZaSu Pitts, with Una Merkel, Warren Hymer, Berton Churchill, George Marion, Henry Armetta and Jocelyn Lee. Directed by William Wyler. Reviewed Thursday afternoon.

When, near the beginning of this salty contribution to the gayety of RKO-Keith audiences Sam, the old seadog, paused in the doorway of the Horner cottage and observed, "Those whom God hath joined together ought to be left alone to battle it out," many in the audience began to suspect that this was destined to be merely another farcical domestic wrangle between "Slim" Summerville and the lugubrious and futile Miss ZaSu Pitts.

Happily, this was a fear that virtually failed to materialize as the action of the piece, a little belatedly, perhaps, struck its true gait. What became apparent, instead, was that in this transcription of the play "Salt Water," by the Messrs. Dan Jarret, John Golden and Frank Craven, the adapters contrived with some skill to arrange for the convenient uses of the cameras and microphones a comedy of situation that grew increasingly funny as it progressed.

"Her First Mate" is not one of the most riotously hilarious of the joint enterprises of these two droll stars, but it is one of the most substantial and most solidly built of all the vehicles they have had.

There is a dramatic integrity in its shaping of events that considerably transcends the flimsy devices of farce.

Now and again touches of human nature obtrude themselves in such deft fashion as to steady, momentarily at least, the whole rocking structure of this tale of the "deep sea" that never gets very far, or for very long, away from the narrow borders of the Hudson River or that meager stretch of water between the Battery and Staten Island in New York.

A joint bank account is the genesis of the entire muddle. Mr. and Mrs. John Horner, in the persons of Mr. Summerville and Miss Pitts, have saved a family nest egg of $5,000. He is the last of a long line of mariners with the tang of salt water in their nostrils and the winds of the seven seas beating against their grizzled faces. But the best he seems able to manage in the way of a nautical career is the job of candy butcher on the Albany night boat!

So Mary Horner surreptitiously buys her seafaring spouse the measly little ferryboat that circumnavigates the globe in six-minute trips back and forth across the river.

In the meatime, John, having been fired from his modest job, has arranged to purchase a seaworthy schooner at a ridiculously low price from a Grecian gentleman of dubious repute and purpose.

The ferry having crashed the dock, caught fire and exploded before John could snitch the money to pay for his own craft, he trades his home for the boat and becomes a deep-water sailor—for one afternoon, fraught with disastrous encounters with the rum chasers off the Manhattan shoreline.

There are, in the end, restitutions, readjustments and reconciliations, but not before the casual speculator has enjoyed a generous assortment of misadventures, thrills and spontaneous and explosive laughs.

Mr. Summerville is content to rest a trifle this side of his funniest, but Miss Pitts achieves a comic episode of tremendous vitality when, swinging the bottle to christen the new ferryboat a little tardily, she christens the side of Berton Churchill's head instead, much to that gentleman's surprise and consternation, you may imagine!

In addition to Mr. Churchill and the veteran George Marion, who hasn't enough to do by half, Una Merkel and Warren Hymer lend valiant support, as Hattie Horner and Percy, a dumb life saver, whom a fragile young woman finally drags to safety in a moment of marine crisis! Henry Armetta is briefly staccato as Socrates, the rumrunner.

A Jimmy Gleason comedy, "Gleason's New Deal," something less than devastating; an unusually good "Pooch, the Pup," cartoon, "Nature's Work Shop; a screen snapshots, thickly populated with movie stars in informal moments, and the Pathe News augment a bill of vigorous merit.

She Has the Honor and the "Glory"!

She, of course, is Katharine Hepburn, one of the most fascinating of the cinema's rising stars; the honor would be that of inaugurating RKO-Keith's "Greater Show Season" in Washington next Friday, August 25, and the "glory," the picture named "Morning Glory," in which she will perform that gracious and interesting function.

Taxicab Men Named to Form Board of Trade

Organization to Pave Way for Participation in NRA Drive.

Definite steps toward organization were taken by Washington taxicab drivers last night when a committee was appointed to draw up by-laws for a taxicab board of trade.

Formation of the board will pave the way for cooperation in the President's recovery program through submission of a code providing for an increase in rates and change of zones. The taxicab men say they realize this is the only way they can help themselves, as installation of meters is possible only through action of Congress.

Last night's action, taken at the District Building, followed a preliminary meeting Monday night, called by T. W. Fowler, who said he is an interested individual and does not represent any taxicab company or contemplated company.

Diamond Company Absent.

The Diamond Cab Co. was without official representation last night, despite an invitation. However, the company will be invited to be represented on the organization committee.

Harry C. Davis, president of the Independent Taxi Owners Association, operators of the Diamond Cabs, sent a telegraphed protest to President Roosevelt early this week, charging that Washington taxi drivers were flying the Blue Eagle and not complying with the President's reemployment agreement. Mr. Davis said his association was sponsoring a code being prepared by the National Association of Taxicab Drivers.

Draw Up Own City Code.

The local drivers, however, have been persuaded by heads of the District NRA campaign to draw up a code of their own. Without meters, it is pointed out, it will be impossible to regulate hours of work.

Indications were given last night that the rates will be increased but slightly, and that the first zone will still embrace a large area.

Richmond B. Keech, people's counsel, will work with the organization committee, members of which are Albert W. Jacobson, City Cab Co.; Leon Brill, Bell Cab Co.; Jack Dolton, Blue Light Cab Corporation; J. H. Royer, jr., Premier Cab Association; E. D. Leffingwell, Greylon Co., who will represent small associations, and C. H. Lettow, who will represent independent operators.

Will Rogers Here Looking Over NRA

Visits With Gen. Johnson, Whom He Calls "Dyno-Dyno-Dynamic."

Will Rogers came to town last night.

A reporter for The Washington Post spotted him in a drug store as he was finishing a soft drink, chased him out to the street and asked him if he were in Washington incognito?

"Incog—what?" said Rogers, and rubbed his jaw. "No, I've just come from a visit to Gen. Johnson. He's—what do you call it?—dyno——"

"Dynamic," the reporter suggested.

"That's it."

By this time the comedian had reached the lobby of the Willard. He bought some chewing gum, leaned against the cigar counter, became intrigued in a sliding glass case cover and pulled his hat over his eyes in his familiar manner.

Then lobby loungers gathered about him like bees around honey. Sol A. Rosenblatt, deputy administrator of the NRA in charge of amusement codes, was among those who came over for a chat. Rogers said he would remain here until tomorrow, looking over the NRA.

3 Killers Electrocuted At Sing Sing Prison

Ossining, N. Y., Aug. 17 (AP).—Three men died in the electric chair at Sing Sing Prison tonight in atonement for as many murders.

The triple execution began at 10:04 p. m. and was completed in 18 minutes.

John Jordan, 33, was the first to die. He was followed by George Swan, 21. Both were convicted on a charge of slaying two men in an Astoria, Long Island, restaurant holdup.

The third man was Stephen Witherell, 30, who was found guilty of killing his father because the latter refused to lend him money.

Corner Traffic Blocked By Automobile Crash

Traffic at Fourteenth and Pennsylvania avenue northwest was blocked for several minutes last night when a coupe, driven by Julian K. Morrison, 3030 Wisconsin avenue northwest, went hurtling across the intersection after colliding with another car. The coupe, which was knocked on its side, crashed into a traffic semaphore.

The other car was occupied by Miss Emma Zoe Gross, of Pittsburgh, Pa., and her mother.

Public Is Urged To Ride 5-Cent Street Buses

Car Passengers Are Told by Keech to Support New Zone System.

Public patronage of the experimental 5-cent short-haul ordered by the Public Utilities Commission on the Fourteenth street loop of the Washington Railway & Electric Co. was urged yesterday by People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech, long an advocate of the zone fare for street railways.

In letters to Wiley M. Fuller and Mrs. Marie O. Rossman, of the Liberty Loan Annex, Treasury Department, who had asked for the 5-cent fare in behalf of several hundred employes, Mr. Keech said in part:

"The inauguration of this service is far-reaching in effect. It is, of course, important to you and those whom you represented that it be continued. Equally, if not more important, is it to the general riding public that the experiment succeed.

"I entertain no doubt that if this undertaking should prove successful that the companies will be perfectly willing to experiment in other locations. On the other hand, should it fail, then not only will you be deprived of this service at the rate of 5 cents, but the companies, and with some justification, will be reluctant to make similar experiments."

The company yesterday submitted a proposed schedule for the new service. It provides for three extra runs of the street cars between 3:55 and 4:38 p. m. and for six runs of buses between 11:53 a. m. and 12:43 p. m. Only two buses will be necessary.

Slaying of Woman By Hobo Doubted

Prosecutor Plans to Call Divorcee Friend of Accused Man.

San Jose, Calif., Aug. 17 (AP).—Sheriff W. J. Emig characterized as "pure bunk" today reports that a Negro hobo had been heard boasting he killed Mrs. Allene Lamson, for whose death her husband, David A. Lamson, young Stanford University Press official, will face trial Monday.

District Attorney Fred L. Thomas said he has under consideration the question of calling Mrs. Sarah Kelly, Sacramento divorcee, as a prosecution witness. He described her as a friend Lamson had visited several times in Sacramento.

Mrs. Lamson was found dead in the bathroom of her home last Memorial Day. Her skull had been crushed.

Four Missing on Hunt For Youths in Cascades

Seattle, Aug. 17 (AP).—Four men searching for Edward Fotheringill, 16, and Frank Rey, 20, missing a week since they went on a fishing trip in the Cascade foothills near Buckley, were missing themselves today.

Dan Bartoy, of Wilkeson; August Cristel, of Carbonado, and two others whose names were not learned failed to return to camp last night.

All other members of the searching party of 105 men are accounted for.

Tongs Bury Hatchet In New York Parley

New York, Aug. 17 (AP).—United States Attorney George Z. Medalie announced tonight that the Hip Sings and On Leongs, Chinese tongs, had buried the hatchet.

The peace move concluded a "war" which has been going on for the last two months with occasional outbreaks.

A treaty was signed by representatives of the tongs in the office of the Chinese consulate general, Medalie said. It is effective throughout the country.

Auto Ruts Kill Man Who Preferred Horses

Harrison, N. Y., Aug. 17 (AP).—Mariano Falco would have no automobile. When he gave up his farm ten years ago, he kept his horses, and to feed them he spent much of his time gathering hay from the fields and farms of neighbors.

His hay wagon struck a rut in a field, at Rye, N. Y., yesterday—a rut made by parking automobiles. He fell off the wagon and died a short time later.

Greatest Labor Legislation, Dr. Wolman Says of NRA

Accomplishes Aims Sought for Years, Declares Head of Advisory Board.

"In one stroke we have legislation providing standard conditions of labor in all the States—minimum wages, maximum hours and collective bargaining."

This is the summary of the labor angle of the national recovery act made yesterday by Dr. Leo Wolman, chairman of the Labor Advisory Board and acting chairman of the National Labor Board.

Dr. Wolman's office, which advises the recovery organization on labor provisions of industrial codes, is generally considered the "trouble center" of the NRA, the point at which labor is fighting for its rights. Dr. Wolman denies that this is true.

Ends Years of Fighting

"For years labor has been waging a fight for minimum wages and maximum hours," Dr. Wolman declared. "And the best they could do was to get maximum-hour legislation for women in a few of the States.

"That fight was ended by the recovery act. It is the greatest single step forward ever taken in the interest of labor. It solves problems that might not have been solved otherwise for years.

"It is so sweeping an advance in the building up of standard conditions of labor that in the face of it, individual exceptions to the fulfillment of its spirit may be considered only as incidents.

"The function of the Labor Advisory Board is not to fight for rights, as some people suppose, but to help pave the way for a common understanding and agreement between industry and labor in the writing of codes."

Seeks Sound Provisions.

"It is in the primary interest of labor," he continued, "to see that the labor provisions written into the codes are sound, rather than to get out of industry more than it can give.

"In my opinion labor has shown no tendency to be unreasonable in its demands.

"To the general public there appears to be an unusual amount of friction between labor and industry. That is inevitable in a period of reorganization. Many strikes accompanied the period of increased employment during the war. In times like this men join labor organizations.

"Today's strikes are not serious. They appear so because of their number, but many of them have been brewing for some time, and this is a logical time for an explosion.

Strikes Being Averted.

"It is a comparatively easy affair for the National Labor Board to check a number of them by sending men to the site of trouble to point out the rights of the case. Others are more difficult, but there is no reason to believe that any of them will be insoluble."

"People must not look at individual incidents and try to judge the value of history-making legislation from them," Dr. Wolman said. "A minimum wage of $12 a week may be too little in some individual case, but such cases are incidents when the voluntary agreement on the part of industry to do away with child labor is considered. There we have an achievement which probably could not have been realized under any other arrangement."

Dr. Wolman is known as a member of President Roosevelt's brain trust. He is professor of economics at Columbia University, author of several books on labor questions, and has served almost continually on State, interstate and national boards since 1914.

Aided by Dr. Leiserson.

Directing the work of the National Labor Board under his supervision, is Dr. W. M. Leiserson, professor of economics at Antioch College, and a renowned mediator of labor disputes. For nearly 12 years Dr. Leiserson has been the impartial member of boards of arbitration settling outstanding troubles. He is the author of "Unemployment in the State of New York," and "Adjusting Immigration and Industry."

Underwood & Underwood.

DR. LEO WOLMAN, chairman of the Labor Advisory Board and acting chairman of the National Labor Board.

In charge of the labor end of code drafting, under Dr. Wolman, is Dr. Gustav Peck, instructor of economics at the College of the City of New York and former professor of economics at the University of South Dakota. Dr. Peck collaborated with Dr. Wolman in writing the labor section of the report of the President's committee on recent social trends.

Associated with Dr. Peck in the code work, are Dr. J. P. Troxel, of Duke University; Dr. Solomon Barkin, of the College of the City of New York, and Dr. Joel Berrall, of Columbia University, all instructors in labor problems, with practical experience in settling disputes.

Aiding Dr. Wolman in his work on the policy board, is Dr. William Woolston.

Calls In Specialists.

For information on specialized subjects, Dr. Wolman has called in such men as Dr. George W. Stocking, professor of economics at the University of Texas, on the subject of oil; Dr. Lawrence B. Seltzer, of the College of Detroit, for automobiles; Dr. Paul H. Douglas, professor of political economy at the University of Chicago, and Dr. John A. Fitch, director of industrial courses at the New York School of Social Work, on steel.

Dr. Wolman was a special agent of the U. S. Commission on Industrial Relations in 1914, served with the Council for National Defense in 1917, the War Industries Board in 1919, the American Peace Mission, in France, in 1919, the advisory commission of the United States Unemployment Conference in 1921. He was a lecturer at Harvard University in 1930. He is the author of "The Boycott in American Trade Unions," "Growth of American Trade Unions," and "Planning and Control of Public Works."

Tomorrow and Sunday—Sea Scout week-end cruise.

Wednesday, August 30—4 p. m., Cub swim; 5 p. m., Scout swim, at Y. M. C. A.

Two more days and the 1933 season of Camp Roosevelt will come to a close. Enrollments this year have far exceeded those of last year. Advancement in rank and in merit badges, as well as the number of Scouts who have learned to swim and who have mastered life saving, has surpassed previous years.

Many troops have attended Camp Roosevelt in large numbers, going to camp in a body and operating there under the direction of their scoutmaster. Such a camp experience means that their troop this fall will start off in the best possible shape, having built up a strong troop teamwork at camp.

Now everybody is beginning to plan ahead to make the 1934 season at Camp Roosevelt even better and more far-reaching than this season has been.

Camp Wilson, at Burnt Mills, Md., will continue until September 15 and large numbers of Scouts individually and in patrol groups and in troop groups will spend short or long periods there.

Sea Scout Cruises.

Robert Myers, Sea Scout director, announces the following Sea Scout cruises on the Potomac and Chesapeake, in Capt. Jack Bryant's Edith Marcy:

Second 10-day cruise, September 4-14; cost, $10.

First class Scouts of 15 years of age are invited to go along with the Sea Scouts on these cruises. There will be plenty of fishing and swimming, as well as opportunity for work on the various merit badges for Sea Scouts, such as pioneering, cooking, &c. These trips will be under the leadership of experienced watermen, including Col. Edmund Sayre and Commodore Ingram.

C., will leave Washington Monday on a scouting trip to the Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago. The group will travel by automobile and will be gone ten days, spending four days in Chicago.

Troop 100 is planning for a hike to the Smoky Mountains next summer. The hike will be limited to about eight fellows. It will be about 150 miles and is expected to take about two weeks.

Scouts are again invited to attend the Friday games at the Griffith Stadium on September 8 and 15. In order to be admitted Scouts must wear uniform and be prepared to pay the 10-cent Government tax.

Several hundred Scouts have attended the various Scout days, which have been held coincident with ladies' day at the park, and have greatly enjoyed the games. Several troops are planning to attend these two remaining games in a body.

Camp Wilson to Remain Open.

Camp Wilson, the Washington Council's Scout camp at Burnt Mills, Md., will remain open during the rest of the summer months with William Murray in charge.

Rates are reasonable at this excellent camp, being only 10 cents per day and 25 cents a week for Scouts furnishing their own tents, or 25 cents per day and $1.25 per week if Scouts use the cabins and ticks.

Many activities are offered by the camp. All sorts of games and Scout lore are available for the Scouts. Swimming under competent life guards is available in fresh water.

The camp is run just like a much larger camp, with a large staff of Scouts and scouters who "know their stuff."

Camp Roosevelt is closing, so Scouts now have an opportunity to camp out in the open at Camp Wilson or camp as they did at Roosevelt. Courts of honor and review are held each Saturday night at 7:30.

79 Breaking Advancement Records.

To date, almost 60 merit badges have been passed since last November. About 30 advancements have been made. In July alone 18 merit badges were earned and 51 tests passed, besides several advancements in rank. Since school closed 37 merit badges have been taken by the troop.

To Troop 79 went the honor of opening the juvenile night program at the Sylvan Theater last Wednesday. A patrol of nine fellows put on a patrol hike. The patrol was led by Douglas Wallop.

Through the courtesy of the National Capital Park Office all Scouts can have the free use of the McKinley pool from 10 a. m. to 12 noon and from 1 to 6 p. m., on Wednesday, August 23. Scout uniform or registration cards will be their pass. Each Scout is to furnish his own swim suit and towel.

Write up the news of your troop and mail it at once to Merit B. Scout, or Scout Headquarters, 1103 Vermont avenue. We'd like the news of all the troops to appear in The Post every Friday morning.

121st Regiment Goes Into Field For Maneuver

Will Set Up Defense to Check Theoretical Red Army Invasion.

Camp Albert C. Ritchie, Cascade, Md., Aug. 17 (Spl.).—Carrying full packs and rations for two days, the 121st Engineers Regiment marched from camp this afternoon for an overnight maneuver in the field, where a defense position will be organized.

The column, with Lieut. Col. Julian S. Oliff commanding, filed along the sides of the road, leaving a lane in the center for vehicles. The formation was the same as that used in the World War.

Will Stop Red Army.

Arriving at their destination about 5 miles from camp the men pitched pup tents and each man cooked his evening meal. They will remain in the open tonight, organizing the defense line in the morning.

Theoretically the regiment has been attached to the Twenty-ninth Division and is being thrown into the line to prevent an advance of a red army regiment from the north. The line will run between Lantz and Savillasville, Md., near the Pennsylvania border.

This morning muster formation for pay was held by the various companies. The Engineers and Military Police Company, of Washington, and the Signal Company, of Norfolk, Va., were inspected in the field with full equipment. Tomorrow the Headquarters Detachment, the Twenty-ninth Division, will have inspection.

Cutchin Praises Work.

At the division staff conference Master Sergt. Lewis Phillips, of Washington, lectured on "March Graphs." He was congratulated by Col. John W. Cutchin, chief of staff, who declared the lecture indicated the work the detachment had been doing.

Tonight Maj. Joseph W. Buron, Williamsport, Md., will address the division staff and assistants on the "Battles of the Antietam Creek During the Civil War." He has made an intensive study of tactics and details of these battles.

Story Leads Police To Negro Slayer

Macon, Ga., Aug. 17 (AP).—Everything on his beat was quiet and Policeman W. E. Clark was whiling away time listening to a farmer at the curb market relate the story of a slaying near Cochran, Ga.

"He was about 18 years old," the narrator said in describing the slayer—a Negro—who shot another at a church and ran away.

"He looked like that Negro standing over there," the farmer continued, pointing to a youth nearby.

Then the story teller stared harder. His mouth dropped open.

"By golly, that's the Negro," he shouted.

Policeman Clark arrested the youth, and police said he confessed after a questioning.

K. of C. Convention Keeps Liquor Ban

Chicago, Aug. 17 (AP).—Reaffirming their stand of temperance within the order, the Knights of Columbus in national convention today voted down a motion to lift the ban prohibiting intoxicating liquor at meetings or in their clubhouses.

Martin Carmody, supreme knight, said "The Knights of Columbus have always stood for temperance. The question of prohibition does not affect its stand in any way."

Following a speech by Joseph Scott, of Los Angeles, officials of the order were instructed to cooperate with bona-fide organizations seeking to improve the moral tone of moving pictures.

Jail-Made Goods Defense Planned

Helena, Mont., Aug. 17 (AP).—Attorney General Raymond T. Nagle announced today a second conference would be held August 30, at Grand Rapids, Mich., of attorneys general from States defending themselves against the action of Alabama to declare invalid certain laws restricting the sale of prison-made goods.

Eighteen States were cited in an action started by Alabama in the United States Supreme Court to restrain operation of the restrictive acts.

Montana laws opposed by the Southern State were enacted by the last legislative session.

Police Slay 2 Eagles After Attack on Man

Vancouver, B. C., Aug. 17 (AP). Two bald eagles, each with a wing spread of nearly 7 feet, attacked Henry Lehr, a fisherman, near Burnaby today when he disturbed them while walking across a field. Although he defended himself with a stick, one of the birds bit him on the leg. Lehr summoned police, who shot both birds.

He Wanted Ambulance Ride and Received It

Muskogee, Okla., Aug. 17 (AP).—An ambulance stopped in front of Ike Hammond's business place and two attendants hustled Hammond into the vehicle. Ike's protests that he was in good health went for naught.

Then, on a hospital cot, he "woke up." Several days before he had mentioned casually that he'd like to ride in an ambulance some time. "The boys" had arranged it.

Flashes From the Radio Dial

By Robert D. Heinl.

AFTER more than a year of preliminary work, a request has been made by the Indianapolis Police Department for an experimental license from the Federal Radio Commission to conduct a series of tests from WMDZ, police radio station, to establish two-way communication between radio scout cars and police headquarters. As it is now the scout cars can hear the alarms broadcast, but are not able to reply excepting by telephone.

Tests will be conducted under the supervision of Michel F. Morrissey, chief of the Indianapolis police, and Capt. Robert L. Batts. It was at the suggestion of Chief Morrissey that Representative Louis Ludlow, of Indiana, introduced a bill now pending in Congress, which would make it necessary for anyone carrying a set in his automobile capable of picking up a police broadcast to have a special license the same as a gun permit.

They heaved quite a sigh of relief at Station WJSV when the Jersey City station, WHOM, yesterday withdrew its protest against the directional antenna of the Virginia 10,000 watter. WJSV originally received a complaint from the Naval Research Laboratory that the Columbia station was interfering with important radio tests being made at the laboratory.

WJSV is less than a mile from the naval station, but through an ingenious method of redirecting the radio waves, sending them north and south instead of east and west, interference was lessened to such an extent that the research laboratory withdrew its complaint, otherwise WJSV might have had to be scrapped.

Since it was the belief that the broadcasting waves were going almost entirely north and south there was mystification when the Jersey City station to the east complained that it was being interfered with. However, with WHOM taken care of it looks as if WJSV's troubles were over with, for the time being, anyway.

THE Boswell Sisters, recently back from appearances at the Palladium, in London, and the Mills Brothers, who took their rhythms and their single guitar back to the home town this summer while Brother John recuperated from a severe attack of pneumonia, will return soon to the networks.

The Boswells will resume a week from Wednesday and the Mills Brothers the night before.

Asked to relate his favorite anecdote, Paul Whiteman told about the convivial who halted on a bridge on his way home late at night. Leaning over the rail, he was gazing fascinatedly at the reflection of the moon on the water when a policeman appeared. "Say, offisher," he asked, "what's that down there?" . . . "Thats' the moon," said the cop. . . . "For the love of Pete," he exclaimed, "how did I get 'way up here?"

After three consecutive years of broadcasting, Clara, Lu 'n' Em are going to have their first holiday away from the microphone. They will leave today, with their destination a secret, so that they may have a complete rest, but will return to the air Monday, September 4.

Another explanation of the London Economic Conference will be given by Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada, tonight (WMAL, 9:45 o'clock).

IF somebody else hasn't thought of it before K. H. Berkeley and Herluf Provenson, of the N. B. C. in Washington, have hit upon an idea which they should have patented. Casting about for a feature to relieve the summer ennui they decided to put on a "Daily Almanac." Not bad for a starter, but then came the big thought—why not, to be used as part of the "Almanac" a weather report with sound effects?

Locusts buzzing if the weather is to be hot, birds singing if it is to be fair and rain and howling wind if it is to be stormy. The rest was easy, for though you may not know it, they have filed away at the broadcasting stations on records, electrical transcriptions are the fancy names for them, all sorts of sound effects ready to be used at a moment's notice, thunder, lightning crashes, everything.

The result was that they got the weather report with sound effects down so fine in the "Almanac" that they even had an imitation of an old rain crow, which Mr. Berkeley, who is quite an amateur ventriloquist, threw in for good measure. Every broadcast is different and you might tune in on the "Daily Almanac," WRC at 6:15 p. m. and see what they have been able to think up for tonight.

Realism at WRC, however, received quite a setback when one of the control engineers turned in a report yesterday a part of which read: "WRC transmitter kicked off of air 2 seconds by scream of woman in skit called 'Doors.'"

This referred to the local dramatic production by Miss Violet Wachter, 21-year-old impresario, based upon the doping of the horses at Arlington Race Track. The heroine became so realistic that she actually blew the station off its frequency—which is another thing we have never heard of before.

A NEW season of radio's Miniature Theater, featuring adaptations of one-act plays, will be inaugurated with "Op-o-Me-Thumb," Tuesday, August 29.

The Miniature Theater players, September 5, will offer St. John Hankin's comedy of modern youth, "The Constant Lover." Others scheduled for early presentation are another comedy, "Enter the Hero," by Theresa Helburn, on September 12, and Rachel Field's famous study of New England folk of a century ago, "The Londonderry Air," on September 19.

Fritz Leiber, famous Shakespearian actor who has interpreted more than 100 roles and who has played leads with Olga Petrova, Julia Marlowe and Robert B. Mantell, in addition to heading his own Shakespeare company for many seasons, will be brought to the microphone for an interview on "Shakespeare as I Like It." (WMAL, 4 p. m.)

Outstanding among the highlights of the "Farmers Week at the Chicago Fair," will be an address on the Farm and Home Hour by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace at 12:30 p. m., over WMAL.

Phil Harris, radio band leader, claims the distinction of having the only band to leave California for Broadway with every member of his organization a full-fledged movie actor. Harris was featured in two RKO pictures, Leah Ray played opposite Maurice Chevalier in "A Bedtime Story" and others of the organization played on Hollywood lots at one time or another.

Stenographer Facing Quiz in Doctor's Death

Spokane Police Jail Her as Material Witness in Mystery Murder.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 17 (AP).—The pretty young brunette woman held in the Dr. James I. Gaines murder case was revealed by police today as Mrs. Harriette Andrew, his stenographer.

Mrs. Andrew was detained for questioning after it was learned Dr. Gaines, wealthy sportsman and drugless practitioner, spent two hours in her fashionable Southside apartment just before he was shot to death by a mysterious assailant early Tuesday morning.

Visited Apartment.

Mrs. Andrew said Gaines visited her apartment before midnight Monday after returning from a boating trip with her 17-year-old sister. He left shortly before 1:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, and was shot as he stepped from his automobile in the driveway of his home.

Detective Captain James McCarry said he was convinced Mrs. Andrew had no connection with the actual slaying, but he was holding her in the city jail as a "material witness." The woman's sister was questioned and released.

Mrs. Andrew yesterday informed McCarry she met Dr. Gaines three weeks ago when she applied to him for work. On August 8 Mrs. Andrew filed suit for divorce from John E. Andrew, a railroad man.

Widow to Be Questioned.

McCarry said Mrs. Lily Gaines, widow of the sportsman, would be questioned. She found her husband dying after being awakened by the sound of three shots.

Detectives concluded that the suicide of Miss Pauline Pluym, a sister of Cathleen Pluym, Gaines' office girl, has no importance in connection with the slaying. She previously had attempted suicide, and officers assumed publicity given her sister in connection with this case partially was responsible for her death. Neither Pauline nor her sister has been questioned in connection with Gaines' death.

Divorcee Accused In "Torch" Death

Warrant Issued in Auto Slaying of Earl Hanson in Rockford.

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 17 (AP).—Mrs. May Hanson, 38-year-old farm woman, today heard a warrant charging her with the torch slaying of her divorced husband and merely commented: "I've been expecting this."

The warrant charged "murder by burning" and was the first of its kind to be issued in Illinois, State's Attorney Robert E. Nash said.

The husband, Earl, Rockford factory executive, burned to death in his automobile as it stood parked beside the Hanson farm Sunday night.

The warrant charged that the former wife caused the death "by the agency of a pan of gasoline and a match."

Mrs. Hanson denied knowing how her husband was slain.

Retired Chicagoan Kills Self in Beverly Hills

Beverly Hills, Calif., Aug. 17 (AP). Mark Henry, 70, wealthy retired Chicago business man, was found shot through the heart at his home here today. Police said he had taken his own life.

Mrs. Helena A. Henry, his widow, said he was despondent over his two years of illness and had remarked recently, "I am tired of being a burden." Henry was one of the founders of Higgins & Henry, wholesale paper company of Chicago.

British Planes Bomb Hostile Indian Natives

Simla, India, Aug. 17 (AP).—British artillery and airplanes were employed yesterday to support troops advancing from Chalanai, who encountered hostile tribesmen north of Katsai.

The tribesmen subjected the bombing planes to the fire of a light machinegun, but there were no casualties among the fliers. The bombing was reported to have been effective. Subsequently the troops retired, unpursued, to the Chalanai camp.

Pope Receives Cadets And Blesses U. S. Navy

Vatican City, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—A blessing on the United States Navy was imparted today by Pope Pius after he had received in audience 80 cadets from the schoolship Annapolis.

They came from Naples, where the Annapolis, under Commander John Target, had arrived.

The Pope told the cadets he was happy that they lived at sea because they would have a better idea of the greatness of the Creator and would feel themselves closer to Him.

Foreign Markets.

(Associated Press.)

London—Trading on the stock exchange was quiet and irregular. Nickel and distillers shares were best of the transatlantic groups, while home rails and tobaccos were well supported in the British section. In other directions the lack of support caused an easing of prices and a dull closing.

Paris—A quiet market tended downward under Wall street heaviness and slight losses were general except in rentes, oils and Egyptian issues. The closing was heavy.

Berlin—Today's Reichsbank statement showed an increase in gold coverage of 1½ per cent to 10.4, and this gave the boerse a friendly tone. The closing was quiet because of the small business.

Bank of England.

London, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—The weekly statement of the Bank of England shows the following changes in pounds: Total reserve increased 5,521,000; circulation decreased 5,532,000; bullion decreased 11,000; other securities decreased 1,668,000; public deposits decreased 2,155,000; other deposits decreased 255,000; notes reserve increased 3,532,000; government securities decreased 6,040,000.

The proportion of the bank's reserve to liability is 45.70 per cent compared with 41.56 last week. Rate of discount 2 per cent.

Bank of France.

Paris, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—The weekly statement of the Bank of France shows the following changes in francs: Gold increased 2,000,000; sight balances abroad decreased 858,000,000; bills discounted at home decreased 92,000,000; bills bought abroad decreased 1,000,000; advances increased 3,000,000; circulation decreased 670,000,000; current accounts decreased 196,000,000. Lumber Wages Boosted 3 Times Since March Westwood, Calif., Aug. 17 (A.P.). The Red River Lumber Co.'s pay roll in July was three times that of March, an increase of $151,000, T. R. Walker, resident manager, announced today. He said 2,000 men were employed.

Lumber shipments have increased to 19 cars daily, which Walker said was another treble gain. He said the company had advised employes any increase in pay provided in a code for the industry will be retroactive to August 1.

Steel Orders Found Falling Off in Summer

Ingot Production Declines to 53 Per Cent for Past Week.

New York, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—There has been a considerable falling off in steel orders, mainly as a result of seasonal influences and difficulties surrounding application of the industry's code, Iron Age said yesterday.

Ingot output for the Nation has dropped to 53 per cent of capacity from 57 per cent in the previous week, and sharp recessions in output have occurred at Pittsburgh, Chicago and other leading centers, according to the review.

"Uncertainties growing out of the national recovery program," continued the review, "are responsible in large part for the downward trend in iron and steel business. Sellers feel that they will not have a firm foundation for steel prices until wages in the coal industry are settled.

"Iron and steel consumers, on the other hand, are unwilling to make further purchases of materials until they find a way out of some of the perplexities that have arisen from signing up under the Blue Eagle.

"Seasonal reaction in the steel industry is most noticeable in the automobile industry. Purchases of steel for current models have been virtually completed, and initial buying for new models will probably not occur until late in September.

"Both structural steel and concrete bar lettings are suffering because of the slowness with which the public works program is getting under way. Railroad buying remains at low ebb, and Western roads have grown even more cautious about expenditures because of a decline in traffic in drought-stricken agricultural areas."

Bond Advance Follows Rise In Other Marts

Speculative and Secondary Liens Lead; Sales Up to $11,419,000.

New York, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—The bullish tone of stocks and commodities spread contagiously to the bond market today and gave speculative and secondary liens of American corporations a new fillip.

High grade investment issues maintained a steady to firm tone but the turnover in these maturities held around the levels normal for for this time of year. The averages for 60 domestic corporate bonds rose two-tenths of a point to 80.9 to duplicate the position it occupied a week ago. The day's transfers totaled $11,419,000, par value.

The buoyancy of stocks brought a broadened demand for various rail, utility and industrial issues that are sensitive to swings in the share market. Gains of a point or more were registered by Baltimore & Ohio 4½s, Alleghany Corporation 5s, Chesapeake Corporation 5s, St. Paul 5s of 1975 and 2000, Great Northern 4½s, International Telephone Convertible 4½s, International Hydro-Electric 6s, Louisville & Arkansas 5s, Nickel Plate 4½s and Missouri & Pacific 5s.

Extreme gains of more than 2 points were shown by Southern Railway general 4s, United Drug 5s, Postal Telegraph 5s and Western Pacific first 5s.

Fractional gains were the rule among U. S. Governments, but most of the buying was concentrated in the new 8-year Treasury 3½s which reached a new high since its listing at 100.28.

The foreign group showed more life and gains exceeded losses. As sterling improved against the dollar, British 5½s gained 2½ points in the largest turnover of the day.

Bounties Planned In Wheat Exports

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 17 (A.P.). The Chronicle said yesterday the Agricultural Adjustment Administration will open a hearing Monday at Portland "to consider paying bounties to stimulate export of the Pacific Northwest's huge wheat surplus."

"The hearing, opening the same day as does the London World Wheat Conference, is regarded as the administration's threat to the wheat nations of the world to reach agreement or face wholesale dumping across the Pacific of the United States surplus stocks of wheat," the Chronicle said.

North Pacific Grain Growers, Inc., regional marketing cooperative with headquarters here, revealed it has filed a plan with the Adjustment Administration at Washington, D. C., for organization of a wheat pool to be managed by the cooperative, and through which the bounties would be distributed back to the farmers on pool grain exported. About 85,000,000 bushels of wheat in the Northwest would be affected, the Chronicle estimated.

Stocks Resume Climb Under Lively Trading

Prices Advance Rapidly as Other Markets Spurt Upward; Gains Average 4.5 Points; Sales Increase to 2,474,730 Shares.

New York, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Taking their cue from a spurt in the grain and cotton markets, stocks today kicked up their heels for a jamboree which left prices 1 to 5 or more points higher.

Trading proceeded at a livelier pace in the stock market than any previous day this week. Volume totaled 2,474,730 shares, and the Associated Press-Standard Statistics average for 90 selected issues advanced 4.5 points.

Wall street had no clear convictions as to why the grain market reversed itself, but the action proved to be the signal for a scramble to get into stocks. Traders explained that recently the market has been a thin one, highly sensitive to any substantial amount of either buying or selling orders. Thus the buying movement, which started before noon, shot prices up 1 to more than 5 points, with some of the more volatile issues going higher.

For a short time during the peak of the rally the ticker ran behind. Activity tapered off later, but most stocks closed around their high prices for the day.

Keen interest was centered upon the report that an oil code had finally been agreed upon, following a conference at the White House, it was felt by observers here that the Administration proposes to bring all possible pressure to bear on the industries still outside the fold, in an endeavor to get the codes into effect as soon as possible.

Official reports were optimistic regarding the progress of the recovery campaign thus far. Secretary of Labor Perkins stated that around 400,000 factory employes had returned to jobs in July, and that the weekly wages of all workers in manufacturing plants had gained $29,000,000 in July as against August $29,000,000 in July as against March.

General business news showed improvement. Bank clearings for the week of August 16 showed an estimated gain of 8.9 per cent. The Treasury Department reported, through the Secretary's executive assistant, that deposits in reopened banks since the banking holiday amounted to more than 31.7 billion dollars, while only 2.1 billions were still tied up in closed or restricted banks. Bankers considered the figures highly satisfactory.

The so-called wet stocks were the leaders of the rally in stocks. National Distillers, American Commercial Alcohol and U. S. Industrial Alcohol shot up from 6 to 9 points.

Among the issues which registered advances of 1 to 5 or more points were Allied Chemical, American Can, American Telephone, Santa Fe, J. I. Case, Celanese, Chile Copper, Chrysler, Consolidated Gas, Johns Manville, General Motors, General Electric, Delaware & Hudson, Corn Products, Montgomery Ward, New York Central, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Western Union, U. S. Steel and U. S. Smelting.

Goods Markets.

New York, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Cotton goods stiffened today under the influence of higher cotton prices, but sales were in moderate volume. Rayon producers who will close their books August 20 for October deliveries are sold up already in a number of instances and clients are demanding prompter deliveries for immediate use. Silk goods were quiet. Wool goods agents say the dress strike will not interfere with mill deliveries. Burlaps were steady but quiet.

Steel Prices Unchanged.

New York, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Steel prices unchanged.

Mr. Gettis has also been praised by Frank H. Sykes, vice president and manager of agencies for the company, whose telegram reads: "At last you have attained the goal of your ambition and your heart's desire. I salute you as president of the Leaders Club and I am as happy about it as you are."

Mr. Gettis has been representing Fidelity Mutual Life Insurance Co. since 1919, spending his first two years as agent at Richmond, Va. He was transferred to Washington, D. C., in 1921, as district manager, and has within the last two years been appointed manager for the District of Columbia and northern Virginia.

Attends All Conventions.

He has attended every company convention since the first, held in 1920, at Atlantic City, N. J., and has held various offices in the Leaders' Club of the company. He has always qualified in Class A for each convention. This is the first time, however, that he has won the highest honor, that of being president of the Leaders' Club by paying for the largest amount of cash premiums. He has for a number of years, however, won the vice presidency of the club, receiving this honor for the first time in 1923.

Fidelity Mutual Life Insurance Co. is holding its convention at Edgewater Beach Hotel, Chicago, in September, and as president of the Leaders' Club Mr. Gettis will address the meeting.

S. G. Eareckson, president of the Metropolitan Building & Loan Association, with offices opposite the Arlington Courthouse, in Clarendon, Va., announced yesterday that the association had received from the Corporation Commission of Virginia "certificate to do business."

Law on Subscriptions.

He explained that under existing law 5 per cent of the minimum capital stock must be subscribed and paid in; directors must qualify by having fully paid-up shares in a required amount, and the officers handling the funds of the association must be bonded.

The commissioner of insurance and banking of the State must certify the above facts; that, in his opinion, a need exists in the community for a building and loan association and that the officers and directors are persons of substantial financial and moral responsibility. Upon compliance with these requirements, the certificate to do business is issued.

Mr. Eareckson stated that the response to the sale of shares had been very satisfactory under existing conditions, and that considerable interest had been manifested by the people of the county in the association.

The Metropolitan is a purely mutual association, organized under the latest law of the State, which has for its purpose the strongest possible protection of the shareholders. The members share in all the profits equally, there being no preferred or privately controlled issue of shares.

High-Class Loans.

Only high-class loans will be considered by the association, and all applications will be passed upon by a competent appraisal committee. Under the Virginia law not more than $1 may be charged as a premium on shares. Shares in the Metropolitan are $100 each and may be paid for upon a plan as low as 50 cents per month.

Commenting on prevalent rumors that the initial dividend from Commercial National Bank, now in receivership, will be made in October and will be one of 20 per cent, Robert C. Baldwin, receiver of this institution, yesterday again stressed the fact that no prediction can be made as to amount and date of dividend until some time after the period allowed for filing of claims expires. This will be August 31.

On July 3, it was announced that there was no official indication as to the probable date of payment of the first dividend to depositors and creditors and that should the receivership follow the general practice, one might be available by October 1, or approximately 30 days after the 90-day period for the filing of claims.

It was stated there was no means of computing at that time what the initial dividend would be or what the eventual return to creditors or depositors would amount to. These, it was explained, depend on the amount of collections from assets.

U. S. Treasury Receipts.

(Associated Press.)

The position of the Treasury August 15 was: Receipts, $1,176,577,505.77; expenditures, $678,199,920.17; balance, $1,252,723,-010.80; customs duties for the month, $16,-087,830.69.

Receipts for fiscal year (since July 1), $269,254,057.78; expenditures, $453,765,-997.97 (including $158,431,904.38 emergency expenditures); excess of expenditures, $184,511,940.19.

Bank Rate Unchanged.

New York, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—The New York Federal Reserve Bank made no announcement today on the rediscount rate of 2½ per cent.

U. S. Gold Ore Given Outlet in Foreign Marts

Government's Edict to Open Way to Higher Prices in Other Lands.

New York, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—True to the tradition that gold travels where profits are greatest, some of the precious metal wrested from American and Alaskan mines is destined for foreign markets.

Uncle Sam, for several years the most liberal buyer of the yellow mineral, has been prevented by law from meeting the world market price.

Only this week has he heeded the predicament of American producers and cleared the way for marketing of domestic gold in foreign lands.

Refining in Other Countries.

As a result of the Federal Government's recent edict that gold concentrates and amalgams may be shipped to other countries to be refined and sold, American producers have sought permission of the Canadian government to send gold to that country. They envisaged a handsome profit over and above the fixed legal price of $20.67 an ounce, which the United States consistently has paid for refined gold.

For a time this price was in close alignment with world prices, but when the United States went off the gold standard, April 19, the advantage was lost as the value of the dollar depreciated in terms of other currencies.

The Government, to protect its holdings of gold, imposed an embargo and issued further strictures that left the producers but one customer—Uncle Sam himself. He continued to pay $20.67 an ounce, although with the decline of the dollar, domestic gold was at a discount compared with the free gold market in London or when sold to governments whose monetary systems were still tied to gold. In some countries gold is bringing 50 per cent more than at the U. S. assay offices.

Canada's Gold Position.

Canada, close rival of the United States for second place among the gold producing nations—South Africa is the world's greatest producer—has for two years paid a premium on the precious metal. It allows the producer the full premium which the London market offers and this bonus has ranged from 15 to 30 per cent, depending on the fluctuations of sterling against the Canadian dollar.

An ounce of gold brings around $30 in the London market and mining experts say that deducting the expense of shipment and other costs American producers' profits will be improved appreciably.

In view of the fact, however, that the exports will be paid for in foreign exchange, the extent of the shipper's profits probably will be affected by the value of the dollar in the terms of the exchange received.

Miners Seek Outlet.

San Francisco, Aug. 16 (A.P.).—California gold mining interests were reported today to be preparing substantial shipments of unretorted gold amalgam, cyanide precipitates and unsmelted gold ore and concentrates to foreign markets, principally Canada and Mexico.

The shipments, permitted under the United States Treasury ruling last Saturday that gold ore in virtually any form except bullion may be exported, represent the first movement of California gold ore in five months.

Released from the prohibitive provisions of the gold embargo placed in force last April, the gold operators are able to sell their product in world markets at prevailing prices, ranging between $28 and $30 an ounce, instead of at the fixed United States mint price of $20.67 an ounce for gold nine-tenths fine.

Reichsbank Statement.

Berlin, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—The Reichsbank statement as of Aug. 15 shows the following changes in reichsmarks: Gold and bullion increased 10,285,000; reserve in foreign currencies decreased 1,338,000; bills of exchange and cheques decreased 45,873,000; silver and other coins increased 43,987,000; notes on other banks increased 2,977,000; advances decreased 10,393,000; investments increased 311,000; other assets increased 19,831,000; notes in circulation decreased 50,006,000; other maturing obligations increased 21,476,000; other liabilities increased 48,187,000.

Total gold holdings, 270,480,000.

Curb Market Joins General Price Upturns

Advance of 1 to 4 Points Recorded in Sale of 348,000 Shares.

New York, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—The Curb Market followed the big board into higher price territory today. Losses of the previous session were canceled as the list closed with gains of 1 to more than 4 points.

In the alcohol group, Hiram Walker put on a spirited show, rising 5½ points in heavy trading. Distillers Corporation-Seagrams and Canadian Industrial Alcoho "B" firmed 2½ each.

Strong spots in the oils were Gulf & Humble, with advances of 2½ and 4½ points, respectively. Other petroleum shares were fractions to a point higher. Mining shares were firm, although activity was lacking. Newmont rose 2⅜. Utilities advanced 1 to 2 points in such leaders as Electric Bond & Share and American Gas & Electric.

Aluminum Co. of America closed at 75, up 4 points. Pan-American Airways resumed its recent upward trek with an appreciation of 3¼. Other firm spots in the list included Swift Internacional, Armstrong Cork and Pittsburgh Plate Glass.

Transfers approximated 348,000 shares, compared with 278,000 for Wednesday.

Paramount Bond Claims Filing Due

New York, Aug. 17 (Spl.).—In a notice to holders of Paramount Famous Lasky Corporation 20-year 6 per cent sinking fund gold bonds due December 1, 1947, and Paramount Publix Corporation 20-year 5½ per cent sinking fund gold bonds due August 1, 1950, the bondholders' committee reminds them of the necessity for filing individual proofs of claims in the bankruptcy proceedings on or before September 14, 1933.

Calling attention to the fact that the committee issues transferable certificates of deposit which have been admitted on the New York Stock Exchange and will arrange for filing deposited bonds, whereas, according to the committee's understanding, the referee gives only an informal receipt for filed bonds, the notice strongly recommends the prompt deposit of bonds with the Chase National Bank, the committee's depositary.

Depositing bondholders will be furnished with forms for proofs of claim by the committee, which will attend to the filing of such claims, Frederick Sheffield, 15 Broad street, is secretary of the committee.

Wheat Jumps Again in Rush Of Wild Buying

Corn, Oats, Rye and Barley Also Rise to Limits Under Rules.

Chicago, Aug. 17 (AP).—Renewal of confidence of buyers asserted itself in giant fashion on the Chicago Board of Trade today, and whirled all grain values skyward.

In excited dealings, wheat ran wildly through almost the entire 10-cent range of prices permitted for a single day, and just before trading was ended reached an apex, 9¾ cents up from early bottom figures. Corn, oats, rye and barley advances went to the full extent allowed under emergency rules, and established net gains of 3 to 5 cents a bushel.

Removal of all grain trade restrictions, except a maximum 5-cent limit up or down from the previous day's close, appeared to be the spark which set the grain markets afire. Complete reversal of sentiment among traders developed first in the corn crowd, but spread quickly to other grains, wheat last of all.

Pool Plan Denied.

There was no evidence of concentrated buyings of any cereal, and rumors of a huge pool having been formed to purchase wheat were explicitly denied. Plans for such a pool were talked of yesterday, but abandoned last night, recent legal enactments and trade regulations having been found an unsurmountable barrier.

Lively profit taking in the last few minutes of the day pulled wheat down from top figures, and the market closed unsettled, 1⅞@2⅛ cents above yesterday's finish, with corn strong, 4 cents up; oats, also at the maximum, 3 cents advanced, and provisions showing 2 cents to 25 cents gain.

The big buying stampede, which marked a return to virtual normalcy in grain dealings, started within a few minutes after business commenced. Traders were quick to recognize that liquidating sales on the part of holders of corn had come to an end. The corn market, instead of opening as usual of late 4 cents down at the lowest prices allowed, surprised nearly everybody by declining less than 3 cents a bushel, the first time in almost a month that such a display of comparative strength had been shown in any grain.

Skyrocketing Prices Result.

Skyrocketing of all grain values immediately ensued, belief becoming general that all grains had reached bottom, and that speculative buyers would find no cheaper level at which to purchase. When the corn market soon afterward hit the topmost point possible for the time being, wheat temporarily weakened, and tumbled more than 6 cents a bushel. Violent fluctuations in all grains followed, but fresh speculative buying swept into the markets, and again dominated the pits almost up to the moment for the final gong which cleared brokers from the exchange floor.

Various market experts who of late have urged that in view of the extraordinary adverse crop outlook in the United States this season, there had been no justification for declining grain prices, said today's upturn was a reflection of underlying conditions, and meant that the markets had become oversold owing largely to uncertainties as to Governmental action touching agricultural policy and finances.

Acutely unfavorable crop reports regarding corn were a factor in lifting prices of that grain first. The Kansas official crop summary said 50 to 75 per cent of the corn crop in the south and west sections the State were damaged so that it would be imposible to make a fair yield. Nebraska advices were practically a duplicate. Oats crop news was also pessimistic in the extreme.

Provisions rose with corn, despite downturns of hog values.

Yield Is Still High For Corn Products

New York, Aug. 17 (Spl.)).—Current operations of the corn refining industry, producing syrups, sugars, dextrines and other products of corn, have slackened from the boom conditions which prevailed in May and June, but are still well ahead of last year's levels, the July grind of eleven refiners being 6,500,000 bushels, a 50 per cent gain over July last year.

August operations are showing some recession. Outlook for the industry for fall continues reasonably favorable, according to the Corn Industries Research Foundation, though clouded somewhat by the highly unsettled conditions of the grain markets.

The industry has recently made an 11 per cent wage increase, which wipes out the only wage cut made by refiners since 1929.

Sheet and Tube's Plant Starts 6,000-Ton Order

Youngstown, Ohio, Aug. 17 (AP). The Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co. today started production on an order for approximately 6,000 tons of 18-inch pipe for delivery to the Northern Gas and Pipe Line Co., to connect the company's Rush, County, Kansas gas field with their main line in that vicinity.

The order will require about two or three weeks' operation of the sheet and tube company's electric weld pipe mill at the Brier Hill plant.

Vinegar Plant Sold at Auction.

Hagerstown, Md., Aug. 17 (Spl.). The Smithsburg Fruit Cooperage & Evaporating Co. was sold at public sale for $5,000 yesterday. The plant manufactured vinegar, but has been closed for some time.

Building Jobs Increase Seen After Decline

New York, Aug. 17 (Spl.).—An increase in building projects is to be expected in the near future, says the Standard Statistics Co., of New York, in a survey which continues, in part:

"Current building statistics reflects a moderate seasonal decline in private undertakings, as well as the continued withholding of public works awards pending organization of the Federal program.

The contract valuation for all classifications, according to Dodge data, receded 20 per cent from that of the preceding month, and was 36 per cent below the level of July, 1932.

Public works and utilities construction and nonresidential building showed a relative contraction of 68 per cent and 18 per cent, respectively; residential building, on the other hand, remained 20 per cent above that of a year earlier.

"The direct administering of the Recovery Act is now getting under way quite rapidly. Already, a large number of Federal emergency public works have been authorized, while the $400,000,000 made available for State highway construction has been distributed.

Bids for many of these projects doubtless will be let within the near future, and should be reflected in a sharp gain in aggregate building activity, possibly by the latter part of this month. As the governmental program progresses, it is probable that aggregate building totals will promptly expand to a level well above that of last year."

Railroads Called Best Index To Ebb and Flow of Business

New York, Aug. 17 (Spl.).—"All sorts of barometers are in use to gauge the ebb and flow of business. Railroad revenues are hard to beat as a barometer, because they reflect directly the movement of freight and people, chiefly freight, which makes up business activity," declared the Fort Smith (Ark.) Times-Record in a recent editorial. Continuing, the journal says:

"Railroad earnings are important not only as indicators of business volume. They are important because the railroads rank high among the Nation's industries in pay roll and in purchasing power. When they are prosperous, the Nation is prosperous. Conversely, when the Nation is not properous, they suffer. Their very definite improvement in the month of June is clear evidence that revival of business is not all on paper."

In this connection the Altoona (Pa.) Mirror stresses the significance of carloadings as a business index, in the following summary:

"Business for the railroads has long been a barometer of all business. In the manufacture of every type of merchandise, pin to ocean liner, both the raw materials and the finished product must be transported.

"The railroad is the go-between. Railroads center in populous inland communities and at ocean ports. They gather their loads of raw materials from their side tracks and all along their lines.

"Every plant that uses material or disposes of its products helps the railroad; and, without the railroad, manufacturing plants would be of little use.

"Therefore, when we learn that railroad traffic is increasing, we know that manufacturing is increasing."

Sugar Leaders Delay Hearing On Marketing

(Associated Press.)

With agreements lacking on plans for dividing the domestic market, representatives of the sugar industry adjourned their scheduled hearing here Wednesday after a short session to await further developments.

About 85 per cent of the industry was represented at the hearing presided over by Thomas Woodward of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

Meanwhile beet growers and processors continued informal conferences in an attempt to iron out quota disagreements, upon which agreement is necessary before the principal sugar industry plan can be made effective.

The sugar stabilization plan, which beet growers have thus far refused to accept, calls for supplementary agreements to regulate production and refining. A hearing upon these agreements had been scheduled for today on the assumption that agreement would have been reached previously on the larger plan.

It was said in administration circles that no workable substitute had yet been offered for the major plan and that the obstacle to acceptance of the latter was chiefly the various quotas.

There were some indications today that the beet interests might recede from their position that no limitation upon their production would be acceptable. No specific figure had been set, however.

Cotton Climbs $3.50 Per Bale In Wide Buying

December Closes at 9.70 as General Market Rises 64 to 75 Points.

New York, Aug. 17 (AP).—The cotton market turned sharply today and recovered about $3.50 a bale against its recent losses.

There was an active general demand which was promted by the encouraging action of the grain market and the firmer ruling of stocks. December contracts sold up to 9.70 or 81 points above the closing quotation of yesterday and 104 points above yesterday's low level. That delivery closed at 9.60, with the general market closing very steady at net advances of 64 to 75 points.

An opening advance of 8 to 17 points on relatively steady Liverpool cables met some further liquidation and scattered Southern selling, with offerings increasing slightly after the opening decline in the wheat market, but liquidation was much less active than recently and the selling was absorbed on comparatively moderate setbacks.

Sharp rallies in grain proved the signal for an increased demand which came partly from Western sources, and for a time buying orders appeared to be pouring into the market from many sources.

After showing net advances of 60 to 67 points, the demand tapered off somewhat and there were slight setbacks, but the market showed renewed activity and increased strength in the later trading. Active months sold 75 to 81 points higher, but closed several points off from the best under realizing and some Southern selling.

Exports today, 33,146, making 337,196 so far this season. Port receipts, 12,065; United States port stocks, 2,880,724.

Nats Capture 9th in Row, Downing Chisox, 14-1; Yankees Beaten

This Morning

With Shirley L. Povich.

Comiskey Park, Chicago, Aug. 17.

OPPORTUNITY literally banged at the door of Sam Gray this afternoon, and the old fellow—old as baseball pitchers go, bestirred himself from his slippered ease, ambled over to the threshold, double-bolted the lock and shooed away the chance of a lifetime.

Gray was at home, nursing a sore arm that was keeping him out of the St. Louis line-up. The phone rang. "That you, Sam?"

"Yeah, it's Sam Gray."

"This is Joe Cronin talking. We've just bought you from the Browns. I want you to join the Washington Club in Chicago immediately. Come up tonight if you can. We're going places this season and I think you can help out. You can get your expense money when you arrive."

Like a Thunderbolt.

Perhaps Sam had a difficult time believing his ears. Joe Cronin. The Washington Club. First place. A cut in the world series. Not with the Browns any more. Not with a hopeless last-place club any more. Ye gods! This is no joke?

"Say, Joe, is that right? You bought me from the Browns? When? And you want me to report tomorrow?"

"Say, Joe, something's funny. You couldn't have bought me. They wouldn't sell me. I got a sore arm. Didn't take the trip to Cleveland with the team last week. Only pitched one inning the other day. Are you sure?"

"Sore arm, Sam? Is that right? Gee, that's tough. Well, hold everything, I'll let you know later. I've gotta see Griff."

Cost Him His Chance.

Honest Sam Gray, his virtues cost him a chance that every pitcher in the league would leap at. He didn't have to tell Cronin about that sore arm. He didn't have to do a thing but get on a train and join the Nats and stick around until they handed out those very probable world series checks.

Later today, in a second conversation with Cronin, Gray attempted to allay the fears of the Nats' manager. "It's not as bad as that, Joe. I'm not washed up or anything. I'll get rid of this thing in a week. I didn't want you to call the deal off, but I thought I'd tell you."

And so Sam Gray as awaiting Saturday and the arrival of Griffith and Cronin in St. Louis to determine his major league fate. It would have been easy for Gray to join the Nats. But he wasn't that kind of a guy. "I thought I'd tell you." Those five words can go down in major league history.

Joy Over Yanks' Loss.

Joy knew no bounds in the Nats' hotel tonight when news was received of the Yankees' defeat at the hands of the Browns, stretching Washington's lead to 7½ games with less than 45 more games remaining of the pennant race.

A 7½-game lead at this stage of the race is almost conclusive. the Nats are "in" by every indication of the baseball barometer. And they are still on a nine-game winning streak, while the Yanks have lost two in a row. They'll nail that pennant to the flagpole at Griffith Stadium barring a train wreck, plague, pestilence or injunction.

If the Nats win only 22 and lose 21 of their remaining 45 games, the Yankees must win 30 and lose 14 to gain a tie. That old persuader, mathematical certainty, is drawing nearer for the Nats every 24 hours.

Runs, Hits and Errors.

Again today the Sox gave the fans a run for their money . . . only one . . . but there was ample precedent . . . They had been held to one run in each of the first two games of the series . . . Monte Weaver was in trouble only once today . . . When he passed two batters to fill the bases and threw a ball to Rhyne in the fourth . . . but he pulled out by pitching a double-play ball to Rhyne . . . Fred Schulte snapped out of his hitting slump with a bang . . . That single and those two doubles were all line drives . . . So was Moe Berg's home run . . . Berg broke in with the Sox as a shortstop eight years ago . . . Those clusters of five, three and four runs going up on the score board for the Nats were no encouragement for the Yankees down in St. Louis . . . Joe Cronin hasn't been to the World Fair yet . . . He doesn't want to get his mind off baseball . . . Walter Stewart will pitch for the Nats tomorrow . . . It's Bull Durham for the Sox.

Severeid Suspended.

Fort Worth, Tex., Aug. 17 (AP). Hank Severeid, manager of the San Antonio Club and former major league catcher, was suspended indefinitely and fined $50 today by President J. Alvin Gardner of the Texas League for a run-in with Umpire Eddie Palmer here Wednesday night.

Referee and Garibaldi Victims

4,000 Watch Zaharias, in Rough Mood, Pin Italian Star.

Stecher's Leg Hold Sends Russell to Doctor; Olsen Winner.

By Frank H. Young.

THERE have been many knock-'em-down, drag-'em-out rassling bouts at the Nats' apple orchard this season but some 4,000 fans are willing to make affidavit this morning that last night's George Zaharias-Gino Garibaldi go was the "daddy of 'em all" as regards plain, every-day mauling. It started rough, was rough in the middle, and was still rougher at the finish. Both Garibaldi and Referee "Cyclone" Burns were beaten. Zaharias dumped Garibaldi and Garibaldi dumped Burns, slowing up "Cyclone" to the proportions of a gentle zephyr with a clout in the jaw.

It seemed that the boys rassled under new rules last night, everything but wrestling being permitted—and neither seemed to object to this.

Zaharias Is Wounded.

Zaharias drew a bloody nose before the bout was ten minutes old And then the fun began. A few moments later, both boys and Burns were battling outside the ring and not long after that Garibaldi kicked Zaharias out between the ropes and both went at it hammer and tongs among the first-row specta'ors. Police rushed in and Zaharias started to take a clout at one of them but then, luckily for him, changed his mind. Near the end Zaharias kicked Garibaldi out and, much to the fans' amusement, he looked around for a brick to throw before climbing back into action.

Burns drew Garibaldi's ire when he continued to let Zaharias get away with his kneeing tactics and it was while the Italian was putting up an argument with the referee that Zaharias hopped on him from the rear and flopped him with a back-drop. The official time was 24 minutes, but Burns probably does not know it yet. After losing the verdict, Garibaldi first knocked the referee out of the ring and then challenged everyone in sight. Police had to escort both combatants to the locker room.

Referee Disregarded.

As a matter of fact, Garibaldi was the only rassler who paid any attention to Burns. In the semi-final, he declared Cowboy Jack Russell's continued kneeing against Joe Stecher was too much for even him to stand, but Russell tossed the little man across the ring and then ran into more punishment than he has taken in his whole career.

The former world's champ clamped his famous leg-scissors around Russell and that meant curtains for him. He appeared to be in extreme torture at the finish, which came in 7 minutes, and finally had to be carried to his dressing room. It was later reported that one of his ribs was fractured, but you never can tell about reports of this kind in the rassle business. As a matter of fact, no one seemed to care much, for Russell's work was of the Frank Speers type—and that's even too crude in a highly developed rassle center, such as the Capital City.

Sol Slagel's acrobatics and contortionistic performance was enjoyed even by his foe, Pat O'Shocker, and this pair battled to an interesting and at times rough half-hour draw.

Casey Berger and Cliff (Swede) Olsen, well-matched and fast, staged a good preliminary, with the latter wininng in 19 minutes on a rolling body press—whatever that is. Dr. Karl Sarpolis downed Joe Hubka with a flying scissors in 12 minutes in the other bout on the card.

Loughran Is Signed For Sharkey Fight

Philadelphia, Aug. 17 (AP).—The Arena Corporation, sports promoters, today announced the signing of Tommy Loughran, erstwhile light-heavyweight titlist, for a 15-round bout September 27 with Jack Sharkey, former heavyweight champion, and said they expected Sharkey's signature "in a couple of days."

Gehrig Passes Record of Scott

St. Louis, Aug. 17 (AP).—Lou Gehrig, Yankee first baseman, today set a new endurance record for ball players, when, as New York and St. Louis met in the third game of the series, he took part in his 1,308th consecutive contest. The old record of 1,307 straight games was set by Everett Scott, former Yankee shortstop.

Gehrig began his record on June 1, 1925, when he appeared as a pinch hitter, only a few days after Scott closed his remarkable string of consecutive games.

The Yankee first baseman was presented with a silver trophy and congratulated by President William Harridge of the American League, who came here from Chicago to see the Columbia University graduate establish the new record.

On his first appearance at the plate, with Joe Sewell on base, Gehrig grounded out to Oscar Melillo for the third out.

Gray Becomes Nat For a Few Hours

Chicago, Aug. 17 (AP).—Sam Gray, veteran right-handed pitcher with the St. Louis Browns, technically was a member of the league-leading Washington Nationals for a few hours today, but as far as the Nats were concerned he was again a member of the Browns tonight.

Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Club, who is here with the team for the series with the White Sox, claimed Gray on waivers this morning when he had been notified that all other clubs in the league, with prior call, had waived on the veteran.

Griffith said Manager Joe Cronin, of the Nationals, when informed of the deal, reached Gray in St. Louis by telephone and discovered that he has been suffering from a sore arm.

Washington immediately canceled the deal.

Score on Levy's Double After Hornsby Gets Homer in Ninth.

Manager in Pinchhitting Role; Hemsley, Ruth Hit for Circuit.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 17 (AP).—Aided by two well-placed home runs, one of them by Manager Rogers Hornsby, acting as a pinch hitter, the St. Louis Browns today came from behind to hand the New York Yankees their second straight setback, taking a 7-to-6 decision in ten innings. The defeat dropped the champions 7½ games back of the Nats, who won their ninth straight in defeating the White Sox.

Hornsby's circuit blow, hit off Vernon Gomez in the ninth inning, tied the score after Earl Combs' pinch single with Tony Lazzeri on base had given the Yanks a one-run lead in the eighth.

Hemsley Gets Homer.

Previously, in the sixth inning, Ralston Hemsley had knotted the count, when Dixie Walker lost his fly in the sun and it fell for a home run, scoring Burns and Melillo.

Jim Levey struck the winning blow in the tenth, driving out a double to score Melillo, who had singled. Wilcy Moore was on the mound at the time, but Pennock was charged with the defeat, as he put the winning run on base.

Babe Ruth, with his twenty-seventh home run of the season, and Bill Dickey, with his twelfth, gave the Yanks an early lead.

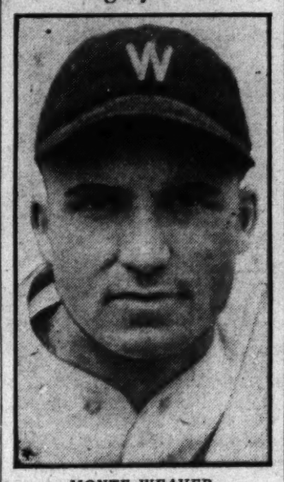
Mighty Man



MONTE WEAVER, who held the Chisox to four hits yesterday to continue his winning form.

Helen Moody Dazzling in Victory

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 17 (U.P.).—Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, under wraps all week, yanked off her sweater today in the fourth round of the women's national tennis championships and proceeded to give answer to thoes critics who have written that she is slipping.

Using Mrs. L. R. C. Michell, of England, as a foil, the great Californian who has ruled the tennis world nearly a decade dazzled the some 3,000 spectators gathered about the turf of Forest Hills with a game so perfect as to be almost unbelievable.

Loses But Three Games.

Exactly 22 minutes after she took the court, Queen Helen ended the match with a service ace that whipped by Mrs. Michell and bounded high into the stands. Before Mrs. Moody's withering fire the English woman was able to salvage but three games—one in the first set, two in the second—and score but 30 points. The score was 6—1, 6—2.

Mrs. Moody was accompanied into the round of eight by four of her countrywomen and three members of the English Wightman Cup team. The Americans to advance were Helen Jacobs, defending champion; Sarah Palfrey, the Brooklyn mite; Alice Marble, of San Francisco, and Josephine Cruickshank, of Santa Ana, Calif. England's representatives who remained in the running are Dorothy Round, Betty Nuthall and Mary Heeley.

Miss Jacobs, playing well within herself, defeated Freda James, of England, 6—4, 6—4. Miss Palfrey disposed of Mrs. A. J. Lamme, of New York, 6—0, 6—2, and Miss Marble blasted Mrs. Carolyn Hirsch 6—0, 6—2.

Miss Cruickshank Surprises.

Miss Cruickshank, last to go on, turned in a surprising 6—1, 6—2 victory over Peggy Scriven, promising English youngster.

Miss Round, who is scheduled to meet Miss Jacobs in the semifinal for the honor of losing to Mrs Moody, trounced Mrs. Marjorie Van

Star Jockey On Fanfern In Fifth

Al Neiman Conquers Islam in 6th Race; Hillsborough 3d.

High Glee Wins in Romp in $2,675 Feature at Saratoga.

CHICAGO, Aug. 17 (AP).—Jockey Jack Westrope starred again at Hawthorne today. He carried the silks of Stuyvesant Peabody, president of the Lincoln Fields Jockey Club, to victory twice when the leading apprentice lad booted Martie Flynn in the second and Technocracy in the fourth. Westrope then triumphed with the Audley Farm's Fanfern in the fifth.

It was a thrilling nose finish in the fifth event at 6 furlongs. Fanfern got up to grab the purse away from Pancho Lopez and Merrily On.

Al Neiman Winner.

In a spectacular finish Al Neiman, with Jockey Arcaro aboard, conquered Islam in the sixth race at a mile and a sixteenth. Hillsborough, odds-on favorite, with Westrope up, finished third.

Jack Howard's Islam was probably the best horse in the race, but Jockey Corbett paid more attention to beating Westrope and thought he had the race won but failed to see Al Neiman coming through on the rail.

High Glee In Romp.

Saratoga Springs Race Track, N. Y., Aug. 17 (AP).—The thirty-first running of the Troy Claiming Stakes, a 5½ furlong dash for the better class young platers, amounted to little more than a lot of other horses chasing C. V. Whitney's High Glee around the track here today. High Glee romped home by four lengths in 1:06 3-5, to collect the $2,675 winner's portion of the prize, and was favored at 12 to 5.

The Newtondale Stable's R. Pinchot turned in a noteworthy effort to be second, coming from last place to head Mrs. L. Viau's Believer for place honors.

Jockey Hank Mills was suspended six days by the stewards for unfair riding tactics astride Pardee in the fifth race.

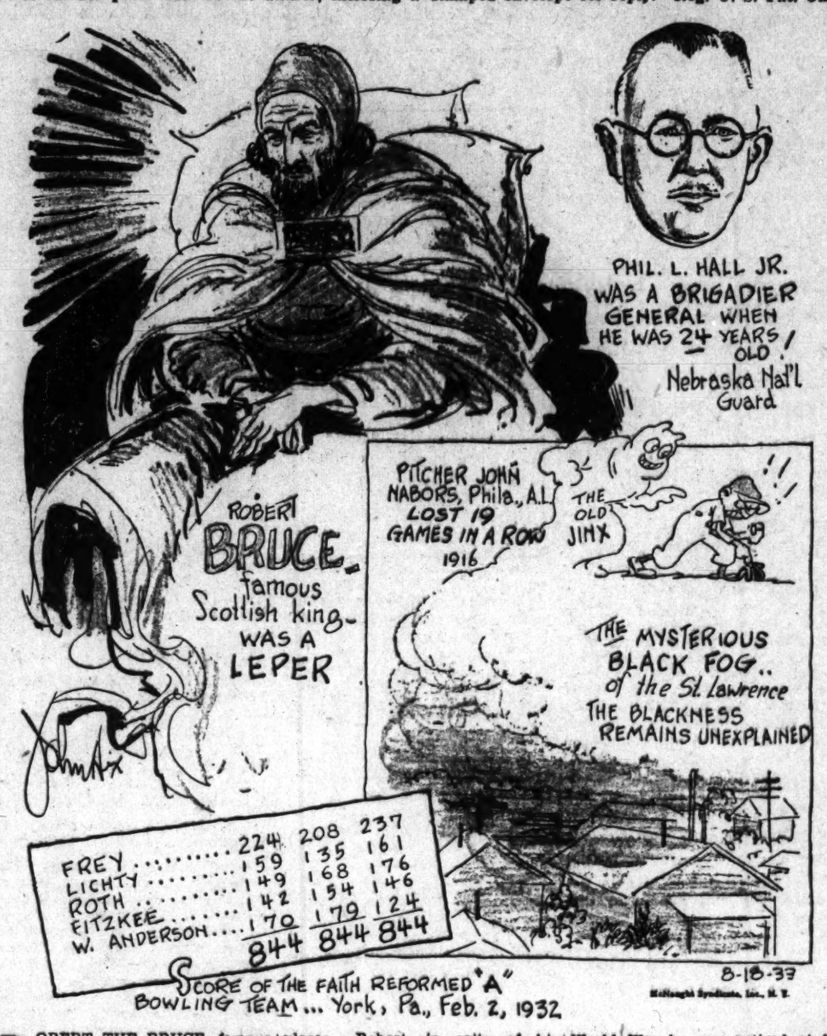
Strange as It Seems —By John Hix

For further proof address the author, inclosing a stamped envelope for reply. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.



ROBERT THE BRUCE, famous Scottish king, whose determined fight against the English finally led to their acceptance of Scottish independence, enjoyed the freedom for which he fought only a short time. Two years after the treaty of York, by which Scotland's independence was affirmed in 1327, Robert died of leprosy.

Strange as it seems, the dread disease which for centuries has been associated with outcasts, occasionally strikes at persons in high places. Robert, in spite of his malady, remained the active leader of the Scottish cause until the goal of freedom had been reached—he then fell victim to the ravages of the disease, dying two years later.

Black fogs as a mixture of smoke and fog, sometimes called "smog," are not rare in large cities, or in industrial districts—but the mystery of the black fog of the St. Lawrence, where neither smoke nor dust can be assigned as the cause, remains unsolved. These fogs appear only occasionally, and then only in extremely cold weather.

B-R-O-W-N W-I-S-D-O-M. Yes, sir, that's the baby I slipped you today! And the price—ah, the price—just $16.52. It was Brown Wisdom by seven lengths at the finish. I really clocked that honey if I never clock another. Yes, and Mrs. Bennings' lovely youth added Al Neiman to his list of scalps, this time at a $12.18 price tag. And we can alibi, too. Westrope let Miss Melody take a nose beating and a merry-go-round rider piloted Hernando all over the joint, to be defeated by a little more than a length for all the dough. And we were eyeing that 11 to 1. After the race Mike said: "I can beat any 110-pound jockey in country." At what? BILL.

First race—My Boss gets the call in the day's opener. Has both races and trials to recommend him. The tough nut to crack here is Peedeeque. This one boasts a fast finish. Gay Follies failed me once. Appears to have a money chance.

Second race—Hour Zev may get the off track that he likes and upset the onions in this field. This fellow is a lot better than generally rated hereabouts. Stroll Along appears to be the one to beat. Whirling is a fair sort that may be third.

Third race—Actuarius ran some races here that I jotted down in the future book. This is no Man o' War, but a maiden with a good chance in this field. Mr. Swift is the probable favorite and should be no worse than second. Glove for the show end.

Fourth race—Bitty Bit goes for the Bennings dough in this very open race. Domino Player will be well backed and is plenty fast. Liberty Oak is cheap, but could make trouble here if the field is anything but fast.

Fifth race—The hard-working Rehoboth can not be overlooked in this field. Comes off some fast sprints and is not matched with the best horses in the country. Worth an across-the-board wager. Dusky Devil and Hope to Do for the rest. The last named moves up in the mud.

Sixth race—I'm going to Annimessie again. This one might be tailing off, but I've heard it whispered that he is right. Did nothing for me the other day. Sister Zoe came back after a rest to win and should lead Twisted Threads to the wire.

Seventh race—I picked Reverberate to beat Barney Sexton the last time they met and I'm stringing along. This kind beats each other, if you know what I mean. Catherine Fox for the show.

Eighth race—Dark Mist and Replevin, recent winners, should battle it out for the big money here. If you can get track odds, go to Ultramarine across the board. Might be the big upsetter.

Maryland to Test, Bar Unfit Horses

Baltimore, Aug. 17 (U.P.).—The Maryland State Racing Commission will combat doping of horses by having each entry examined by veterinarians and refusing to allow any of them to run if they fail to pass the physical test.

Announcing his cooperation with the Federal Bureau of Narcotics in the war against doping, W. Jervis Spencer, jr., commission chairman, said the new rule would be effective Tuesday at the start of the Cumberland meeting.

Another plan under consideration is to segregate each horse the day it is scheduled to run.

single through the box. The Sox scored their only run in the fourth when Simmons beat out a hit to Cronin, took third on two passes that filled the bases, and crossed the plate while Cronin, Myer and Kuhel were collaborating on a double play on Rhyne's grounder.

Thereafter the Sox were hitless and runless. The only man to reach base was Swanson, who walked in the eighth and was promptly snuffed out by a force play.

The Nats got Kimsey out of there in the fifth. Schulte doubled, Kuhel scored him with a double, and Harold Haid came in to pitch. He walked Bluege, and Weaver drove in the second and third runs of the inning with a clean double to right.

They were back at Haid for more in the sixth. It all started with two out, when Schulte walked, Kuhel slammed a triple to right to score him, Bluege walked and Moe Berg, who had been sent in to catch when Sewell was hit on the arm, clouted his second home run of the season over Simmons' head into the bleachers to complete the four-run inning.

That put the Nats in a 13-to-1 lead, and for no reason at all they tacked on the fourteenth run in the seventh when Schulte scored Manush from third with an infield out.

Cooper Has 70 To Lead Open In Canada

Houghton Is Five Strokes Behind; Cunningham Finishes With 84.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 17 (AP). Producing the fighting qualities of a real champion, "Light Horse" Harry Cooper, of Chicago, began the defense of his Canadian open golf championship today by shooting a brilliant 70 to lead the field of 138 stars in the first round of the 72-hole title test.

Cooper breezed over the tricky, wind-swept Royal York course in 36—34, 2 under par, to show the way to a trio of rivals by a single stroke. Right on his heels came Johnny Farrell, former United States open champion, who blasted par all to pieces on the first nine; Joe Kirkwood, the famed trick-shot artist from Chicago, and the youthful Ottawa stylist, Bobby Alston.

Seven More Shoot Par.

Seven more contenders toured the course in even par figures and were bracketed at the 72 level. Among them were Leo Diegel, of Agua Caliente, Mexico; George Von Elm, the business-man golfer from Detroit; Willie Coggin, of Saluda Beach, Calif., runner-up to Gene Sarazen in the recent P. G. A. tournament, and an almost "unknown," E. H. Greene, of Kingston.

Al Houghton, Washington, D. C., professional, who finished in a tie for fourth in the medal round of the P. G. A., shot a 75, five strokes from the pacesetter. Starting with a birdie 3 on the first hole, Houghton turned in a creditable 36, one over par. After taking 5's on the fourth and fifth, Houghton played his shots with dealy accuracy to score birdies in rapid succession on the sixth and seventh.

39 On Second Nine.

Five fives ruined Houghton's card on the second nine, which he negotiated in a 39, two above par. Houghton was hitting his woods and irons well, but missed several putts from 3 feet.

Walter Cunningham, another Washington pro, blew up on the last nine and finished with an 84 to jeopardize his chances for finishing in the money.

Their cards:

Sarazen Ends Up With 76.

Sarazen had trouble keeping his drives straight and finished six strokes behind Cooper with a 40-36—76. Ralph Guhldahl, of St. Louis, also required 76 strokes, and the veteran Southern Pines, N. C., pro, Emmet French, took an 84.

Several of the noted United States players who had sent in their entries for the tourney failed to start, among them Tommy Armour, Ed Dudley, Al Watrous, runner-up to Cooper last year, and Johnny Golden.

Knight Postpones Bout With Godwin

Joe Knight's 10-round bout with Bob Godwin, scheduled as the feature of next Tuesday night's card at Twin City Arena, was postponed last night for one week because of injuries to Knight. The Georgia southpaw hurt a hand while sparring with Reds Barry, and the latter also reopened a cut over Knight's eye, first opened by Joe Banovic two weeks ago.

Matchmaker Charley Cornell announced he will attempt to obtain another pair of topnotchers for the feature bout, but if this fails, will stage an all-star card.

He Got Away . . .

By Jean Monk.

AVIATORS are not the only hard-working gentlemen who know things about air pockets. Many a hard-working fisherman has dropped into them—and bounced.

The famous 'Gooses," 6 miles out from Governor Run, Kenwood Beach, went on a strike over Saturday, Sunday and Monday. Only a few golden eggs were laid. But Tuesday night was another day, and the famous birds got under way again. Forty boats, from 40 points on the bay, returned that night with their fish boxes full and running over.

Reports from Cobb Island, Piney Point and other fishing centers on the Potomac were made with woeful shakes of heads. Solomons, Point No Point and neighboring places seem to have suffered likewise. But Tuesday night——. We're awaiting full reports

Chesapeake Beach Reports O.K.

"Monk" Frazier, manager, Arcadia Bowling Alleys, who spends his week-ends at his cottage, North Beach, says fishing was good over Saturday and Sunday between Chesapeake Beach and North Beach, on this side of the bay. He and a companion were fishing just off Chesapeake Beach pier in a rowboat, and, trolling back to North Beach at the close of their trip, they landed four pan-size bluefish. He reports many good catches of bluefish from these piers, still fishing.

From all indications, fishing was best last Saturday and Sunday in the upper part of the bay. John Davis, George McDervis, George Davis and George Livingston fished Saturday from 4 till 9 p. m. on this side of the bay, 3 miles out from Churchton, which is between Herring Bay and Shady Side, and landed 30 large hardhead, but no trout or bluefish. Capt. Horace Fibbs took them to the fish.

Last Thursday and Friday, just before the temporary depression set in, fishing west of the four big battleships near Point Patience, Solomons, in the Patuxent River, S. W. Steed, Z. V. Lester and Mr. Wagner, alternating with shrimp and spot, landed 30 trout in 35 feet of water, and 10 large croakers at a depth of 90 feet. They fished from 6 to 7 p. m. each day.

Steed's Fish Larger.

Steed, says Mr. Reckert, proprietor of the Patuxent Beach Hotel, fished near them at the same time, also in a rowboat, and landed 15 trout larger than the ones taken by themselves. Another fisherman brought in an 8-pound rockfish.

Frank Del Vecchio, who spent last week at Piney Point with Inspector O. T. Davis, Officer Guy Rone and Officer Jim Lowery, returned to the city Monday with sad news. He says the big rockfish of Tall Timbers, just around the bend from Piney Point, continued stubborn Sunday night and Monday morning.

Tall Timbers is developing a new style of still fishing. I refer to the use of a whole soft crab as a bait—for big rockfish. That's the method used by the four expert fishermen just named. When the fish were striking, they landed them. But you've got to walk so many on balls.

These big, striped beauties do not take the bait, like the trout, the bluefish and the croaker, and run away with it. No, sir; not a big rockfish. With much dignity and swag, apparently, he approaches the bait, arches his eyebrows, nods, rubs his pectoral fins—gently—together; and he then proceeds to help himself to the juicy callinectes hastatus which he finds prepared for him, blissfully cognizant of the fact that he has all day for the repast or the rest of his natural life, if he likes.

No Strike or Pull Felt.

You don't feel a strike or a pull. Just a nibble, or a delicate thud. But the dignified gentleman, at that moment, has the crab in his mouth, and he's rapidly on his way toward a complete severance of the ten-legged crustacean from the hook. And the fisherman, ignorant that the thrill which comes once in a fisherman's lifetime has just arrived, instead of letting him have it with all the punch he has, sits repeating his crabbing because the fish won't get on his line.

And when he finally reels in, he discovers that the big opportunity knocked gently at his door and found no one home.

And thus we have the zenith and nadir of hair-trigger fishing: the big rockfish at zenith, the carp at nadir—same method for both.

The bass are biting at Mattawoman Creek near Indianhead, Md., judging by the big catch hauled in yesterday by John M. Hammerly and Joe Hanlein.

Fishing for six hours, they caught 36 bass. For good measure they drew in 3 pike.

Hunter Misses Beaver Dam Mark by 2

Young Golfer Has Par 72; Sheridan Cup Tourney to Open October 11.

By Dave Herman.

J. MONROE HUNTER, Jr., who probably would be one of the best golfers in the country if he had the time to play, paid his annual visit to Beaver Dam's grueling course yesterday and came within two shots of setting a new unofficial amateur record for the layout.

Hunter, whose gigantic father was formerly pro at Indian Spring and Army and Navy, pounded out a 36, 36—72, even par, while playing with George Sullivan.

Martin F. McCarthy's 71 is the best ever made by an amateur. Cliff Spencer holds the professional mark with a 70.

His card:

Mrs. Frank R. Keefer, women's golf chairman at Chevy Chase, has set October 11 and 12 as the dates for the Sheridan Cup championship tournament. Miss Susan Hacker has won the title the last two years. Mrs. L. O. Cameron and Mrs. Harrison Brand are former champions.

Dr. S. B. Muncaster, veteran golfer of the Washington Golf and Country Club, almost holed out on the 134-yard eleventh yesterday afternoon. He sent a beautiful mashie shot hole high, the ball stopping less than two feet from the cup. He got his deuce. The eleventh has been the stumbling block of many at the tricky Cherrydale course.

A team of 14 players captained by Mrs. B. C. Hartig defeated a team led by Mrs. L. G. Pray, 23 points to 19, yesterday in the feature event of "Ladies Day" at the Manor Club. Mrs. Pray, opposing the youthful Helen Dettweiler, lost all 3 points.

The following participated:

Mrs. Hartig's team—Mrs. H. B. Bird, Mrs. J. W. Cramer, Miss Helen Dettweiler, Mrs. H. L. Simcoe, Mrs. C. Van Dapdrisen, Mrs. R. E. Burney, Mrs. R. E. Jones, Mrs. A. L. Alderman, Mrs. Dave Thomson, Mrs. G. R. Thomson, Mrs. W. J. Callahan, Mrs. Frank Smith.

Nats But Three Games Behind Yanks' Lead This Time in '32

WITH the Nationals making plenty of hay in the pennant race in the sunshine of their own victories in Chicago, coupled with two successive defeats handed the second-place Yankees by the lowly St. Louis Browns, a harking back to the standings on August 18 of last year might prove of interest.

A year ago today the New Yorkers were enjoying a lead of 10½ games over the second-place Athletics, the standing of the first-flight teams being:

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
New York	79	35	.693
Philadelphia	70	47	.598
Cleveland	68	71	.591
Washington	63	51	.553

This morning, the leading Nats' average is not as high as was the Yanks' 1932 mark at

Walt Mason, Himself

The Money Lender.

STERN and grave the money lender, in his office void of splendor; talks all day of legal tender, and of kindred tiresome things; with his sad and weary callers he discusses cents and dollars, and he never whoops or hollers, and he dances not nor sings. And the people who are waiting for their turn to start relating tales of anguish unabating, they have sorrow in their eyes; and their brows are seamed and stricken and the hopes that used to quicken shrivel up and wilt and sicken as the lender makes them wise. For he tells them to their sorrow that they're not in shape to borrow, they'll be on the streets tomorrow, since they can not raise a roll; they are broken and afflicted, from their homes they'll be evicted, it may safely be predicted that the poorhouse is their goal. Even if the money lender should be patient, kind and tender, his refusals must engender anger in the poor man's breast; and it ought to spoil his pleasure; queer his gloating, in some measure, when he gazes on the treasure in his coffer or his chest.

New Yorker Today

By Mark Barron.

New York.—Unpublicizer, snubbed by ticket speculators and ignored by dramatic critics, a Broadway show is entering its sixth week in one of the Rialto's major theaters. The show is standing 'em up, playing to turn-away business, yet defying every law of William Shakespeare and Leblang's cut-rate ticket agency.

To be more specific, two unemployed vaudevillians hired the lobby of the playhouse for a low rental. Hanging a dark curtain across the front, they set up a small platform inside. They do about six shows an hour, consisting of songs and dances, throw in a lecture on the frailty of man and then try to peddle an exercise gadget designed to make one strong and live a long life.

Just an old-fashioned medicine show brought up to date and playing in the same theater where Jeanne Eagels and Miriam Hopkins once starred.

The Squelch Effective.

One of those suddenly wealthy authors has been attempting to purchase culture on a short-order scale. Moving into an expensive, luxurious penthouse, he thought it only meant to hire an authentic English butler.

The other evening the butler requested of the master that he be given the night off.

"What are you going to do?" inquired the master.

"I have an engagement to play bridge, sir," he replied.

"Oh, do you play contract?"

"I have written books on how to play contract, sir," was the butler's polite squelch.

The very same scribbler was of the opinion that his newly dignified position in the social scale should award him permission to carry a cane. So he purchased an expensive willow stick, with a pearl handle head, but otherwise much like a fishing pole.

Several mornings later he was strolling on the banks of the Central Park Reservoir when he bumped into a pal of his indigent days.

"So," deduced his poverty-stricken friend upon glancing at the bamboo cane, "you're so hungry you got to go fishing in the reservoir."

The author now twirls a malacca.

Putting on Airs.

The prediction of E. R. Lewis, treasurer of the Metropolitan Opera, is encouraging. In face of the fact that the Met hasn't been doing so well financially these recent years, The opera, insists Mr. Lewis, is an American institution and within 10 years all the smaller cities will be supporting their own opera companies.

"No longer," he holds, "do people consider the opera solely as a social function or a diversion of the rich."

How to Keep Well

By Dr. W. A. Evans.

FROM the physician's standpoint, one of the most instructive reports on migraine that the writer has read is that of Dr. H. A. Riley, made to the New York Neurologic Institute and published in its journal.

To the sufferer from the disease who wants relief, and without waiting long for it, this report will be very dispiriting, Dr. Riley wrote. Practically every known form of therapy has been tried by one or another clinician in migraine. He discusses these proposals one by one.

Among the methods he discussed were keeping the patient in the dark, protected against all stimuli, various forms of purgation and enemata, washing out the stomach and duodenum. Several surgical operations, principally on nerves and nerve ganglion located around the head and neck, the use of endocrine gland extracts, the use of a multitude of drugs, the treatments based on the theory that migraine is an allergy disorder, and different methods of dieting.

In all instances he summed up evidence and then gave it as his opinion that more research work must be done on migraine and more investigation of methods must be made before we could say that any given treatment would be beneficial. Of course, all of that is very scientific and even logical, but it leaves the sufferer without much to go by. He must still grope his way around, getting such help as he can by the trial and error method.

The endocrine gland preparations which theoretically appear to offer most are those made from the ovaries, with those from the pituitary ranking second. Certain cases are relieved by the remedies of this group, but it is not easy to select such cases in advance of trial. In all cases, whatever the cause, maybe the general protective treatment is good. It consists in staying in a dark room, protected against all stimuli, such as noises, domestic or business worries, with an ice cap on the head and a hot water bag to the feet. The objection to this treatment is that wage earners and people of affairs can not afford it.

The drug that is most used is caffein. It is taken as black coffee, several full cups daily. Morphine is very often used, but it is a source of great danger. Since attacks of migraine repeat themselves at short intervals, the use of morphine for relief almost inevitably leads to the morphine habit, and that is worse by far than the original disease. Other drugs that are used are luminal, bromides, and cannabis indica.

The diet treatment may take any one of several forms. The allergy cases are not infrequently due to foods, and leaving the offending foods off the menu is one method of prevention. Chocolate is often an offender. Probably heavy coffee drinking is another.

The ketogenic diet has been given a moderately extensive trial. It consists in feeding a diet that is very high in cream, butter, and other fats, and low in breads and cereals. On the other hand some think they can prevent attacks by giving a diet in which there is an excess of starchy foods.

Virginia Moves Fast Toward Liquor Reform

Assembly Meets to Act for Legal Beer and Ballot on Repeal.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 17 (AP).—Virginia's General Assembly opened an extraordinary session for legislation on legal beer, repeal and public works at a fast pace today.

Bills on two of the big three objectives were well on their way toward legislative deliberation before Gov. Pollard completed communication of his message.

Measures placed on the clerks' desks at the opening would afford emergency legislation legalizing 3.2 beverages and set a referendum on State and national prohibition October 3.

Both of these were sanctioned by the chief executive in a 7,500-word message.

Beer Forecast Next Week.

Patrons of the beer bill asserted beer would be legal in Virginia late next week. If today's measure, patroned by Delegate Wilbur C. Hall, of Loudoun, chairman of the finance committee, and Senator W. A. Garrett, of Ridgeway, chairman of the Upper House finance committee, is passed, sale of beverages with alcoholic content up to 3.2 per cent by weight will be legal the fifth day from its passage.

The bill providing for a referendum on the eighteenth amendment was patroned by Senator Saxon W. Holt, of Newport News, chairman of the powerful Upper House privileges and elections committee. It would provide for the referendum October 3, when nine delegates would be named in the State at large for a convention October 25.

Liquor Control Plan.

Paralleling the Federal prohibition referendum bill was another patroned by Senators A. P. Staples, of Roanoke, and John W. Eggleston, of Norfolk, setting a referendum on State prohibition for the same date, and deferring adoption of a liquor control plan until the regular session of the General Assembly in January. The governor went further and recommended the vote on State licensing and dispensary system alternatives at the same time. This originally was incorporated in the Staples-Eggleston bill, but at the last minute was withdrawn.

In addition to these measures Delegate Vivian Page, of Norfolk, was ready at the opening with bills to repeal the Lyman State prohibition act and to abolish all special fees in prohibition cases. Delegate Page said that by tomorrow he would have ready a bill setting up a liquor control system.

Senator W. Worth Smith said he would vote out the resolution with the reservation that he would attempt to offer a bill providing for a flat $5 automobile license bill.

Soldiers Searchnig For Ranch Raiders

Troops Scour Mexican Hills; Gang Wounds One, Gets $2,000.

Del Rio, Tex., Aug. 17 (AP).—Mexican federal troops today searched the hills south of Villa Acuna, Mexico, for a bandit band which looted Miguel Diego's San Molino ranch last night and seriously wounded Gilbert Menchaca, ranch employe.

Ten suspects were rounded up by troops under Lieut. Jesus Belmonte. All denied knowledge of the raid. It was the fifth on the ranch in two years.

Residents of the ranch said the raiders galloped in on horseback, whooping and firing volleys into the air. They looted the ranch of $2,000 merchandise and foodstuffs.

Would-Be Suicide Misses, Fined.

Chicago, Aug. 17 (AP).—William Kipfort's poor marksmanship cost him $100 today. "I wanted to end it all," he told a municipal judge. "I shot 11 times, but couldn't hit myself."

He was fined for carrying concealed weapons.

The Federal Diary

(Trade-mark Applied For)

By Morgan Baker

THE full list of nominees received to date in the Washington Post's Federal Diary Popularity Contest will appear in this column tomorrow morning. Sunday a list of nominees and their standings will appear.

Baker.

Those nominees whom we have had the pleasure of meeting are outstanding personalities in their respective divisions. However, the nominations are still open and the most popular Government employes may not yet be in the race. The winners of the all-expense tours of the Century of Progress Fair, at Chicago; the week-end trips to Virginia Beach, and the gold watches will not be known until the contest closes Sunday, midnight, September 3.

Before selecting the rules in this Popularity Contest, The Post studied the rules of many similar contests and chose the one adjudged as best to apply to the Government personnel set-up. Extreme care is being observed to conduct the contest fairly. Each ballot is checked to assure its eligibility.

In the event faulty ballots are found, the nominees will be notified. Then if an explanation conforming to the rules is not forthcoming, those ballots will be thrown out. If there happens to be a nominee obtaining ballots through misrepresentation, that nominee must appear before the contest judges to show cause why he or she has a right to continue in the contest.

There are several Federal units still without a nominee. They are reminded that the contest has just begun and no entrant has a runaway lead.

But now something about the awards for the most popular Government employes.

* * * *

FIRST-CLASS traveling accommodations are being booked to and from Chicago for the woman and man (and one companion each) voted the most popular. They will be guests at one of the city's finest hotels; they will be given books of tickets to the Century of Progress Exposition and will be escorted to points of interest around the city. Before leaving for Chicago, the two will receive several gifts chosen at one of Washington's leading department stores. For example, a couple of traveling bags, a topcoat, hats, etc.

For the next most popular woman and man, the prizes will include first-class staterooms and meals on the ship to and from Norfolk. At Norfolk, the guests will be met and taken to the best hotel at Virginia Beach, where all facilities will be at their disposal.

The watches to be given as third prize are handsome pieces of jewelry. The woman's wrist watch is an exquisite modernistic model. While small, it is a substantial article—one that can be depended upon with which to catch a train or get to work on time. The man's wrist watch also is a handsome timepiece.

Read the following rules carefully. Then, if you have not already entered one of your fellow Government employes, clip the nominating coupon, call for ballots and give her or him the opportunity to enjoy a royal vacation as guest of The Washington Post's Federal Diary.

Contest Rules.

THE contest began August 13 and officially will end Sunday midnight, September 3. Winners will be announced on or before September 6.

2. Government employes, excepting chief clerks and superiors, are eligible in the contest.

3. The contest is divided into two divisions. One selecting the most popular woman and one the most popular man.

4. The person receiving the highest total votes in each division will be awarded first prize. The next highest total votes in each division will be awarded second prize and the third highest total in each division will receive third prize.

5. In the event of ineligibility of any division winner, the contestant with the next highest total votes will automatically be adjudged the winner. Should any of the winning contestants be unable to accept the prize, the contestant with the next highest total votes will be eligible.

Must Be Federal Employe.

6. Votes are not transferable.

7. No information will be given to contestants as to their own or other contestants' standing, except through the Federal Diary columns.

8. The Nomination Ballot will give each contestant 50 starting votes. It is necessary for each contestant to be nominated before votes officially will be accepted. Only one Nomination Ballot will be accepted for each contestant.

9. The contest judges reserve the right to deduct votes from the standings that have not been submitted according to the rules.

10. Persons voting must be employes of the Government. Each voter is allowed to vote for only one woman and one man.

11. Ballots MUST be submitted in packages of 25.

Method of Procedure.

Clip Nominating Ballot from the Federal Diary columns of The Washington Post. Fill in and mail or bring ballots to The Federal Diary Contest Editor.

Two hundred and fifty ballots will be either mailed or given to the nominator. Additional blank ballots may be obtained from the Contest Editor in exchange for an equal number of signed ballots.

Seriously Speaking.

Philip Ebert, G. A. O., was reminded by a fellow employe that "a Government worker is an American workingman and is not protected by an NRA code." Then he was asked, "Why should a Federal employe on a workingman's salary, who eats a workingman's meals, think and act like a millionaire?"

We have never heard of a Federal employe acting like a millionaire—and thinking is silent. If we can find one of Uncle Sam's clerks acting like a millionaire since July 1, we want his picture. New fathers of 9-pound baby boys are barred.

John M. Rielley, City Postoffice, retired this week after 34 years' service. H. B. NINE new attorneys are reported slated for positions before September 1 at the Bureau of Internal Revenue. Several inquiries have reached the Federal Diary why these $4,000 jobs are not being filled from the ranks of nearly 50 attorneys, tax experts, who were laid off July 1 under the economy act.

One of the new men is said to be the son of a former senator from North Carolina and without experience in the office he is to fill. This procedure is being vigorously protested, not only by those ousted last month, but by other employes, who fear they will have to take furloughs to make up the difference in salary so the bureau will remain within its appropriation.

"Some people lose track of relatives during the summer while some have a cottage at the shore," is the opinion of Abbott Gorham, Treasury.

William Wolfley, Bureau of Naturalization, Labor, will retire tomorrow after 30 years as a Federal employe. His first appointment was at Ellis Island. His retirement is due to the new 30-year rule.

NRA Support Pledged.

Hearty support to the NRA was pledged this week by the D. C. Federation of Federal Employes. The adopted resolution says in part:

"The NRA seeks to restore prosperity to the land and needs cooperation of not only capital and labor but also that of the consumer. Government employes are able to render that cooperation in a consumer capacity. Officers of the D. C. F. F. E. will distribute NRA consumer cards, pledging members to buy only from those interests under agreements approved by the NRA."

Mulligan Wins Permit to View Schrodt Rites

Suspect in Death of Former Actress Firmly Denies Guilt.

Although still held on a technical charge of murder in connection with the woman's mysterious death, John C. Mulligan, 39, Brentwood, Md., will be allowed to attend the funeral today of his common-law wife, Mrs. Ella M. Schrodt, who was found dead at their home early Tuesday.

The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock from Gasch's funeral parlors at Bladensburg. The Rev. George G. Oliver, of the Hyattsville Methodist Church, will officiate. Interment will be in Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

Stands Firm on Story.

Further questioning of Mulligan yesterday concerning the death of the former actress proved unavailing. Lieut. W. R. Fiehley, of the Baltimore Police Department, assisting in the investigation, said the man remains firm in his story that he was asleep at the time of the woman's death.

After a further examination of Mrs. Schrodt's body, Dr. Henry Nalley said the skull fracture was at the rear of the head and not in the vicinity of the gash on her temple. She died, an autopsy showed, from a cerebral hemorrhage that followed the fracture.

Found Dead in Bed.

Mrs. Schrodt was found dead in bed at her home, 3906 Rhode Island avenue, Brentwood, early Tuesday, by Mulligan.

Expenses of the funeral are being borne, police said, by Mulligan. Attorneys J. Wilson Ryon and Albert R. Hassall have been retained for his defense.

War Air Hero, Hurt In Fall, May Retire

Maj. Kirby, Who Lived Through Battles, Victim of Plane Crash.

(Associated Press.)

An Army air hero who brought down two German observation balloons on the western front yesterday faced retirement because of injuries in a flight on peace-time duty.

Maj. Maxwell Kirby, Roseville, Calif., cited for heroism in the Meuse-Argonne offensive, was ordered before an Army retiring board.

Maj. Kirby crashed near Leonardtown, Md., June 15, while flying from Langley Field to Pennsylvania and was injured so badly he still is in Walter Reed Hospital here.

His citation was for attacks November 9 and 10, 1918, on enemy balloons. Maj. Kirby's companion in the first attack was shot down. He continued alone and destroyed the balloon. The next day he flew alone against another balloon. Three German planes attacked him. He destroyed one, drove the other two off and downed the balloon.

Land Policy Urged As Vital to Peace

Must Be So Utilized to Give Food for World, Says Research Director.

Banff, Alberta, Aug. 17 (AP).—Dr. Carl L. Alsberg, director of the Food Research Institute of Stanford University, today told the Institute of Pacific Relations that land utilization is vital to the maintenance of international peace. The institute is holding its fifth biennial conference here.

"Land policy must look toward the maintenance of peace in the world, not merely international peace, but, what is more essential, peace at home," he said. "Our land policies must have relation to world land policies and be of such nature as to provide the nations of the world with food and raw materials."

Dr. Komskichi Takahashi, of Japan, said the cost of labor in Japan must become even cheaper if western nations increase tariff barriers.

Texas to Execute Slayer of Woman

Huntsville, Tex., Aug. 17 (AP).—R. T. Bennett, colored, faces death early tomorrow in the State prison electric chair for the silk-stocking murder of a Dallas woman.

"In just a few more hours," Bennett told Warden W. W. Waid after eating a chicken dinner, "I'll be glory bound."

The Negro changed his plea of not guilty to guilty at his trial July 11 for the strangling of Mrs. Leona Buchanan in her apartment last December 1. He said he had a "thumping" in his chest.

Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson declined to grant clemency. Bennett, police said, confessed that he slew Sam Langford, Dallas radio car patrolman, but he was never tried on that case.

Grove of Oranges Blooms in Chicago

Chicago, Aug. 17 (AP).—An orange grove on the shore of Lake Michigan, part of the Florida exhibit at the Century of Progress Exposition, was dedicated today by Nathan Mayo, Florida commissioner of agriculture.

His attention was called to some strange antics on the part of this grove of 35 full-grown Valencia orange trees. They have been blooming and reblooming ever since they were set out in this Northern soil in June.

"Ordinarily these trees, a summer-ripening orange developed by Lu Gim Gong, Japanese naturalist, blossom in February and June, but they are certainly working overtime up here," he said. There are orange blossoms, green fruit and ripe fruit on these trees.

Mrs. Costello Act Shied At by Boston

Boston, Aug. 17 (AP).—Jessie B. Costello, acquitted of a charge of murdering her husband by a jury in Salem Tuesday, can not exhibit her pulchritude before any Boston theater audience until Boston's board of censorship has had opportunity to consider the case.

Mayor James M. Curley said today that if Mrs. Costello decides to accept any of the vaudeville contracts offered her the matter must be considered by the board. Ten days ago the city censor, Stanton R. White, announced Mrs. Costello would not be permitted to appear.

Mrs. Costello was acquitted of a charge of poisoning Fire Captain William J. Costello, found dead in their Peabody home February 17.

More Capital Beer Tax Aids Being Sought

Assessor Holds Work Too Heavy; $47,502 Laid Up to June 30.

District Tax Assessor William P. Richards yesterday complained that the collection of the beer tax each month is imposing too much of a hardship on his office and recommended that funds be provided to employ a supervisor, four clerks and a typist as soon as possible and that the tax be collectable quarterly rather than monthly.

The recommendation was made in the assessor's annual report to the Commissioners. The report revealed that 47,502 barrels of beer were sold in Washington between April 7 and June 30, the end of the fiscal year, providing total taxes of $47,502.80.

The Commissioners last winter turned down an offer by Congress to appropriate $25,000 for the administration of the beer law on the ground of economy. Besides the tax assessor's office, members of the Beverage Permits Board have likewise been pressed with considerable extra work.

Land Assessments Decline.

For the first time in seven years assessments on land in the District showed a decline last year, dropping from $554,072,279 to $544,033,911. Improvements, however, gained in value from $672,619,069 to $685,325,655. Realty taxes rose from $20,853,955 to $20,899,112.

Personal taxes dropped $992,555 31 to $5,138,786.59, owing to the drop in values of tangible and intangible personal property and the shrinkage in earnings of banks and public utilities. Intangible taxes were based on the following: $55,594,600 in cash, $35,828,062 in accounts receivable, $151,803,235 in mortgage notes, $102,414,601 in stocks and bonds, and $19,000,000 in tentative assessments when no returns were filed.

Taxes on utilities and banks fell from $1,369,159.11 to $1,221,499.94, and on intangible personal property from $2,547,442.31 to $1,923,202.49.

Special assessments, principally for street and sewer improvements, amounted to $597,561.71, and water main assessments totaled $100,580.39.

Automobile Taxes Drop.

Personal taxes on automobiles dropped $123,836.37 from the previous year, or from $483,657.22 to $359,820.95, owing to a decrease in the vehicles' value rather than a falling off in numbers. The average tax per car fell from $4.60 to $3.27, indicating that more persons made the old car last another year than ordinarily.

Gasoline taxes, however, rose from $1,992,709.51 to $2,084,131.63, but the per capita consumption was not so great and the consequent indirect tax fell 57 cents, or from $16.60 to $16.03.

Owing to the expansion of the license act, collections from licenses increased $183,891.01 to a total of $377,212.39.

Jobless Man Finds Gun and Kills Self

Father Takes Life With Weapon His Family Had Hidden.

Luther B. Rhodes, 59, shot himself to death yesterday at his home, 636½ Newton place, when he discovered a gun that members of the family had hidden from him a week ago.

Brooding over the loss of his job as a cement worker, Rhodes carried out his suicide threats by firing a charge from a shotgun into his abdomen as he sat on a couch in his home.

Homicide squad detectives found two notes in his pockets indicating despondency. Deputy Coroner Christopher J. Murphy issued a certificate of suicide.

Rhodes is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary A. Rhodes; four sons and a daughter.

Capital's Only Newsduck

Peter Castro sells The Washington Post under the watchful eye of Skippy, his constant companion. Together for a year they have become a familiar sight to thousands of Government workers.

Duck Helps Boy Dispense Posts At Busy Corner

Skippy and Peter Castro Part Only When Youth Takes to Water.

"Skippy is a wise old duck."

That's what Peter Castro says—and he ought to know, for he and Skippy have been inseparable friends for almost a year.

Peter is one of the youngsters who sells The Washington Post. He and Skippy live at 2005 New York avenue northwest. Every morning before Washington crawls out of bed they may be seen taking a walk along Constitution avenue.

After a short stroll they return home and Peter gets his bathing suit and departs for his morning plunge at the municipal pool. Skippy remains at home, sleeping, hunting worms, or doing just whatever it is that all well-bred ducks find to do during hot August days.

"Skippy's not like ordinary ducks," his master said. "He's about the most intelligent fellow you ever saw. I use a stick to guide him when we're walking along because he likes it. When he likes anything he says 'Quack!' Yes, I have taken him swimming, but the fellows down there bother him, and Skippy's a duck that don't like to be bothered."

Peter is 11 years old. He goes to Grant School. He made all A's and B's in his studies last term and thinks he is going to do the same thing next term. He hasn't ever thought much about becoming President, but thinks it would be "pretty swell" to fly around the world or to take a ride on a policeman's motorcycle.

Filipino Club Meets Sunday.

The Filipino Club of Washington will hold an open musical-literary program at 9 p. m. Sunday at the Y. M. C. A. auditorium, 1736 G street northwest. Mrs. Camilo Osias, wife of the junior resident commissioner from the Philippines, will give vocal selections. Maj. Emanuel A. Baja will speak.

New Traffic Signals Installed on Avenue

With a detail of policemen on duty for sideline coaching, new traffic signals went into service yesterday at Pennsylvania avenue and John Marshall place. The ten lights are the first of a new series to be installed along Pennsylvania avenue shortly.

Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer said the first day's performance was satisfactory. The policemen will be withdrawn when traffic becomes accustomed to the change.

Zoo Policeman Takes Own Life

Found by Wife in Gas-Filled Room at Home; on Force Since 1902.

Sergt. Richard Thomas Sebastian, 51, ranking member of the Zoological Park police force, committed suicide late yesterday by inhaling gas in his home, 2306 H street northwest. He had been a member of the Zoo staff since 1902.

The policeman was found dying by his wife, Mrs. Lena Carroll Sebastian. She summoned help. Resuscitative measures by the rescue squad were futile. He was removed to Emergency Hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

Acting Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald issued a certificate of suicide.

Dr. William M. Mann, director of the Zoo, said Sergt. Sebastian had been melancholy, but could ascribe no reason for his suicide.

Although a 30-year employe and eligible for retirement, the officer's job was secure and he was physically fit, Dr. Mann asserted.

Sebastian was named head of the police force in September, 1930, succeeding Jacob J. Kramer. Prior to joining the Zoo staff, he was employed by the National Museum. He is survived by his wife.

Accused Notaries Lose Their Seals

Commissions Revoked on Charge of Falsifying Certifications.

Commissions of several District notaries public have been revoked for false certification, the Department of Justice announced yesterday.

Warning that further violation of notary laws will result in prosecution, C. E. Stewart, administrative assistant to the Attorney General, said that notaries giving false certification were liable to 1 to 10 years' imprisonment. The canceling of commissions followed an investigation.

Names of notaries deprived of commissions were withheld, the department explaining the offenses apparently were the result of carelessness. Complaints that notaries were attesting signatures on title papers without proper identification of parties involved brought on the inquiry, Stewart said.

Elaborate Place Nets 20 Pints In Liquor Raid

Officers, Posing as Guests, Admit Squad Into Alleged Speakeasy; 3 Jailed.

Aided by three Federal officers, the liquor squad, headed by Lieut. George Little, last night raided what was said to be Washington's most elaborate speakeasy, on the second floor of 817 Thirteenth street northwest. They arrested three men.

Entrance to the popular rendezvous was obtained when two special officers, who had entered earlier in the evening, snapped back the locks on a heavily barred door, allowing the entire squad of more than 10 men to swarm into the room.

Lieut. Little told about 12 customers to leave quietly while his men proceeded to confiscate 20 pints of alleged Canadian whisky and a half gallon of gin.

Crowd Watches Raid.

A crowd of about 400 persons gathered in front of the place while the raid, which occurred at 8:30 p. m., was in progress.

The men, arrested and charged at First Precinct with sale, possession and maintaining a nuisance, gave their names as:

William Ward, 45, 133 Eleventh street northwest; John M. Reed, 48, 712 Twelfth street northwest, and Lawrence Stevens, 31, 725 Seventeenth street northwest.

Freed on $500 Bond.

They were released on $500 bond.

An 8-foot door lined with a ¾-inch thick steel plate which guarded the entrance was removed from its hinges and taken as evidence.

The raid was made on a search warrant issued by the United States attorney's office, according to Lieut. Little.

Evidence for the warrant was obtained several days ago by two plain clothesmen, who purchased several drinks in the place, police said.

Policeman Confesses To Directing Holdup

Changing his former plea of innocence to one of guilty, John F. Patton, suspended Tenth Precinct policeman, yesterday admitted participation in a filling station holdup with two colored men to Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue at District Supreme Court. At his attorney's request, the patrolman's case was referred to the probation office for investigation.

Patton was indicted with James Mason and William Wood, both colored, who are charged with holding up a Dome filling station at Sixteenth and Taylor streets under Patton's direction. Patton was on duty at the time.

A well-dressed young white man yesterday knocked down and robbed Mrs. Bertha G. McCue, 2206 Columbia road northwest, of a purse containing small change, while she was near her home. The man fled in an automobile driven by a companion, Mrs. McCue told police.

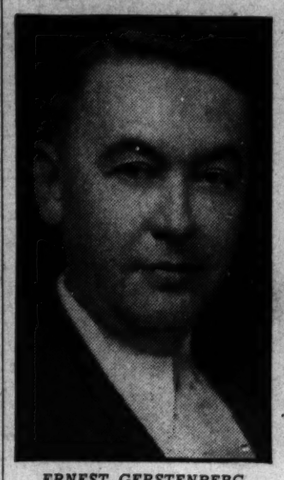
Heads Branch



ERNEST GERSTENBERG, named vice president of the new Hamilton Bank branch at Twentieth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest.

E. Gerstenberg Named Branch Bank Manager

He Will Remain at 20th and Avenue Post for New Hamilton.

Ernest Gerstenberg, a vice president in charge of the branch of Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co. at Pennsylvania avenue and Twentieth street northwest, is the fourth managerial appointee for the proposed Hamilton National Bank of Washington.

He will continue to manage this branch for the Hamilton Bank, it was announced yesterday by Edwin C. Graham, president of the prospective institution.

Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co. is one of the eight restricted banks forming Hamilton National Bank, and the branch which Mr. Gerstenberg will manage is one of eight to serve the Hamilton institution.

Mr. Gerstenberg entered the banking profession as a stenographer with Commercial National Bank. He later went to the former Exchange Bank of Washington as a clerk in 1919. In 1921 he became assitsant cashier of this institution. Three years later, on the merger of this bank with Merchants Bank & Trust Co., Mr. Gerstenberg became an assistant treasurer of the latter organization.

He was promoted to a vice presidency of the latter company in 1927, and was in charge of its branch at Pennsylvania avenue and Twentieth street northwest. He retained this position after the consolidation of Merchants Bank & Trust Co. with Federal-American National Bank in 1930.

G.D. Grosner Heads National Clothiers

Gerald D. Grosner, 1325 F street northwest, new president of the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers, is the youngest man to head the organization, and also the only Washingtonian to hold the office.

He was elected at its annual convention in Chicago. He took an active part in formulating the code of fair competition for retailers under the national recovery act.

Treasury Completes Franklin Bank Survey

Examination by Treasury Department officials of Franklin National Bank, local restricted institution, in connection with its officers' plan to reopen the bank independently under its present title, has been completed, it was announced yesterday. The report has not yet been submitted to the directorate.

Officials of the bank have obtained from depositors representing a majority of its deposits agreements to their plan to reopen the bank. This plan now awaits approval by the Treasury Department.

Two Policemen Freed in Third Degree Charge

Ashley and Williams Are Restored to Duty After Directed Verdict.

Immediately after their acquittal by a directed verdict of not guilty of third-degree charges in Police Court yesterday, Policemen Frank Ashley and C. C. Williams, of the Second Precinct, were restored to duty.

Without hearing defense testimony, the jury was directed to free the two officers by Judge Isaac R. Hitt on the motion of Defense Attorneys E. Russell and Joseph Kelly. Grounds for the motion were discrepancies of the complainant and other Government witnesses.

The complaining witness, George Mahoney, 19, colored, testified upon the stand that Williams and Ashley—to make him confess a housebreaking—squeezed his arm with an iron manacle in addition to boxing his ears and punching him.

Alleged Screams Cited.

Six colored residents of the vicinity of the Second Precinct testified that they heard screams from the police station. They declared that when a protest was shouted the shade in an upstairs window was drawn down.

Lieut. Gustave Lauten, of the Second Precinct, said that he went to the room where Mahoney and the two policemen were when he heard screams. He found Mahoney seated in a chair and the officers leaning against a desk.

Asking what the matter was, Mahoney answered, Lauten said, that the policemen were burning his wrists. He assured himself, he said, that this was untrue, and left the room.

Screams Are Discredited.

"I was within two feet of the door," Lauten said, "when Mahoney screamed again. I immediately swung the door open, but all three men were in the same positions Ashley told me that Mahoney began to holler each time they asked him a question." Lauten was a prosecution witness.

According to doctors at Freedmen's Hospital, Mahoney suffered a slight bump on the head and a mark on the wrist. He did not need medical treatment, it was said.

Ickes Fails to Act On District Works

Early Decision Expected on $25,000,000 Public Building Requests.

The Public Works Administration, confronted with previous applications and other business, yesterday afternoon failed to reach the requests of the District Commissioners for $25,000,000 and of the District Parks Division of the Interior Department for about $12,000,000.

Secretary Ickes, public works administrator, however, stated that an early decision would be reached on the District applications.

District officials yesterday were inclined to place their hopes most strongly upon obtaining grants to start the first unit of the municipal center, to construct a half dozen sewer extensions and, possibly, to build the National Guard Armory.

The subcommittee which heard the Commissioners Wednesday was said to have shown special interest in these projects. The first unit of the municipal center would cost $5,400,000, and the District has $500,000 to add to whatever the Public Works Administration might allocate. The sewer projects would cost $1,719,500 and the armory $2,500,000.
